Country Report: Poland
Acknowledgements & Methodology

This report was written by Karolina Rusiłowicz, in collaboration with Ewa Ostaszewska-Żuk, lawyer at the Helsinki Foundation for Human Rights (HFHR), and Maja Łysienia (legal counsel - radca prawny), with the support of Helsinki Foundation for Human Rights, and was edited by ECRE.

This report draws on information provided by the Office for Foreigners, the Border Guard, the Refugee Board, Voivods, and NGOs in writing and in oral interviews.

The information in this report is up-to-date as of 31 December 2020, unless otherwise stated.

The Asylum Information Database (AIDA)

The Asylum Information Database (AIDA) is coordinated by the European Council on Refugees and Exiles (ECRE). It aims to provide up-to-date information on asylum practice in 23 countries. This includes 19 EU Member States (AT, BE, BG, CY, DE, ES, FR, GR, HR, HU, IE, IT, MT, NL, PL, PT, RO, SE, SI) and 4 non-EU countries (Serbia, Switzerland, Turkey, United Kingdom) which is accessible to researchers, advocates, legal practitioners and the general public through the dedicated website www.asylumineurope.org. The database also seeks to promote the implementation and transposition of EU asylum legislation reflecting the highest possible standards of protection in line with international refugee and human rights law and based on best practice.

This report is part of the Asylum Information Database (AIDA), funded by the European Programme for Integration and Migration (EPIM), a collaborative initiative by the Network of European Foundations, and the European Union’s Asylum, Migration and Integration Fund (AMIF). The contents of this report are the sole responsibility of ECRE and can in no way be taken to reflect the views of EPIM or the European Commission.

Overview of the main changes since the previous report update

The report was previously updated in April 2020.

Asylum procedure

❖ Access to the territory: Access to the Polish territory remains a matter of concern in practice. Border monitoring activities and recent reports confirm the existence of grave systemic irregularities and illegal practices at borders, hindering the access to the asylum procedure. On 23 July 2020, the European Court of Human Rights concluded in M.K. and Others v Poland that the Polish authorities had failed to review the applicants’ requests for international protection and were responsible for collective expulsions, thereby exposing the applicants to a serious risk of chain-refoulement, in violation of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR). Despite the ECtHR judgment, as well as other pending cases at national and European level, the Polish government still denies the existence of unlawful practices at the border. The COVID-19 pandemic and limitations on cross border movement added further obstacles to accessing international protection in Poland.

❖ First instance procedure: In 2020, a total of 2,803 applications for international protection were lodged, thus marking a -31% decreased compared to 2019 (4,095 applications). This is the lowest number of applications since 1999. It is also due to the suspension of activities of the Office for Foreigners from 16 March to 25 May 2020 in the context of COVID-19. The average processing time for a decision on the merits further increased from 152 days in 2019 to 207 in 2020, and the recognition rate at first instance remained very low at 16%. A total of 3,557 cases were pending by the end of 2020. Access to legal assistance remains very limited due to the lack of funding to NGOs.

❖ Second instance procedure: The chances of success of appeals at second instance remain very low. In 2020, out of 1,943 appeals, a total of 1,737 were rejected. The Refugee Board did not grant any refugee status and only granted subsidiary protection to 9 persons throughout the year. Even if the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw did not grant suspensive effect to the majority of appeals against decisions on international protection in 2020, it should be noted that the Refugee Board recommended its members to grant said suspensive effect in times of COVID. Moreover, on the basis of the COVID Law, the time limit to leave Poland was extended by 30 days after the epidemic state (or the state of epidemic threat) is finished.

❖ Nationalities of applicants: While Russia remains the main country of origin, the number of applications lodged by Belarussian nationals has largely increased from 37 in 2019 to 407 in 2020. Belarus was thus the second main country of origin in 2020. The Government introduced many policies enabling Belarussians to enter Poland as migrants – such as visa facilitations and facilitations in obtaining residence permits. According to the Office for Foreigners, Belarussians constitute the second-largest group of foreigners in Poland, with around 28,000 of them holding residence permits in 2020.

Reception conditions

❖ Access to reception conditions: Similarly to the access to the asylum procedure, COVID-19 hampered the access to material reception conditions. The lack of access to material reception conditions is particularly worrying for persons who are waiting to officially apply for asylum as they are not – by law - entitled to any benefits during that waiting time. However, NGOs inform that, in practice, due to the pandemic, some asylum seekers were allowed to access material reception conditions in those circumstances.

❖ Forms and levels of reception conditions: The year 2020 was marked by an increase of persons living outside of reception centres. While there were only 819 persons accommodated in reception centres at the end of 2020, around 2,225 persons were receiving assistance outside from reception centres (compared to 1,295 and 1,640 respectively in 2019). However, the financial allowance that is provided to them to meet basic needs remains insufficient. On average, asylum seeker receives 1.5 to 2 times less than what is essential according to the “social minimum”. Thus, one NGO submitted a complaint to the European Commission pointing to the fact that Poland is not complying with its obligations stemming from Article 17(2) of the recast Reception Conditions Directive (2013/33/EU).

❖ Access to education: The Supreme Audit Office published a report in 2020 demonstrating that, for many years, the Ministry of Education was not showing any interest in the education of foreign children in Poland. The report further shows an incorrect or insufficient implementation of national legislation by schools in this regard. Moreover, during COVID 19 asylum-seeking children faced obstacles in participating to online lessons due to a shortage of computers and other necessary tools.

Detention of asylum seekers

❖ Detention capacity: Due to COVID-19 pandemic the number of available places in detention centres has been reduced in Białystok, Lesznowola and Biała Podlaska. One section of the detention centre in Białystok was further closed for renovation.

❖ Detention of children: The best interest of the child is not properly assessed in detention proceedings. The courts rely on motions issued by Border Guard for detention, without a proper assessment of individual circumstances and regardless of the best interest of the child. Experts’ opinion are very rarely requested and psychological opinions stating that detention has a negative impact on the child's well-being are disregarded in practice. Children cannot exercise their right to be heard as they are not involved in detention proceedings. Moreover, detention is not ruled for the shortest period of time and there are little efforts to reduce the duration of detention of children.

❖ Alternatives to detention: The use of alternatives to detention continues to be the exception and has significantly decreased in 2020. During that year, only 1,023 alternatives to detention were ordered, compared to more than 3,000 in 2019 – although it should be noted that these figures do not refer strictly to asylum seekers but to other foreigners as well. The courts often claim that applying alternatives to detention is impossible, as they have no regular place of residency or savings, ignoring the fact that asylum seekers are entitled to stay in reception centres and receive pocket money.

❖ Legal assistance in detention: Foreigners are not informed about their right to legal assistance to appeal against a detention order by the court. As a result, foreigners are not able to present their views before the court decides on detention.

Content of international protection

❖ Residence permits: During the COVID-19 pandemic, the validity of the residence cards provided to beneficiaries of international protection was prolonged by law until 30 days after the end of the epidemiological state in Poland.

❖ Integration: Studies show that housing is one of the major issues for both asylum seekers and beneficiaries of international protection in Poland. Inadequate quality of housing results in slowing down the integration process of foreigners to the new socio-cultural conditions of their host country, and may have a negative impact on their physical and mental health. Another important gap identified relates to the lack of specialised medical services for victims of torture or traumatised refugees.

The Office for Foreigners (OFF) is the authority responsible for examining applications for international protection and competent to take decisions at first instance. According to information provided by the OFF on 16 July 2019, the total number of staff amounted to 413 officials, out of whom the large majority were permanent staff (363 permanent staff and 50 temporary staff). The number of caseworkers was 34. In 2020, 25 caseworkers were responsible for conducting interviews and examining applications for international protection.

Caseworkers are trained on all aspects of the asylum procedure, in particular drafting of decisions and conducting interviews. The training is provided internally as well as through the European Asylum Support Office (EASO). In addition, training for staff members conducted by UNHCR is envisaged, although no further information is available on which topics. Specific training is also provided by psychologists and EASO to staff members of the Department on Proceedings for International Protection on interviewing vulnerable groups immediately upon recruitment. Although there is no specialised unit for vulnerable groups within the OFF, only qualified staff members are allowed to decide on applications from persons with special needs. In 2020 the number of such staff members was 21.5

4 Labelled as “accelerated procedure” in national law. See Article 31(8) recast Asylum Procedures Directive.

As regards the internal structure of the OFF, the Department on Proceedings in International Protection of the OFF is divided into three units handling regular procedures, while one unit is responsible for accelerated and inadmissibility procedures. The OFF has established geographical departments, whereby the Department on Proceedings for International Protection is divided into Units handling asylum applications from persons originating from Chechnya (Unit II), from the former Soviet Union (Unit IV) and from other countries (Unit III).

The Head of the Office for Foreigners is appointed by the Prime Minister, upon the request of the Ministry of Interior and Administration, among persons applying via open call.6 There is no regular monitoring of the decisions, but in practice caseworkers fill in a special questionnaire which is made available to the Heads of Units and Departments of the OFF to review their activities. There is no quality control mechanism after a decision has been issued by the OFF, however. Monitoring can be conducted at any time by the responsible Ministry or the Supreme Chamber of Control (Najwyższa Izba Kontroli). According to the Office for Foreigners, the Ministry cannot be involved in any way in the decision-making process e.g. by issuing binding instructions or by intervening in specific individual cases. In high profile cases, an intervention is probable according to NGO lawyers working on specific cases.

It should be further noted that another activity covered by the OFF are reception facilities for asylum seekers and beneficiaries of international protection. The OFF is thus responsible for the management of all the reception centres. While the OFF has delegated this responsibility to civil-society organisations and private contractors, it monitors the situation in the centres through the Office’s employees working in the centre and through inspections that are conducted twice a year (see Housing). Asylum seekers can complain to the OFF about the situation in the centres.

5. Short overview of the asylum procedure

An asylum application may be lodged either on the territory or at the border or from a detention centre, in all cases through a Border Guard (SG) officer who will transfer the request to the Head of the Office for Foreigners.

First instance: The main asylum authority is the Head of the Office for Foreigners, which falls under the Ministry of Interior and Administration. It is an administrative authority specialised in asylum and is responsible for examining, granting, refusing and withdrawing protection, in Poland, as well as for Dublin procedures (see Number of staff and nature of the determining authority). A Dublin procedure is applied whenever there is evidence or any sign that another State may be responsible for examining the claim.7 However, Poland is principally a “receiving” country, rather than a country which requests and carries out transfers to other countries.

In Poland a single procedure applies and includes the examination of conditions to grant refugee status and subsidiary protection. A regular asylum procedure therefore has four possible outcomes:

- The applicant is granted refugee status;
- The applicant is granted subsidiary protection;
- The application is rejected;
- The proceedings are discontinued e.g. when the applicant is no longer on the territory of Poland.

5 Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.
6 Article 17 of the Law on Foreigners.
7 The Dublin procedure should be applied in every case: Article 36(1) Law on Protection.
In the two last cases, the determining authority informs the Border Guard about either one of these circumstances, subsequently allowing for return proceedings to be initiated.

Admissibility procedures are most often applied in case of a subsequent application, considered to be based on the same circumstances. There is no border procedure.

Appeal: The Refugee Board is a second-instance administrative body competent to handle appeals against first instance negative decisions in all types of procedures, including Dublin. Appeals before the Refugee Board have automatic suspensive effect and must be lodged within 14 calendar days after the decision has been notified to the applicant; the only exemption to this is the appeal in the accelerated procedure which must be submitted in 7 days. The procedure is not adversarial and there is no hearing.

The Refugee Board may then:

1. Annul the first instance decision, in case it considers that essential information is lacking in order to decide on the appeal and further investigation by the Office for Foreigners is needed;
2. Overturn the Office for Foreigners negative decision i.e. grant refugee status or subsidiary protection; or
3. Confirm the decision of the Office for Foreigners, which is most often the case.

After the administrative appeal procedure before the Refugee Board, there is a possibility of an onward appeal before the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw. Only points of law can be litigated at this stage. This onward appeal does not have a suspensive effect on the Refugee Board's decision. Upon request of the applicant, the court may suspend a decision for the time of the court proceedings, if its enforcement would cause irreversible harm. The court procedure is adversarial.

The ruling of the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw can be appealed to the Supreme Administrative Court by lodging a cassation complaint, based exclusively on the legal conditions foreseen in the law. The Court may suspend execution of the decision for the time of the court proceedings upon request.

There is also a national protection status called ‘asylum’. A foreigner can be granted ‘asylum’ in a separate procedure if it is necessary to provide them with protection, but only if it is in the interest of the state. Political aspects are, therefore, taken into account in this procedure. Throughout the years, the procedure has been very rarely applied (4 positive cases in 2020, one case in 2019 and none in 2018).

B. Access to the procedure and registration

1. Access to the territory and push backs

   Indicators: Access to the Territory

   1. Are there any reports (NGO reports, media, testimonies, etc.) of people refused entry at the border and returned without examination of their protection needs?  ☒ Yes ☐ No
   2. Is there a border monitoring in place?  ☒ Yes ☐ No
      ❖ If so, who is responsible for border monitoring?  ☐ National authorities  ☒ NGOs  ☐ Other
      ❖ If so, how often is border monitoring carried out?  ☒ Regularly\(^8\) ☐ Rarely ☐ Never Border monitoring is enforced on the basis of an agreement between UNHCR for Central Europe and the Border Guards Headquarters of 21 October 2009. The monitoring visits are conducted by the NGO Halina Niec Legal Aid Center. According to UNHCR, visits take places 12 times a year, i.e. once a month – although in 2020 they were limited to 5 due to the COVID-19. They are carried out at both border crossing points in Terespol (Belarusian border) and Medyka (Ukrainian border). Sometimes the visits cover interviews with foreigners at the border. The visits are mostly announced, but may also sometimes be unannounced. The reports from these visits are not publicly available.

The previous updates of this report available here referred to persisting cases of persons denied access to the territory at the border-crossing point in Terespol which has been the main entry point in Poland for asylum seekers with a significant deterioration of the situation in 2016.

Throughout the past years, independent monitoring visits to the border crossing point in Terespol were held by the Commissioner for Human Rights, Amnesty International, and Human Rights Watch as well as other local NGOs such as the Legal Intervention Association (SIP) and Helsinki Foundation for Human Rights (HFHR). They confirmed the existence of grave systemic irregularities with accepting applications for international protection at the border. There have been numerous reports on this situation and several cases have been brought before the ECtHR (see below). The most recent information on this issue was gathered for the purpose of the submission to UN Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants on push back practices, prepared by a Commissioner for Human Rights, and the Consortium of NGOs.

Most importantly, on 23 July 2020, the ECtHR published its judgment in M.K. and Others v Poland concerning the repeated refusals of Polish border authorities to enable persons in need for protection to apply for international protection. The facts of the case represent the very substance of the problem at the Polish border. The case concerned various applications submitted by Russian nationals, including children, who attempted to cross the Terespol border between Poland and Belarus on multiple occasions. The applicants, who were attempting to flee from Chechnya, stated that they feared for their safety and that they wished to apply for international protection. They were turned away by Polish border authorities on the basis that they had not stated that they would face persecution in Chechnya.

The Court concluded that the Polish authorities had failed to review the applicants’ requests for international protection, in compliance with their procedural obligations, contrary to Article 3 ECHR. Moreover, by failing to allow the applicants to remain on Polish territory pending the examination of their applications, the Polish authorities knowingly exposed the applicants to a serious risk of chain-refoulement and treatment prohibited by Article 3 ECHR in Belarus. Having determined that the applicants’ removals amounted to expulsion, the Court had to assess whether it was collective in nature. It noted, inter alia, that while the applicants had been interviewed by border authorities and individual decisions had been issued for the applicants, these decisions did not adequately reflect the applicants’ fear of persecution and had, instead, emphasized arguments supporting the identification of the applicants as economic migrants. Moreover, the Court identified that this was a common practice of misrepresenting statements of individuals attempting to cross the border. It therefore concluded that the decisions to turn away the applicants were taken without proper regard to individual situations amounted to a collective expulsion contrary to Article 4 Protocol No. 4. The Court added that the applicants did not have access to effective remedies to challenge the refusal of entry amounted to a violation of Article 13 ECHR in conjunction with Article 3 and Article 4 Protocol No. 4.

It is also worth noting that the Polish authorities refused to implement interim measures granted by the Court in this case, which required the authorities to refrain from returning the applicants to Belarus. The Court found that it was contrary to Article 34 ECHR. The judgement is final.

The ECtHR communicated also other cases against Poland, all concerning the same issue: D.A. and others v. Poland (application no 51246/17), Sherov and others v. Poland (application no 54029/17), to be examined together with three other applications (no 54117/17 Saygoziev v. Poland; no 54128/17 Salimov v. Poland and no 54255/17 Mazhitov v. Poland).

Despite the ECtHR judgement, repeated reports and interventions, the Polish government still denies unlawful practices at the border. Contrary to the ECtHR findings, the government states that the applicants in the M.K. and others’ case were economic migrants and they did not ask for international protection. They were not within the Polish territory when the interim measure was granted by the ECtHR, so it could not have been applied, because interim measure cannot constitute a basis for entry or for an application for international protection.

With pro bono assistance of lawyers, the cases of push backs were also brought before the domestic courts. There have been 25 judgements delivered between 2015 and 2018 by the Supreme Administrative Court and all of these cases resulted in revoking administrative decisions on refusal of entry issued by Border Guards. The Court indicated in numerous cases that interviews conducted at the border must be recorded in the form of protocols signed by both Border Guard officers and foreigners. Although the administrative courts annulled the unlawful decisions on the refusal of entry, in most of the cases administrative proceedings were discontinued by the decisions of the courts (due to absence of the applicant). According to the instructions in the judgements, the proceedings on refusal of entry cannot be reopened and re-examined, because there is no case as such for the time being (as the proceedings were discontinued). Once the applicant arrives again at the border, new proceedings are initiated. If there is a new proceeding concerning the refusal of entry, the judgement of the court is not applicable in this case, even if it concerns the same person. This means that applicants do not gain the right to enter Poland if they arrive at the border again, even after a judgement in their favour. At the same time, the Ministry of the Interior and the Administration refused to introduce amendments to national law to ensure its compliance with the established case-law of administrative courts.

The COVID-19 pandemic and limitations on cross border movement added further obstacles to accessing international protection in Poland. As the Commissioner for Human Rights pointed out, persons intending... to apply for international protection were not included in the regulation of the Ministry of Interior and Administration of 13 March 2020 on the temporary suspension or limitation on border traffic at specific border crossing points as persons allowed to enter Poland during the pandemic, which did not guarantee access to procedure. Also, rail connections were suspended, including the rail border crossing in Terespol. According to the Border Guard Headquarter however, applying for international protection was made possible for those in need.27

The overall number of applicants in 2020 was 2,803, thus marking a -31% decreased in comparison to 4,095 applicants in 2019. It is the lowest number of applicants since 1999.28 In April-July 2020 there was no application for international protection submitted at the border crossing point in Terespol nor in Medyka (main entry border crossing point to Poland from Ukraine).29

According to the statistics provided by the Border Guard for 2020, only 448 persons applied for international protection at the border crossing point in Terespol,30 while in 2019 there were a total of 1,610 persons. In 2020, 1,989 persons were refused entry in Terespol and the appeals against these decisions were submitted by 162 of them (while in 2019, 4,378 persons were refused entry and 81 persons appealed against these decisions).31

2. Registration of the asylum application

3. Are registration and lodging distinct stages in the law or in practice? ☒ Yes ☐ No

4. Is the authority with which the application is lodged also the authority responsible for its examination? ☐ Yes ☒ No

5. Can an application be lodged at embassies, consulates or other external representations? ☐ Yes ☒ No

Applications for international protection should be submitted to the Border Guard (SG) which will then transfer them to the Head of the Office for Foreigners. The Head of Office for Foreigners is competent to examine the claim, so the SG cannot refuse to receive the application.

If the application is lodged at the border or in detention, the relevant authority receiving it is the SG unit responsible for the border check point or the detention facility. If the application is lodged in the territory, it can be submitted to any SG unit. There is also a possibility to declare an intention to apply for international protection by post for i.e. elderly persons, persons with disabilities, pregnant women, persons in hospitals or imprisoned.32

Due to COVID-19 pandemic, direct customer service in the Office for Foreigners was suspended on 16 March 2020. Personal visits in the office were possible only in matters ‘absolutely necessary’ and only after a prior telephone appointment. Foreigners were asked to contact the Office for Foreigners in writing (by post and e-mail) or by phone. In the building of the Office for Foreigners in Warsaw, there is also a Border Guard unit, where applications for international protection can be submitted. The direct customer service was resumed by the Office on 25 May 2020 and since then service is provided in accordance with the sanitary rules resulting from the pandemic in Poland.\(^{33}\)

When applying for international protection, one has to submit their travel document (e.g. passport) to the SG. Travel documents are kept by the Head of the Office for Foreigners. Asylum seekers are issued a temporary ID document entitling them to stay on the territory of Poland, the Foreigner’s Identity Temporary Certificate (Tymczasowe Zaświadczenie Tożsamości Cudzoziemca). The document is initially valid for 90 days – 10 days in case of Dublin returnees – then for 6 months and can be prolonged every 6 months by the Head of the Office for Foreigners until the end of the asylum procedure.\(^{34}\) Due to COVID-19 pandemic, the validity of temporary ID was prolonged automatically until 30 days after the epidemic state in Poland was terminated.\(^{35}\)

The SG is entitled to inform an asylum seeker that it is impossible to lodge an application for international protection on a day when said individual comes to the SG unit. However, the SG must then set a date and place when it will be possible.\(^{36}\) In such a situation (e.g. when there is a need to ensure an interpreter is available), the intention to apply for protection is laid down in a protocol and registered and the Border Guard has 3 working days to ensure the application is lodged and registered (in case of massive influx it is 10 working days). During this time decision on return cannot be executed.\(^{37}\)

According to the Office for Foreigners (OFF) in 2019, 165 persons declared their intention to apply for international protection, which was eventually registered subsequently.\(^{38}\) NGOs report that the waiting period to lodge an application at the OFF in Warsaw was usually a couple of days in 2019.\(^{39}\)

In 2020, when the applications for international protection could not be lodged, mostly the ‘declarations of intention to submit the asylum application’ were accepted and registered by the Border Guards. However by law, the persons who ‘declared the intention to submit the asylum application’ are not covered by the medical and social assistance since they are not considered yet as applicants under national law.\(^{40}\) In a letter to the Ministry of the Interior and Administration, the Consortium of NGOs raised the need to include these persons in the social system for asylum seekers.\(^{41}\) According to the Office for Foreigners, there were 298 persons who declared the intention to apply for international protection in 2020,\(^{42}\) compared to 165 in 2019.

C. Procedures

1. Regular procedure

1.1. General (scope, time limits)

The Head of Office for Foreigners is a state authority which is responsible, among others, for taking first instance decisions on granting and withdrawing protection status, deciding on the state’s responsibility under the Dublin Regulation and on social assistance provided in the asylum procedure. The Head of the Office for Foreigners is also a second-instance authority in residence permit procedures.

The time limit set in law for the Head of the Office for Foreigners to make a decision on the asylum application is 6 months.\(^{43}\) This period can be prolonged to 15 months if the case is considered complicated (319 cases in 2018),\(^{44}\) if there are many asylum seekers applying at the same time (11 cases in 2018) or if the asylum seeker did not fulfill the obligation of presenting all the evidence and documents or attending the interview (1 case in 2018).\(^ {45}\) The Office for Foreigners did not provide detailed figures for the years 2019 and 2020, but reported that 2,094 decisions were issued within the 6 months-time limit in 2020. The Office stressed that there are no formal guidelines on what is considered a complicated case and the decision in this regard is taken individually.\(^ {46}\)

In 2020 the average processing time for a decision on the merits was 207 days (in comparison to 152 days in 2019). The longest processing time took 2,345 days and the shortest 1 day.\(^ {47}\) The COVID-19 pandemic had an impact on the processing time of applications. As the Office for Foreigners informs, from 16 March to 25 May 2020 direct service was suspended and face to face interviews were not carried out. From 31 March to 23 May 2020 all the time limits in the administrative proceedings were also suspended.

According to the law, if the decision is not issued within 6 months, the general provisions on inaction of the administrative authority apply,\(^ {48}\) therefore the Head of the Office for Foreigners should inform the applicant in writing about the reasons of delay and the applicant can submit a complaint to the second-instance authority. In practice, information about the reasons for delay is provided in a very general way and complaints to the second-instance authority hardly ever happen. The most significant consequence for the applicant of not receiving a decision on an asylum application within 6 months is a possibility to apply for a work permit on this basis (see Access to the Labour Market).\(^ {49}\) The Head of the Office for Foreigners then issues a certificate, which – together with a temporary ID – gives a right to work in Poland until the end of the procedure. The certificate is also valid for appeal proceedings and onward appeal court proceedings if the suspensive effect is granted.

As of 31 December 2020, there were 3,557 persons whose cases were pending before the Office for Foreigners.\(^ {50}\)

1.2. Prioritised examination and fast-track processing

There is no legal basis for prioritising certain types of cases. The Office for Foreigners has confirmed that in practice cases of vulnerable applicants and detainees are prioritised if this is possible. In 2020 mainly the cases of the Belarussian nationals were prioritised.51

1.3. Personal interview

Indicators: Regular Procedure: Personal Interview

1. Is a personal interview of the asylum seeker in most cases conducted in practice in the regular procedure? ☒ Yes ☐ No
   ❖ If so, are interpreters available in practice, for interviews? ☒ Yes ☐ No

2. In the regular procedure, is the interview conducted by the authority responsible for taking the decision? ☒ Yes ☐ No

3. Are interviews conducted through video conferencing? ☒ Frequently ☐ Rarely ☐ Never

4. Can the asylum seeker request the interviewer and the interpreter to be of a specific gender? ☒ Yes ☐ No
   ❖ If so, is this applied in practice, for interviews? ☒ Yes ☐ No

Personal interviews are conducted by the Office for Foreigners and are generally mandatory in a regular procedure, unless:

❖ A decision on granting refugee status can be issued on the basis of evidence already gathered; or
❖ An applicant is not fit to be interviewed (e.g. due to health or psychological problems).52

The Office for Foreigners does not collect data on the numbers of interviews.53

Interpretation

Interpretation is ensured respectively by the Head of the Office for Foreigners (for the first instance proceedings) and the Refugee Board (for the appeal proceedings); i.e. they are responsible for securing interpretation and appointing interpreters. The interview should be conducted in a language understandable for the applicant. In the asylum application, the asylum seeker has to declare their mother tongue as well as any fluent knowledge of other languages. Applicants can further request the interviewer and/or interpreter to be of a specific gender.54

The contract established between the Office for Foreigners and interpretation services regulates the quality, liability, and specifies the field (asylum). Interpretation is available in most of the languages spoken by the asylum applicants in Poland. In 2018 reported problems concerned very rare languages, like Sinhala, Tamil, Bengali (Bangla) or Sorani dialect of Kurdish. Interpreters of these languages are available, but not at any time, that is why the waiting time for interview can be prolonged.55 In 2019, NGOs reported cases where applicants were held responsible for inconsistencies in testimonies, which appeared because of improper interpretation.56 In 2020 there was a temporary problem with Tamil language and 1 person was heard in English with his consent. The Office for Foreigners also reports that in 2020 there was a problem with approaching a female interpreter for some of rare languages and with the limited number of interpreters, which in 2020 meant that if someone was in quarantine, the interview had to be postponed.\textsuperscript{57}

Recording and report

Audio or video recording is possible under national legislation if an applicant was informed about this fact and technical means allow for it, \textsuperscript{58} but this is not implemented in practice because there are no technical means for it (no cases in 2020).

The law provides that a copy of the report of the interview should be handed in to the applicant after a personal interview. In some cases the applicants do not take or keep them, but they can ask for a copy at any stage of the proceedings. The report is prepared in Polish and contains all the questions asked and responses received, but it is not a verbatim transcript. Although at the end of the interview the report is read to the applicant in an understandable language and before signing it, interviewees can make corrections (and are informed about such possibility), NGOs stress, that there is a recurring problem with this way of registering the interviews. Very often it happens that only after the interview the applicant goes through the copy of the interview report with a person who knows Polish and their national language and the inconsistencies in testimonies come to light. However, any comments and clarifications made in the appeal or in subsequent proceedings are generally not taken into account. Some NGOs suggest that recording the interview would allow to establish what was said during the interview and whether it was translated properly.\textsuperscript{58}

In 2019 videoconferencing was used for interviews in the detention centres. NGOs found this practice problematic in terms of interpretation and with regard to vulnerable applicants, when presence of psychologist is required. In 2020 videoconferencing was applied on a larger scale because of the pandemic, but the applicants still had to come to the Office for Foreigners. Interviewee and interviewer were sitting in separates room and upon the termination of the interview, the interviewee still had to sign the protocol of the interview. According to the Office for Foreigners, protocols are mainly prepared on the computer, not handwritten.\textsuperscript{60}

\subsection*{1.4. Appeal}

Indicators: Regular Procedure: Appeal

1. Does the law provide for an appeal against the first instance decision in the regular procedure?
   - Yes
   - No
   - Judicial
   - Administrative

   - If yes, is it suspensive
     - Yes
     - No

2. Average processing time for the appeal body to make a decision in 2020: 108 days

\subsubsection*{1.4.1. Appeal before the Refugee Board}

Decisions of the Head of the Office for Foreigners in the regular procedure can be appealed to the Refugee Board within 14 calendar days. The decision (without a justification) as well as guidance on how to appeal is translated into the language that the applicant for asylum had previously declared as understandable; the motivation of the decision is not translated. The applicant can submit the appeal in their own language.

\begin{itemize}

  \item \textsuperscript{58} Article 44(5) of the Law on Protection.
  \item \textsuperscript{60} Letter from the Office for Foreigners to HFHR no BSZ.074.3.2021/RW received on 26 January 2021.
\end{itemize}
The Refugee Board is an administrative body, consisting of twelve members, supported in their work by six employees, not involved in the decision-making process. In the regular procedure, decisions are taken by three members. The procedure includes an assessment of the facts and there is a possibility of hearing applicants. The Head of the Office for Foreigners is not a party to these proceedings. The time limit set in law for the appeal procedure is 1 month. The appeal has suspensive effect. Neither hearings nor decisions of the Refugee Board are made public.

In 2020, the average processing time for the Refugee Board to issue a decision in appeal proceedings was 108 days for the cases which started and finished in 2020. The longest processing time in 2020 took 1,355 days (in 2019 it was 327 days) and the shortest - 1 day. In 5 cases (down from 21 in 2019) the Refugee Board decided to hear the applicant (but the Refugee Board stresses that applicants were also asked for written statements), and there were no cases of hearing a witness in 2020 (just like in 2019).

In 2020, according to the Refugee Board, there were no prolonged pauses in the decision making process, although the offices were closed during lockdowns and hearings were impossible in practice. According to NGOs there were cases where access to files was impossible because the office was closed.

The Refugee Board may annul the first instance decision, overturn it, or confirm it. In 2020, appeals were submitted in case of 1,943 applicants. In case of 1,737 applicants the negative decision was upheld, meaning that the chances of success of appeals are very low in practice. In 2020, refugee status was not granted at all by the appeal body and subsidiary protection was granted in case of 9 persons.

When the negative decision or a decision on discontinuing the procedure for international protection is served, the person concerned has 30 days to leave Poland (unless they are in detention). During these 30 days their stay in Poland is considered legal. Nevertheless the Refugee Board also informs the Border Guard that the final negative decision on international protection has been served and the Border Guards is obliged to establish if there are legal grounds to launch return proceedings.

In 2020, on the basis of the COVID Law, the time limit to leave Poland has been prolonged until 30 days after the epidemic state (or the state of epidemic threat) is finished.

1.4.2. Onward appeal before the Administrative Court

After the administrative appeal procedure before the Refugee Board, the decision of the latter can be further appealed to the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw within 30 days, but only points of law can be litigated at this stage. The case is revised ex tunc. There is no fee for the procedure. This onward appeal does not have a suspensive effect on a final administrative decision. However, asylum seekers can ask the court to suspend a decision for the time of the court proceedings, if the decision can cause irreversible harm (so together with the complaint a motion to grant suspensive effect has to be submitted). Also, the authority issuing the decision (in this case the Refugee Board) can grant suspensive effect on their own decision ex officio or upon request.

72 Article 61(3) of the Law on proceedings before administrative courts.
73 Article 61(2)1 of the Law on the proceedings before administrative courts.
The court procedure is adversarial; both the Refugee Board and the asylum seeker are parties before the court. However, the court cannot decide on the merits (i.e. grant protection), but only annul the administrative decision or uphold it. The ruling of the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw can itself be appealed to the Supreme Administrative Court by lodging a cassation complaint, based exclusively on the legal conditions foreseen in the law, also accompanied by a request for suspension of the administrative decision.

The Law on Foreigners separates asylum proceedings and return proceedings, which means that a return decision is not issued within the asylum procedure. Return proceedings are started after the final administrative decision refusing international protection is served to the person concerned (in case of detainees – while in case of applicants who are not detained, they have 30 days to leave the territory). However, under the current legal framework it may happen that the return proceedings lead to a return decision before the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw examines the appeal against the final administrative decision refusing protection to the applicant.

In numerous cases in 2018, the Supreme Administrative Court decided not to grant suspensive effect to an appeal against a final negative decision on international protection, on the basis that it does not impose an obligation to leave the territory (only a return decision does so), and therefore the condition of a risk of irreparable harm is not fulfilled.\(^74\) However, in a ruling of 20 December 2018, the Supreme Administrative Court held that, although in numerous cases the same Court was of the opinion that suspensive effect due to the threat of irreparable harm can only be granted to an appeal against a final return decision, this can be an insufficient safeguard and therefore decided to suspend the enforcement of the final negative asylum decision.\(^75\) According to the information provided by the Voivodeship Administrative Court, in 2018 in 86 cases the Court refused to grant suspensive effect and only in one case decided to grant suspensive effect to the onward appeal against a negative asylum decision.\(^76\)

In 2019 the trend has changed and the court started to grant a suspension in those cases (the Voivodeship Administrative Court decided to suspend the enforcement of the negative asylum decision in 34 cases and refused it in 21 cases).\(^77\) In these cases article 46(5) of EU Asylum Procedures Directive is brought up in favour of suspension. More importantly, the Supreme Administrative Court issued judgements in 2019 in which the suspensive effect was upheld.\(^78\)

However, in 2020 the issue has become problematic again. In 2020 the Voivodeship Administrative Court granted suspensive effect in 80 cases and in 91 cases refused to grant suspensive effect to any complaint regarding international protection (that means that these statistics cover also cases of deprivation of international protection) as a response to 210 motions for granting suspensive effect.\(^79\) However, on 28 April 2020 the Refugee Board made a resolution recommending its members to grant suspensive effect to the decisions on international protection, if there was a complaint to the court submitted against this decision in the time of COVID-19 pandemic (or pandemic threat) and some NGOs confirm that there were such cases in practice.\(^80\) Moreover, on the basis of the COVID Law, the time limit to leave Poland has been extended by an additional 30 days after the epidemic state (or the state of epidemic threat) is finished.\(^81\) Therefore access to appeal before a court may not have been an issue in 2020, but still there is a procedural gap in this regard.

81 Article 15zzza COVID Law.
Overall, the administrative court proceedings in Poland raise questions of compliance with the EU law, in particular in light of the judgment of the CJEU of 29 July 2019, C-556/17, Alekszij Torubarov v. Bevándorlási és Menekültügyi Hivatal, which foresees that the administrative court should be given powers enabling enforcement of final court judgments. These powers must include the possibility of issuing a judgment on the merits if a final judgment is not complied with in subsequent administrative proceedings. Yet, in Poland the law does not provide such a possibility – i.e. the administrative courts do not decide on the merits and can not grant international protection.82

According to the statistics of the Refugee Board, in 2020 there were 336 (up from 293 in 2019) complaints submitted to the Voivodeship Administrative Court against the decisions of the Refugee Board. The Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw annulled the decision of the administrative authorities (either of the Refugee Board or both decision of the first and second instance) in 31 cases, and in 212 cases it dismissed the complaint. In 34 cases cassation complaints to the Supreme Administrative Court were lodged. The Supreme Administrative Court annulled the judgment of the Voivodeship Administrative Court as well as the decision of the Refugee Board in 1 case. In 24 cases the cassation complaint was dismissed.83

A State legal aid system was introduced in 2015 and it covers:

- Legal information, provided by the employees of the Office for Foreigners in cases concerning revocation of protection in the first instance; and
- Legal aid in the second instance provided by advocates, legal counsellors and NGOs. It involves preparing appeal and providing legal representation in second instance in cases concerning:
  1) refusal of refugee status or subsidiary protection
  2) discontinuance of the procedure
  3) refusal of reopening the procedure,
  4) Dublin procedure,
  5) inadmissibility of the application
  6) revocation of protection status.84

In any type of decision mentioned above, issued by the first instance authority, the instruction on the right to free legal aid is included and is translated into the language understood by the applicant.85

83 Information provided by the Refugee Board, 24 February 2021. This data may be not fully coherent because of delays in transferring information on judgements.
84 Article 69c-69m Law on Protection.
85 Article 53(1) and 54e(1) Law on Protection.
The system is managed by the Head of the Office for Foreigners who contracts lawyers, legal counsellors and NGO lawyers. Legal aid is provided by approximately 140 legal counsellors, 200 advocates and 3 NGOs: the Association for Legal Intervention (SIP), The Rule of Law Institute and Halina Niec Legal Aid Centre. In 2020, 311 applicants appealing the decision of the Head of the Office for Foreigners benefited from the free legal aid system. Taking into account the overall number of appeals (1,943) in 2020, the capacity for providing legal aid within the system funded by the State is definitely not sufficient.

The Association for Legal Intervention (SIP) as one of the few NGOs providing legal aid within the system is also of the opinion that providing assistance only in the second instance is not enough. Main evidence is gathered in the first instance proceedings – that is when the applicants are interviewed, country of origin information is collected and witnesses can be heard. And this is the phase of the proceedings, where cost-free legal assistance is not provided (i.e. private lawyer can be arranged, but it means the applicant bears the costs). SIP gives examples of cases, where some evidence from the country of origin were presented in the appeal were not taken into account by the second instance authority, because the applicants should have presented them in the first instance. The argument, that the applicant had not been advised by the lawyer on what evidence can be relevant for the procedure was not considered.

There is also a separate free legal aid system for the administrative court proceedings (onward appeal). Representation before administrative courts can be provided only by professional legal representatives (lawyers, legal counsellors). There is a general possibility to apply for a cost-free professional legal representation before these courts on the same rules that apply to polish citizens (i.e. insufficient financial resources). There is a form, in Polish, available in the court or on the court’s website (not in the offices of administrative authorities examining the claim) In 2020 the Voivodship Administrative Court in Warsaw (examining all the complaints against decisions regarding international protection) granted free legal assistance in 87 cases and refused to grant it in 30 cases.

For the legal assistance provided in detention see Judicial review of the detention order.

Before the system of legal aid was created, legal assistance had been provided by NGOs under European Refugee Fund (ERF)-funded projects. This funding, now provided under AMIF, practically has been suspended since mid-2015. Many NGOs, with qualified lawyers, continued to provide free legal assistance in the proceedings (including first instance), but this assistance is not provided on a large scale nor is it stable, since it often depends on short-term funding within projects. Due to the lack of funding NGOs generally lack resources and cannot provide assistance to applicants on a wider scale covering e.g. the presence of a lawyer during any interview.

Application of the Dublin criteria

As the statistics show, Poland is mainly a country receiving Dublin requests from other countries. The most frequent case is when an applicant has his application under examination in Poland and made another application in another Member State (or stays there without a residence document).

The dependent persons and discretionary clauses

The humanitarian clause was applied in 8 cases in 2020, while the sovereignty clause was not used at all. No information on the circumstances was provided.

2.2. Procedure

Indicators: Dublin: Procedure

1. Is the Dublin procedure applied by the authority responsible for examining asylum applications?
   ☒ Yes ☐ No

2. On average, how long does a transfer take after the responsible Member State has accepted responsibility? 3-19 days

The Head of the Office for Foreigners is responsible for Dublin procedures and the Border Guard for transfers. All asylum seekers over the age of 14 are fingerprinted and checked in Eurodac at the time of lodging their asylum application. In all cases the Head of the Office for Foreigners applies the Dublin procedure. The ruling of the CJEU in Mengesteab, allowing Member States to apply the Dublin procedure as of the moment of registration before the lodging of the application, has not changed the practice of the Office for Foreigners, which starts the Dublin procedure as of the moment of lodging of the application.

According to the Office for Foreigners, if the authorities decide to apply the Dublin procedure, asylum seekers are informed about it. They are informed about the following steps of the procedure e.g. decision received from another Member State, or the need to submit additional documents.

Individualised guarantees

91 Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.
92 Article 36(2) Law on Protection.
93 Article 36(1) Law on Protection.
The Tarakhel v. Switzerland judgment of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR) has not influenced the practice of the Head of the Office for Foreigners in Dublin cases vis-à-vis Italy in 2015-2017, as there are not many Dublin cases concerning Italy. The Office for Foreigners noted however that the only foreigners transferred from Poland to Italy are single men, while vulnerable persons are allowed to stay in Poland.

Also in 2018 there were no cases where the Tarakhel judgment would have been relevant. In 2020 the Office informed that every case is examined individually. In 2020 Dublin requests were submitted to any country and depending on the reply, every case is considered individually. Guarantees regarding the compliance with EU directives on international protection are automatically required from Greece and Bulgaria.

Transfers

According to the Border Guard, the transfer is organised within days from the moment the decision on transfer becomes final, bearing in mind the time in which other states expect to be informed about the transfer in advance and depending on the availability of plane tickets, etc.

However, in 2020, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the waiting period was longer. Dublin transfers were suspended between 16 March and 8 July 2020. Subsequently, the transfers were carried out, but the procedure of testing for COVID on 72 hours before the plane was to land in the territory of another Member State as well as waiting for results ended up delaying the purchase of plane tickets. Apart from that some Member States expected additional documents regarding health (e.g. Spain).

Asylum seekers are transferred under escort only when there is a risk of absconding or if they have already absconded before. According to the Office for Foreigners, it concerns applicants staying in detention, but there are also cases where applicants staying outside the centres were transferred under escort. The Border Guards reported that in 2020, 1 person was transferred from Poland under escort.

There is also a legal basis for detention in Dublin outgoing procedures, based on the risk of absconding (see section on Grounds for Detention). The Border Guard reported that in 2020, 33 (down from 63 in 2019) persons were transferred under Dublin from detention centres. No information about the legal grounds of the detention in practice was provided.

According to the Office for Foreigners, transfers to Greece were the most problematic in 2020. Greece did not accept the requests and if it did, transfers were not possible.

2.3. Personal interview

There is no separate interview where an applicant’s case falls under the Dublin Regulation. Additional questions for the Dublin procedure form an integral part of the asylum application form.
2.4. Appeal

Indicators: Dublin: Appeal

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Same as regular procedure</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

1. Does the law provide for an appeal against the decision in the Dublin procedure?
   - Yes
   - No
   - If yes, is it Judicial
   - Administrative
   - If yes, is it suspensive
     - Yes
     - No

Asylum seekers can appeal against decisions taken in the Dublin procedure to the Refugee Board (and then to the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw and the Supreme Administrative Court) within 14 days following the same procedure described in the section on appeals in the Regular Procedure: Appeal.

The average time for the appeal procedure in Dublin cases in 2020 was 59 days (down from 110 days in 2019). In 2020 the Refugee Board issued 16 decisions (down from 33 in 2019) in Dublin proceedings, none of which overturned the decision of the first instance authority.\(^\text{106}\)

2.5. Legal assistance

Indicators: Dublin: Legal Assistance

| Same as regular procedure |

1. Do asylum seekers have access to free legal assistance at first instance in practice?
   - Yes
   - With difficulty
   - No
   - Does free legal assistance cover:
     - Representation in interviews
     - Legal advice

2. Do asylum seekers have access to free legal assistance on appeal against a Dublin decision in practice?
   - Yes
   - With difficulty
   - No
   - Does free legal assistance cover:
     - Representation in courts
     - Legal advice

Free legal assistance is offered as described in the section on Regular Procedure: Legal Assistance. State legal aid covers preparing an appeal and representation in the second instance.\(^\text{107}\)

2.6. Suspension of transfers

Indicators: Dublin: Suspension of Transfers

| Same as regular procedure |

1. Are Dublin transfers systematically suspended as a matter of policy or jurisprudence to one or more countries?
   - Yes
   - No
   - If yes, to which country or countries?

In 2020 requests were submitted to any country. Greece and Bulgaria are automatically asked to present individual guarantees for the applicants concerned.\(^\text{108}\)

2.7. The situation of Dublin returnees

There is no information on obstacles in accessing the asylum procedure for Dublin returnees. There were cases where HFHR tried to follow asylum seekers transferred back from another country and learned from the SG that they applied straight away for voluntary return and left the territory. The reason why they chose return over a (re)examination of their asylum claim is unknown. The time limit to reopen the procedure is 9 months. Contrary to Article 18(2) of the Dublin III Regulation, in cases where e.g. the applicant did not wait for examination of his or her asylum claim in Poland but went to another Member State and did not come back to Poland within 9 months, the case will not be evaluated under the regular “in-merit” procedure. Their application lodged after this deadline will instead be considered as a subsequent application and subject to an admissibility procedure.\(^{109}\)

In 2020 the number of decisions on discontinuance of the proceedings for international protection was 1,044.\(^{110}\) These decisions concerned 1,556 persons. The vast majority of these decisions were issued because the applicant did not reach the reception centre after applying for protection or left the reception centre and did not come back within 7 days (1,285 persons).\(^{111}\) In 2020, 124 persons requested a reopening of the procedure within 9 months.

In September 2017 the Commissioner for Human Rights published a report within the National Mechanism for the Prevention of Torture, in which cases of improper detention of Dublin returnees with PTSD were described.\(^{112}\) According to the report, the problems occurred due to numerous procedural shortcomings during the transfer of a family to Poland by the German police, as well as the lack of appropriate operational algorithms that should have been implemented in order to promptly identify victims of torture and violence as well as persons whose mental and physical condition rule out their placement in detention. After visits in detention centers in 2018 and 2019, the Commissioner for Human Rights confirmed that the problem persists.\(^{113}\) Although the Border Guard implemented guidelines on how to deal with persons requiring special treatment, they address treatment in detention, rather than providing that the person identified as a victim of violence should be released from detention (as required by the law).\(^{114}\) In the report from monitoring in 2020 however other concerns were stressed, such as limited access to psychological assistance.\(^{115}\) NGOs add that the system in place is not effective because a person who is a victim of violence should not be put in detention at all, i.e. identification should be conducted before placing in detention and not in detention.\(^{116}\) This problem does not concern merely Dublin returnees, as described in detail below (see Guarantees for vulnerable groups and Detention of vulnerable applicants).

3. Admissibility procedure

3.1. General (scope, criteria, time limits)

An admissibility procedure is provided for in national legislation.\(^{117}\) The Head of the Office for Foreigners is the authority responsible for taking a decision on admissibility. If an asylum application is deemed inadmissible, the Head of the Office for Foreigners issues a decision on the inadmissibility of the application.\(^{118}\)

An asylum application is considered inadmissible under the following exhaustive grounds:

\(^{109}\) Article 40(6) Law on Protection.

a. Another Member State has granted refugee status to the applicant;
b. A third country can be considered a First Country of Asylum with regard to the applicant;
c. The applicant submitted a subsequent application after receiving a final decision, based on the same circumstances;
d. A spouse of an applicant lodged a new asylum application after the applicant received a final decision and when the spouse’s case was a part of an application made on their behalf and there are no facts justifying a separate application of the spouse.\(^{119}\)

The application is considered inadmissible if there is a first country of asylum where the applicant is treated as a refugee and can enjoy protection there or is protected against refoulement in any other way.\(^{120}\)

The Office for Foreigners delivered the following inadmissibility decisions in 2020:

Source: Office for Foreigners

There are no specific time limits that must be observed by the Head of the Office for Foreigners in this procedure, so the rules governing regular procedures are applicable; the general deadline is 6 months. There is no data on whether the time limits for taking a decision are respected in practice. In 2020, 2,094 decisions were issued within 6-month time limit – but this includes all the proceedings, not only admissibility.\(^{121}\)

3.2. Personal interview

<table>

</tr>
</tbody>

The rules concerning personal interviews are the same as in the Regular Procedure: Personal Interview. There is no data on how many interviews were conducted in admissibility procedures in 2020. For the admissibility procedures a lot depends on whether the case requires a detailed interview, as in the regular procedure, or whether it focuses only on specific issues (e.g. new circumstances). The scope of the interview is not limited to identity, nationality, and travel route.\(^{122}\)

1. Does the law provide for an appeal against the decision in the admissibility procedure?
   - Yes
   - No

   - If yes, is it:
     - Judicial
     - Administrative

   - If yes, is it suspensive:
     - Yes
     - No

Generally, the appeal system in the admissibility procedure does not differ from the one in the Regular Procedure: Appeal, including its suspensive effect. The deadline for the appeal is 14 days.

3.4. Legal assistance

Indicators: Admissibility Procedure: Legal Assistance

☑ Same as regular procedure

1. Do asylum seekers have access to free legal assistance at first instance in practice?
   - Yes
   - With difficulty
   - No

   - Does free legal assistance cover:
     - Representation in interview
     - Legal advice

2. Do asylum seekers have access to free legal assistance on appeal against an admissibility decision in practice?
   - Yes
   - With difficulty
   - No

   - Does free legal assistance cover:
     - Representation in courts
     - Legal advice

Free legal assistance is offered in under the same conditions as described in the section on Regular Procedure: Legal Assistance. State legal aid covers preparing an appeal and representation in the second instance.

4. Border procedure (border and transit zones)

There is no border procedure in Poland. However, in January 2017, the Minister of the Interior and Administration presented a draft amendment to the Law on Protection, which introduces a border procedure for granting international protection. The Commissioner for Human Rights, as well as the main NGOs in Poland, have criticised the draft law for failing to provide sufficient safeguards including limited access to effective remedies and for introducing detention for the duration of the border procedure. The proposal was updated in February 2019. According to the proposal, if a negative decision is issued during the border procedure, the Office for Foreigners will also decide on return in the same decision. There would be 7 days to appeal this decision to the Voivodeship Administrative Court (not to Refugee Board, as in the regular procedure) and the appeal will not have an automatic suspensive effect. The draft law also provides for the adoption of a list of safe countries of origin and safe third countries. The Commissioner for Human Rights and NGOs sent their statements about the draft law, criticizing the concept of safe third country and safe country of origin, as well as legal conditions to apply border procedure and access to effective remedy. Last amendment in the process of adopting the act of law was made in August 2019 and concerned the postponement of adopting this act from the second to the third quarter of the 2019. No further information is available.

5. Accelerated procedure

5.1. General (scope, grounds for accelerated procedures, time limits)

The application for international protection is subject to an accelerated procedure if the applicant: 127

1. Provides other reasons for applying for asylum than well-founded fear of persecution for reasons of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group or political opinion, or a risk of serious harm; or did not provide any information on circumstances referring to the well-founded fear of persecutions or risk of serious harm);

2. Misleads the authority by withholding or presenting false information or documents which are important in an asylum procedure;

3. Makes inconsistent, contradictory, improbable or insufficient explanation of the persecution they are fleeing from, which are clearly inconsistent with the country of origin information (COI);

4. Submits an application to delay or frustrate enforcement of a return decision;

5. Is a threat to national security or public order or was, on this ground, already expelled from the territory.

The statistics obtained from the Office for Foreigners show that in 2020, 106 applications (covering 115 persons) were channeled in the accelerated procedure. These concerned the following grounds:

The Head of the Office for Foreigners should issue a decision in the accelerated procedure within 30 calendar days. If a decision cannot be issued within 30 calendar days, the Head of the Office for Foreigners has to inform the applicant about the reasons for the delay and the date when a decision will be issued. 128

There are no consequences if this time limit is not respected. In 2020 the average time of processing applications in the accelerated procedure was 93 days. 129

5.2. Personal interview

Indicators: Accelerated Procedure: Personal Interview

 SAME as regular procedure

1. Is a personal interview of the asylum seeker in most cases conducted in practice in the accelerated procedure? ☐ Yes ☒ No
   ✧ If so, are questions limited to nationality, identity, travel route? ☐ Yes ☒ No
   ✧ If so, are interpreters available in practice, for interviews? ☒ Yes ☐ No

2. Are interviews conducted through video conferencing? ☐ Frequently ☒ Rarely ☐ Never

The interview in the accelerated procedure is conducted according to the same rules as in the regular procedure (see Regular Procedure: Personal Interview).130 There is no information on the number of cases in which the interview takes place – Office for Foreigners does not aggregate such data. The interview does not differ from the one in a regular procedure – it is in the same form and the same rules apply.131

5.3. Appeal

1. Does the law provide for an appeal against the decision in the accelerated procedure? ☒ Yes ☐ No
   ✧ If yes, is it Judicial ☒ Yes ☐ No
   ✧ If yes, is it suspensive ☒ Yes ☐ No

The appeal system is broadly the same in the accelerated procedure as in the regular procedure. However, there are two important differences:

(1) The time limit to lodge an appeal is 7 calendar days instead of 14;132
(2) Decisions on the appeal in this procedure are issued by only one member of the Refugee Board, instead of three as in the regular procedure.133

The short timeframe for lodging an appeal, while extended from 5 to 7 calendar days in November 2015, still constitutes a significant obstacle in practice.

Applicants who need special treatment are defined in particular as:\textsuperscript{135}

- Minors;
- Disabled people;
- Elderly people;
- Pregnant women;
- Single parents;
- Victims of human trafficking;
- Seriously ill;
- Mentally disordered people;
- Victims of torture;
- Victims of violence (psychological, psychological, including sexual).

1.1. Screening of vulnerability

Identification of vulnerable applicants is conducted by the Border Guard while registering the application for international protection and by the Office for Foreigners.

The Head of the Office for Foreigners is obliged to assess whether these persons need special treatment in the proceedings regarding granting international protection or regarding social assistance. In order to make this assessment, the authority can arrange for a medical or psychological examination of the applicant, funded by the state. In case the Head of the Office for Foreigners does not arrange for the medical or psychological examination, it is obliged to inform the person that might require special treatment that they can arrange for such an examination themselves and bear the costs. If a person does not agree to be subjected to medical or psychological examination, they should be considered a person that does not require special treatment. The Head of the Office for Foreigners should make the assessment immediately after the submission of the application for international protection and at any other time until the procedure is finished, in case any new circumstances arise.\textsuperscript{136}

In 2019, the UN Committee against Torture pointed out the problem with the appointment of experts to determine whether foreigner is a victim of torture.\textsuperscript{137} Responding to the Committee, the Polish delegation stressed that qualification as a victim of torture does not require an opinion from a specialist and is a part of specialised medical assistance provided during the refugee procedure.

According to the study from 2020, the Office for Foreigners representative admitted that typically a conversation with a psychologist is scheduled if the relevant fields in the application for international protection are ticked. Then the psychologist issues an opinion in which they recommend whether to treat an applicant as requiring special treatment.138

Since 2017 in Biala Podlaska, near the reception centre, there has been a separate medical unit where initial verification of asylum seeker's health is conducted. Both the procedure and medical unit are called "epidemiological filter".139 The Office for Foreigners informed, that since 16 June 2019 every asylum seeker in the reception centre, subject to the obligatory procedure of epidemiological filter, is also subject to vulnerability screening. This is envisaged in the new contract for health services for asylum seekers from 4 June 2019.140

NGOs generally confirm that the system of identification envisaged in the law does not work in practice. According to SIP, the Office for Foreigners does not, in principle, require opinions from experts in order to determine, for example, basing on of scars and wounds if an applicant has been a torture victim. Such a practice makes it difficult for foreigners to prove that they have been victims of torture in the country of origin. Foreigners arrive in Poland frequently with visible signs of torture. In such cases ordering of an examination by an expert could help acquire reliable evidence of experienced torture.141 According to HFHR even in case of applicants with PTSD the inconsistencies in testimonies may lead to refusal of international protection. Also, at the later stages of the procedure, the courts still do not appoint independent experts to determine applicants’ state of mental health.

NGOs documented important judgements in 2019 on the matter. The Supreme Administrative Court,142 and the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw,143 ruled on cases where the applicants were diagnosed with PTSD due to violence/torture experienced in their countries of origin, however examination has not been performed by experts appointed by the authorities deciding on international protection. The courts upheld refusal decisions on international protection stating that the testimonies of applicants were inconsistent, the courts also stated that the authorities had no obligation to appoint experts to assess mental state of health of the applicants. In the oral justification of the judgment from 16 May 2019 the Supreme Administrative Court stated that psychological opinions prepared by the Border Guards, doctors from psychiatric hospital and experts appointed by the detention court are not credible because they are based on the applicants’ testimonies (all of these opinions stated that the applicant experienced violence).144

Identification of vulnerable applicants is also conducted by the Border Guard while registering the application for international protection (the Border Guard assesses whether an applicant may belong to one of these two groups: victims of trafficking in human beings or persons subject to torture).145 When applying to the court to place an applicant in detention, the Border Guard is also obliged to identify victims of violence and other persons for whom detention will cause a threat to life or health. For this purpose, the Border Guard implemented an algorithm, criticized by the Commissioner for Human Rights and NGOs (see Detention of vulnerable applicants).
The Office for Foreigners does not collect statistics on the number of asylum seekers identified as vulnerable, which was confirmed during UN CAT report on Poland in 2019. According a study for 2019, published in 2020, in which the Office for Foreigners representatives were interviewed, the largest group are individuals who were subject to physical or psychological violence. However, for the purpose of this report, the Office for Foreigners reported that in the fourth quarter of 2019, there were 274 asylum seekers identified as requiring special treatment, only 1 person identified as a victim of violence. In 2020 the Office responded that there were no statistics in this regard.

According to the Office for Foreigners, identification of vulnerable applicants takes place also during regular psychological counselling, available in every reception centre and at the Office for Foreigners (see Health Care).

1.2. Age assessment of unaccompanied children

Polish law provides for an identification mechanism for unaccompanied children. An asylum seeker who claims to be a child, in case of any doubts as to their age, may have to undergo medical examinations – with their consent or with the consent of their legal representative – in order to determine their actual age. There are no additional criteria set in law.

In case of lack of consent, the applicant is considered an adult. Results of the medical examination should contain the information, if an asylum seeker is an adult. In case of any doubts, the applicant is considered as a minor. The responsibility for undertaking a medical examination is triggered by the authorities and shall be ensured by the SG. The law states that examination should be done in a manner respecting dignity and using the least invasive technique.

In December 2016 guidelines on age assessment were drafted and were still applicable as of 2020.

2.1. Adequate support during the interview

As mentioned in the section on Identification, the Head of the Office is obliged to assess whether a person belonging to one of the groups enumerated in the law is in need of special procedural guarantees. Once the person is considered as requiring special treatment, all actions in the proceedings regarding granting international protection are performed in the following conditions:

- Ensuring freedom of speech, in a manner adjusted to their psychophysical condition;
- On the dates adjusted to their psychophysical condition, taking into account the time in which they benefit from health care services;

- In the foreigner’s place of stay, in case it is justified by their health condition;
- In the presence of a psychologist, medical doctor or an interpreter, in case there is such a need.

Upon the request of the applicant considered requiring special treatment, in cases justified by their needs, the actions in the proceedings regarding granting international protection are performed by a person of the same gender, and in the presence of a psychologist, medical doctor or an interpreter, of a gender indicated by the foreigner.\textsuperscript{155}

Also, the Head of the Office ensures that the interview is conducted by a person trained in the techniques of hearing such persons and in using the country of origin information.\textsuperscript{156} The Office for Foreigners does not have a specialised unit dealing with vulnerable groups, however caseworkers are trained by psychologists and EASO experts and only trained staff work on these cases.\textsuperscript{157} In 2020 there were 21 such caseworkers.

In 2020 the interviews were mainly conducted through videoconferencing, but the interviewee and interviewer stayed in the Office for Foreigners, using separate rooms. According to the Office for Foreigners there were no requests for conducting interviews in another manner, by direct conversation.\textsuperscript{158}

\section*{2.2. Exemption from special procedures}

In 2018 the Office for Foreigners stressed that the law does not exclude the application of the accelerated procedure towards vulnerable applicants (apart from some restrictions concerning unaccompanied children, where it is only allowed to examine their application in an accelerated procedure where they pose a threat to national security) and did not present any statistical data on the use of the accelerated procedure in their case.\textsuperscript{159} In 2019 and 2020 the Office responded that there were no statistics in that regard.

The law provides that a medical or psychological examination can be conducted in order to assess whether a person needs special treatment with regard to procedural safeguards and reception.\textsuperscript{160} There is no medical examination for the purpose of confirming past persecution or serious harm.

NGOs report that the Office for Foreigners does not, in principle, require opinions from experts in order to determine, for example, basing on of scars and wounds if an applicant has been a torture victim. Such a practice makes it difficult for foreigners to prove that they have been victims of torture in the country of origin. Foreigners arrive in Poland frequently with visible signs of torture. <tr>
<td>1. Does the law provide for the appointment of a representative to all unaccompanied children?</td>

<td>☒ Yes ☐ No</td>

The Law on Protection provides for the appointment of a legal representative to an unaccompanied child - special guardian (kurator).163 There are no exceptions; each child has to have a legal representative and all unaccompanied children get one in practice. The Head of the Office for Foreigners or the SG immediately lodges the request to the district custodial court. The court appoints the legal representative. Under the law, the deadline for appointing the guardian is 3 days. There is no information on compliance with this rule in practice. One guardian is appointed for the following proceedings: international protection, Dublin, social assistance, voluntary return.

There is no special requirement in the Law on Protection for being eligible as a representative of an unaccompanied child for an asylum procedure: the representative should be an adult and have legal capacity. Under the law, only the person who undertakes procedural acts in the proceedings in granting international protection to an unaccompanied minor should fulfill certain conditions.164 There is no remuneration for being a legal representative. In practice in the last years there were problems arising from the insufficient numbers of trained legal representatives for unaccompanied children. NGO personnel and students of legal clinics at universities are appointed as guardians. The legal representative should be present during the interview, together with a psychologist, and may ask questions and make comments.165

The Border Guard reports that since December 2017 they use a list of NGO workers who declared their willingness to be a representative of a child.166 However, as the Border Guard confirms, due to the lack of funding, some NGOs withdrew their representatives from the list. As of the end of 2020, there were a total of 11 legal representatives on the list, for a total number of 113 unaccompanied children. Their presence on that list is not binding, which means they are not obliged to become a representative.167

In 2018 the Commissioner for the Rights of the Child called on the Ministry of Justice to introduce a special type of legal representation of unaccompanied foreign children in Poland. In the opinion of the Commissioner that would allow a comprehensive and stable representation of a foreign child on the Polish territory, bearing in mind their best interest. The Commissioner criticised the fact that guardians were appointed for concrete proceedings or group of proceedings and they did not have a closer relation with a child, which impeded decision-making and assessing the children’s best interest in other fields (such as education, medical care, etc.).168

In the shadow report to UNICEF from 2020, NGOs stress that some guardians do not have any personal contact with the unaccompanied minor they represent and because of such a practice, the child does not have much information on their legal situation. Children do not have access to any information that would be adjusted to their age (leaflets, websites). Also, guardians are not supported by interpreters, which makes the communication ever more difficult.\textsuperscript{169}

Currently unaccompanied children are placed in various intervention facilities in Poland, instead of in a central institution. After the court ruling appointing the representative, they can be placed in foster care facilities or foster families. In 2018, as in the past years, unaccompanied minors were mostly placed in foster care facilities in \textit{Ketrzyn} (12 persons) – due the proximity to the detention centre in \textit{Ketrzyn}, from which they are released because of age - or in \textit{Warsaw} (4 persons). In other places, only one unaccompanied child was placed per location.\textsuperscript{170} There is no information on whether the personnel speak foreign languages there, this is not one of the criteria.\textsuperscript{171} In 2020, unaccompanied minors were accommodated mainly in \textit{Kętrzyn}, \textit{Warsaw}, \textit{Siematycze}, \textit{Janów Podlaski}, and \textit{Białystok}.\textsuperscript{172}

When the asylum procedure is finished with a negative decision, the minor remains in the same foster family or institution.

In 2020 there were 113 unaccompanied children (up from 105 in 2019) applying for international protection in Poland.\textsuperscript{173} According to the Office for Foreigners the vast majority of procedures are discontinued because of implicit withdrawal of the application (the minors leave the centres and do not return), in case of some nationalities (e.g. Vietnamese) the percentage of discontinued applications is 100%.\textsuperscript{174}

Subsequent applications are subject to an \textit{Admissibility Procedure}. If there are no new grounds for the application, a decision on inadmissibility is issued. In 2020, there were 1,267 subsequent applications, submitted mainly by Russian and Ukrainian nationals.\textsuperscript{175}

The first subsequent application has suspensive effect on a return decision and return order cannot be executed.\textsuperscript{176} If the application is considered inadmissible because the applicant did not present any new circumstances of the case\textsuperscript{177} it can be appealed within 14 days and until the Refugee Board makes a decision, suspensive effect is upheld. If the application is considered admissible, i.e. containing new circumstances relevant for the case, the Head of the Office for Foreigners issues a decision considering the application admissible.\textsuperscript{178} In this case, suspensive effect is in force until the final administrative decision

Since the 2015 reform of the law, the safe country of origin concept is not applicable in Poland. The draft law submitted in 2017 (and updated in February 2019, yet not adopted as of February 2021) introduces the safe country of origin concept and foresees the adoption of national lists of safe countries of origin and safe third countries. \textsuperscript{182}

The concept of first country of asylum is included in the law and reflects the wording of Article 35 of the recast Asylum Procedures Directive. This provision was not relied on in 2020 \textsuperscript{183} and applied in 4 cases in 2019. \textsuperscript{184}

- Rights and obligations of the asylum seeker and their legal consequences;
- The possibility of informing UNHCR of an asylum procedure, reading the files, making notes and copies;
- NGOs which work with asylum seekers;

- Access to the free of charge state legal aid;
- The address of the centre where the applicant will live in.

This information, covering the list of NGOs, is provided at the border crossing points and is available in 22 languages.\(^\text{186}\)

The Office for Foreigners also offers information in the form of a booklet entitled “First steps in Poland – Guidebook for foreigners applying for international protection,” available in 6 languages (Russian, English, Georgian, Arabic, French and Polish) and contains basic information on Poland, Polish law regarding asylum seekers and social assistance.\(^\text{187}\) With regard to general information on the asylum procedure, rights and obligations of asylum seekers etc. as well as information on rights after protection is granted it has to be stressed that they are formulated in legal terms and are therefore not easily understandable.

Asylum seekers are informed about the Dublin procedure when they apply for international protection in accordance with the Dublin III Regulation and the Commission’s Implementing Regulation no 118/2014, including the specific leaflet for unaccompanied children.\(^\text{188}\)

Information about the possibility to contact UNHCR is available at the Office for Foreigners (in English, Russian, French, Arabic and Vietnamese) and in reception and detention centres. The instructions for asylum applicants provided by the Border Guard contain information about the possibility to contact UNHCR and NGOs. According to the Border Guards the instructions are provided in every unit, also at the border and are available in 22 languages.\(^\text{189}\)

NGOs organise fundraising events to be able to continue their activities\(^\text{191}\) or rely on voluntary work. Although in 2019 there were some new calls open for NGOs, only 6 projects obtained funding concerning asylum seekers. Nevertheless, NGOs have been playing a crucial role in supporting asylum seekers in many fields – including legal assistance, psychological assistance and integration assistance. Their activities, although in many cases short-term - due to the lack of stable funding - have managed to fill in the gaps of the system in many dimensions.\(^\text{192}\)

In Poland there is generally no official policy implemented with regard to the nationals of particular countries of origin because every application is examined individually. However, in 2020 the most dynamic trend was that of Belarussian nationals, due to political situation in the country. The number of Belarussians applicants increased from 37 applicants in 2019 to 407 applicants in 2020. The Government introduced many policies enabling the Belarussians entering Poland as migrants – such as visa facilitations and facilitations in obtaining residence permit. According to the Office for Foreigners, Belarusians constitute the second-largest group of foreigners in Poland, with around 28,000 of them currently holding residence permits as of 2020.

As of 31 December 2020, no returns are carried out to the following countries: Syria, Eritrea, and Venezuela.\(^\text{193}\) According to the Border Guard, this list is updated every quarter based on the Eurostat information on international protection and humanitarian protection rate. Reception Conditions

Short overview of the reception system

The Office for Foreigners, supervised by the Ministry of Interior and Administration, is the main body responsible for the reception of asylum seekers in Poland.

Asylum seekers are entitled to material reception conditions during all asylum procedures in Poland. The provision of reception conditions does not depend on the financial situation of asylum seekers.

Material reception conditions are granted from the moment the asylum seeker registers in the reception centre, thus not straightaway after claiming asylum. Only medical assistance can be granted from the moment of claiming asylum, in special situations, i.e. in case of threat to life and health. Asylum seekers who cannot apply for asylum at the day they contact the Border Guard, should be given a specific date and time when submitting of the application will be possible. In this ‘waiting period’ they are not entitled to any material reception conditions.

Reception conditions are provided A) up until 2 months after a final positive decision on asylum; B) up until 14 days after a final decision discontinuing the asylum procedure (e.g. in admissibility procedures); C) up until 30 days after a final negative decision on asylum given on the merits by the Office for Foreigners or the Refugee Board. During the onward appeal proceedings, the material reception conditions are re-granted only if the court suspends the execution of the decision on asylum that has been appealed. It does not happen in all cases.

There are two forms of material reception conditions. The asylum seekers can live in the reception centre (managed by the Office for Foreigners or one of its contractors) or receive the financial allowance that should cover the expenses of living privately. Despite that under the law the accommodation in the reception centre is a rule, usually more asylum seekers receive the financial allowance than stay in the centre.

Currently, 10 reception centres operate in Poland, offering almost 2,000 places for asylum seekers. Two centres serve as the first-reception centres (located in Biała Podlaska and Debak) and eight function as accommodation centres (located in Warsaw, Białystok, Kolonia-Horbów, Czerwony Bór, Bezwola, Łuków, Grupa and Linin). The Head of the Office for Foreigners is responsible for the management of all the centres. This authority can delegate its responsibility for managing the centres to social organisations, associations, private owners, companies etc. Currently 6 reception centres are managed by private contractors. Overcrowding is not an issue reported in practice. The conditions in the centres have improved in recent years, although certain issues are still being reported such as the remote location of certain centers which impedes the integration process of asylum seekers.

The amount of financial allowance that is granted to asylum seekers living outside the reception centres is not sufficient to cover all expenses of their stay in Poland or even to satisfy basic needs of asylum seekers. It is difficult to rent an apartment with this allowance.

The law allows for access to the labour market for asylum seekers after six months from the date of submission of an asylum application if a final decision has not been taken within this time and if the delay is not attributed to any fault of the asylum seeker.

Asylum-seeking children have access to education in public schools, however multiple problems are reported in this regard in practice.

Health care is provided to asylum seekers throughout asylum proceedings by the Petra Medica company. Asylum seekers can see a doctor or a psychologist in all reception centres. Psychological treatment available to asylum seekers is generally considered insufficient. Asylum seekers can also see other specialists, but with some difficulty. Accessing costly specialized treatment is hampered. In general, the provision of medical assistance by the Petra Medica is criticised.

2. Is there a requirement in the law that only asylum seekers who lack resources are entitled to material reception conditions? ☐ Yes ☒ No

The provision of reception conditions does not depend on the financial situation of asylum seekers.

In the proposal of the ‘Polish migration policy – diagnosis of the initial status’ published by the Ministry of Interior and Administration in January 2021, the obligation to provide material reception conditions to asylum seekers seems to be considered as a burden. The document mentions two challenges and risks in regard to reception conditions:

1. Costs of material reception conditions remain high despite smaller number of asylum applications;
2. The possible reduction of material reception conditions may result in negative reactions of asylum seekers and be instrumentally used in campaigns against the Polish migration policy.

The problems with reception conditions that asylum seekers face in Poland – that are described in this report – were not included to the diagnosis of the Ministry of Interior (except for the lack of a sufficient training for teachers working with foreign pupils).195

1.1. The right to reception at different stages of the procedure

Asylum seekers are entitled to material reception conditions during all asylum procedures in Poland. There is no difference between regular, accelerated and admissibility procedures, as well as first appeal.196

Asylum seekers are entitled to material reception conditions after claiming asylum, from the moment they register in one of the first reception centres. They should register there within two days after applying for asylum, otherwise their procedure is discontinued, as was the case in 36 cases in 2020.197 Only medical assistance can be granted from the moment of claiming asylum (i.e. before registration in a first reception centre) in special situations, i.e. in case of threat to life and health.198

196 Article 70 Law on Protection.
197 Article 40(1)(2) in conjunction with Article 40 (2)(1) Law on Protection. Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021. This number includes all situations where asylum seekers did not register in the reception centre in 2 days, so both when they did not manage to get there in time and when they did it intentionally (e.g. they left Poland to seek asylum elsewhere).
198 Article 74(1)(1) Law on Protection.
Exceptionally, the SG is entitled to inform an asylum seeker that it is impossible to apply for asylum the day he/she presents him/herself at the SG unit. In such a situation, the SG registers a declaration of intention to submit the asylum application and determines a later date (no longer than 3 working days, in case of massive influx - 10 working days) and place to officially apply for asylum. In 2020 such later date was given in total in regard to 298 foreigners. By law, asylum seekers waiting to officially apply for asylum are not entitled to any form of material reception conditions in Poland. The problem concerns both first-time asylum seekers and rejected asylum seekers who intend to apply for asylum again, but the latter try to avoid a gap in obtaining the assistance by submitting a subsequent application before the entitlement to material reception conditions resulting from a previous asylum procedure elapses. In 2020, the NGOs advocated for a change in this regard so that persons who declared the intention to seek asylum have access to material reception conditions, but so far nothing has changed.

Reception conditions are provided:

- (a) until 2 months after a final positive decision on asylum;
- (b) up until 14 days after a final decision discontinuing the asylum procedure (e.g. in admissibility procedures);
- (c) up until 30 days after a final negative decision on asylum given on the merits by the Office for Foreigners or the Refugee Board.

In principle, during the onward appeal procedure before the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw, asylum seekers are not entitled to material reception conditions. In practice, when the court suspends enforcement of the contested decision of the Refugee Board for the duration of the court proceedings, asylum seekers are re-granted material reception conditions to the same extent as during the administrative asylum procedure, until the ruling of the court. In 2019, the court decided to suspend the enforcement of the negative asylum decision in 34 cases and refused it in 21 cases. In 2020, the suspension was granted in 80 cases and refused in 91 cases. In practice, asylum seekers deal with the problem of the lack of material reception conditions during the court proceedings by submitting subsequent asylum applications.

Asylum seekers who are subject to a Dublin transfer from Poland are entitled to material reception conditions until the day they should leave Poland. Thus, this assistance may be granted for a longer period of time than in other cases when a decision discontinuing the proceedings is issued (it is an exception from the 14 days rule mentioned above). Moreover, Dublin returnees may request an additional assistance.

203 Article 74(1) Law on Protection; Article 299(6)(1)(b) Law on Foreigners.
204 It is connected with the obligation to depart from Poland in 30 days after receiving final negative decision on asylum. During the COVID-19 pandemic, the 30-day time-limit was prolonged by law, thus also the provision of material reception conditions for a longer period than 30 days was possible. See also Article 15z COVID Law. After the administrative appeal procedure before the Refugee Board, there is a possibility of an onward appeal before the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw, but only points of law can be litigated at this stage. This is the interpretation by the Legal Department of the Office for Foreigners. Information confirmed by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.
205 Information provided by the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw, 15 January 2020 and 21 January 2021. Data for 2020 may include the proceedings concerning the deprivation of international protection. For the change in the jurisprudence in this regard since 2019, see Magdalena Sadowska, ‘Wstrzymanie wykonania decyzji o odmowie udzielenia ochrony międzynarodowej na czas rozpatrzenia skargi przez sąd administracyjny’ in SIP, Prawa cudzoziemców w Polsce w 2019 roku. 206 Article 74(3)(3) Law on Protection.
The request has to be made in a specific term (30 days from the moment when the decision on transfer became final). After this time, the demand of the asylum seeker is left without consideration. The additional assistance covers travel costs, administrative payments for travel documents or visas and permits, cost of food and medical assistance during the travel.

Some foreigners are not entitled to material reception conditions during the asylum procedure e.g. beneficiaries of subsidiary protection (applying for asylum again), foreigners benefiting from humanitarian stay or tolerated stay, foreigners staying in Poland on the basis of temporary stay permit, permanent stay permit or long-term residence permit, foreigners staying in youth care facilities or detention centres or a pre-trial custody or detention for criminal purposes. Beneficiaries of subsidiary protection, foreigners staying in Poland on the basis of a permanent stay permit, long-term residence permit or – in some cases – temporary stay permit are entitled to state benefits (general social assistance system) to the same extent as Polish citizens. Foreigners who were granted humanitarian stay or tolerated stay are entitled to state benefits only in the form of shelter, food, necessary clothing and an allowance for specified purpose.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, the abovementioned rules regarding the duration of material reception conditions were changed so as to guarantee that the provision of social and medical assistance do not end during the epidemic state. It was prolonged by 30 days counted from a day when the epidemic state has been revoked. Moreover, NGOs inform that, due to the pandemic, some asylum seekers who declared the intention to apply for asylum, but have not officially submitted the asylum application yet, were allowed to access material reception conditions.

1.2. Obstacles to accessing reception

There are some practical obstacles reported in accessing material reception conditions.

Asylum seekers should register in the first reception centre within two days after applying for asylum, otherwise their procedure will be discontinued. In practice some asylum seekers have problem to get there in time. They are given only the address of the centre and should get there by themselves. A transport is organised by the SG, pursuant to law, only for pregnant women, single parents, elderly and disabled people. In justified cases, food for them should be also provided. The Border Guard does not keep comprehensive data on the application of this provision in practice. Other vulnerable asylum seekers cannot benefit from the organised transport, which is considered ‘a gap in asylum system’.

This problem concerns also formerly detained asylum seekers. Those who have been detained are not entitled to support immediately after being released from the detention centre. They are granted material reception conditions only from the moment of registration in a reception centre, which is very often located far away from the detention centre. As a result, asylum seekers have difficulties to cover the cost of transport to the reception centre. Again, it should be organised by the SG in regard to released pregnant women, single parents, elderly and disabled people.\textsuperscript{222} However, partial data that were made available show that the respective provision of the Law on Protection was not applied in 2019 and applied in case of 7 asylum seekers in 2020,\textsuperscript{223} which may suggest that in practice it is interpreted too restrictively or overlooked. However, some good practices were also reported. For instance, in the detention centre in Krosno Odrzańskie, according to the information provided by the SG, asylum seekers who could not afford bearing the costs of travel to the reception centre were given in 2019 a financial support from AMIF and – if needed – offered the accommodation and food from Caritas.

Asylum seekers face also some difficulties as regards receiving financial allowance.\textsuperscript{224} It is paid through post services (very exceptionally, on bank account\textsuperscript{225}). The date for receiving money is unpredictable,\textsuperscript{226} as it depends on how swiftly the Office for Foreigners sends the allowance and on the efficiency of the postal services. Furthermore, when a foreigner does not pick up the financial allowance from the post office (where it is held for 14 days), it is sent back to the Office for Foreigners. The concerned asylum seeker can apply for the allowance to be resend but it takes time,\textsuperscript{227} leaving him without financial resources in the meantime.\textsuperscript{228}

Moreover, asylum seekers who change the form of material reception conditions from being accommodated in one of the reception centres to being granted the financial allowance and living in a private accommodation, must leave the reception centre at the end of one month, but should receive their first financial allowance up until 15\textsuperscript{th} day of the next month. They are not entitled to any payments in advance, despite the fact that owners often require paying a first rent or a deposit before they rent an apartment. No support is offered in finding a suitable and affordable private accommodation, even though the asylum seekers most often do not know Polish enough to communicate with owners.\textsuperscript{229}

Lasty, it was reported that asylum seekers in the process of appealing a decision were sometimes not granted social assistance, for the simple reason that the Office for Foreigners’ system had no record of their appeal.\textsuperscript{230} The Supreme Audit Office’s report from 2019 confirms that some problems with the timely data input to prescribed registries still exceptionally occur.\textsuperscript{231}

In 2020, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, asylum seekers had problems with accessing asylum proceedings, thus also with obtaining material reception conditions.\textsuperscript{232} The ‘declarations of intention to submit the asylum application’ were mostly accepted and registered by the Border Guards at that time. By law, the persons who ‘declared the intention to submit the asylum application’ are not covered by the medical and social assistance.\textsuperscript{233} However, NGOs inform that, in practice, due to the pandemic, some

Asylum seekers are either accommodated in a reception centre or receive monthly financial allowance to cover all costs of their stay in Poland.

Under the law, the material reception conditions offered in the centre are granted as a rule to all asylum seekers. An asylum seeker can obtain assistance granted outside the centre upon request, examined by the Head of the Office for Foreigners. It can be granted for organisational, safety or family reasons or to prepare asylum seekers for an independent life after they have received any form of protection.\textsuperscript{235} Most of the requests are accepted.\textsuperscript{236} In 2020, due to pandemic COVID-19, the Office for Foreigners encouraged asylum seekers to live outside the reception centres.\textsuperscript{237}

All of the abovementioned reception conditions are applied in practice. As of 31 December 2020, 819 (compared to 1,295 in 2019) asylum seekers benefited from material reception conditions in the centres and 2,225 (compared to 1,640 in 2019) asylum seekers were granted assistance outside the centres. In 2020, on average 1,085 (down from 1,276 in 2019) asylum seekers benefited from material reception conditions in the centres and 1,883 (up from 1,595 in 2019) asylum seekers were granted assistance outside the centres.\textsuperscript{238}

All asylum seekers can:
- attend Polish language course and receive basic material supplies necessary for the course;
- receive school supplies for children, including, as far as possible, the expenses for extra-curricular classes, sports and recreational activities;
- have the costs of public transport covered to (a) attend interviews as part of the asylum procedure; (b) medical examinations or vaccinations; or (c) in other particularly justified cases;
- receive medical care.

For asylum seekers accommodated in reception centres, other material conditions cover:
- Accommodation;
- Meals in the centre or a financial equivalent (PLN 9 / 2.15 €) per day;
- Allowance for personal expenses of PLN 50 / 11.93 € per month;
- Permanent financial assistance of PLN 20 / 4.77 € per month for purchase of hygienic articles or hygienic utilities;
- One-time financial assistance or coupons of PLN 140 / 33.42 € for purchase of clothing and footwear.

70 PLN that asylum seekers receive every month (allowances for personal expenses and for hygienic articles or hygienic utilities) is not enough to satisfy their basis needs.\textsuperscript{239}

According to the law, in case an asylum seeker helps in a reception centre (i.e. performs cleaning work for the centre, provides translation or interpretation that facilitates communication between the personnel of the centre and asylum seekers, or provides cultural and educational activities for other asylum seekers who stay in the centre), the amount of the allowance for personal expenses may be raised to PLN 100 (23.24€). In 2020 this raise was applied 499 times.\footnote{Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.}

For those assisted outside centres, there is one financial allowance for all costs of stay in Poland. This daily allowance depends on the family composition of the applicant:

The amount of financial allowance that asylum seekers receive is generally not sufficient to ensure an adequate standard of living in Poland.\footnote{FRA, ‘Migration: Key Fundamental Rights Concerns: 1.7.2019-30.9.2019, Quarterly Bulletin’, 20, relying on the information from the HFHR and SIP. The amount of financial allowance is below the so called “social minimum” (indicator which evaluates the cost of living in Poland). The asylum seeker receives 1.5-2 times less than what is essential according to the “social minimum”. The amount of social assistance for asylum seekers has not been raised since 2003, even though the costs of living in Poland have increased significantly since then. As a result, material reception conditions are insufficient to ensure a decent standard of living as highlighted in the CJEU judgment in Saciri.

The financial allowance that asylum seekers receive is not adjusted to their state of health, age or disability, which is incompatible with Saciri. The system of granting material reception conditions for asylum seekers is separate from the general social assistance rules applicable to nationals. While social assistance for nationals is provided based on individual assessment of particular needs, the level of allowances offered to asylum seekers is generally standardized.

Any interventions concerning the needed increase of the financial allowance hitherto were unsuccessful. In 2020, SIP submitted a complaint to the European Commission that Poland is not abiding by its obligations stemming from Article 17(2) of the Reception Conditions Directive (2013/33/EU). SIP stressed that the amount of the financial allowance that is granted in Poland does not ‘provide an adequate standard of living for applicants, which guarantees their subsistence and protects their physical and mental health’. In consequence, asylum seekers may be forced to live in the extreme poverty or even their life can be in danger. Meanwhile, in the proposal of the ‘Migration policy’ published by the authorities in January 2021, it its stated that “possible reduction of material reception conditions may result in negative reactions of asylum seekers and be instrumentally used in campaigns against Polish migration policy”, which suggests that the reduction rather than the increase in this regard is considered by Polish authorities.

3. Reduction or withdrawal of reception conditions

Indicators: Reduction or Withdrawal of Reception Conditions

1. Does the law provide for the possibility to reduce material reception conditions?
   - Yes
   - No

2. Does the law provide for the possibility to withdraw material reception conditions?
   - Yes
   - No

The law provides for the possibility to withdraw material reception conditions, if an asylum seeker grossly violates the rules in the reception centre or acts violently towards employees of the centre or other foreigners staying there. The decision on withdrawing reception conditions is issued by the Head of the Office for Foreigners. It can be re-granted to the same extent as previously (upon an asylum seeker’s request), but if the violation occurs again, it can be re-granted only in the form of a payment of half of the regular financial allowance provided to asylum seekers.

249 Ibid.

252 Article 76(1) Law on Protection.

253 Articles 76 and 78 Law on Protection.
Although the abovementioned rules are contradictory to the CJEU’s preliminary ruling in the case of Haqbin,\textsuperscript{254} they remain in force. However, since the judgment was rendered none of the asylum seekers has been deprived reception conditions on this basis.\textsuperscript{255} Beforehand, the provision was applied rarely (1-3 cases per year).

Financial allowance can be reduced to a half also in case of a refusal to undergo medical examinations or necessary sanitary treatment of asylum seekers themselves and their clothes.\textsuperscript{256} This possibility was used once in 2020 in regard to an asylum seeker who refused to undergo medical examination after applying for asylum (epidemiological filter).\textsuperscript{257}

Moreover, in case an asylum seeker stays outside the reception centre for a period exceeding two days, material reception conditions should be withheld by law until the moment of his return.\textsuperscript{258}

Decisions on reduction and withdrawal of reception conditions are made on an individual basis. Asylum seekers have a possibility under the law to appeal against such decision. Free legal assistance is provided by NGOs only under the general scheme. However, the risk of destitution is not assessed under the law or in practice. In one case in 2017, the Office for Foreigners withdrew material reception conditions from an applicant suffering from a complex form of PTSD, without his psychological condition being taken into consideration.

Asylum seekers are not requested to refund any costs of material reception conditions.

\section*{4. Freedom of movement}

\begin{center}
\textbf{Indicators: Freedom of Movement}
\end{center}

\begin{tabular}{|l|c|c|}

1. & Is there a mechanism for the dispersal of applicants across the territory of the country? & Yes & No \\
\hline
2. & Does the law provide for restrictions on freedom of movement? & No & Yes \\
\hline
\end{tabular}

Officially there is no restriction to the freedom of movement of asylum seekers: they can travel around Poland wherever they want. However, when an asylum seeker accommodated in a centre stays outside this centre for more than 2 days, the assistance will be withheld by law until the moment of his/hers return.\textsuperscript{259} Moreover, asylum seekers can go outside from the centre whenever they want, during the day, but they should be back before 23:00 in the evening.\textsuperscript{260}

The Office for Foreigners decides in which reception centre asylum seekers will be allocated. This decision cannot be formally challenged. Reasons of public interest and public order do not have any impact on the decision on an asylum seeker’s place of stay. In practice, nuclear families generally stay in the same centre. The decisions are made taking into consideration family ties (asylum seekers should be allocated in the same centre as their families), vulnerability (e.g., asylum seekers with special needs can be allocated only to the centres which are adapted to their needs), continuation of medical treatment (when it cannot be continued in other premises), safety of the asylum seeker and capacity of the centres.\textsuperscript{261}

Under the law an asylum seeker staying in one centre can be required to move to another facility if this is justified for organisational reasons.\textsuperscript{262} Polish authorities interpret such rule as applying only to transfers from first-reception centres to an accommodation centre. As a result, asylum seekers are expected to move only from a first reception centre to the other centres. In practice it can take a few to several days (depending on how long the epidemiological filter procedure lasts and whether the interview is conducted in the first reception centre). Afterwards if they are allocated to one centre they are very rarely moved to another. If so, it happens mostly upon request of the asylum seeker. In the period of 2016-2018 there were no cases of moving an asylum seeker to another facility without their request. In 2019, one family was moved to another centre on the initiative of the Office for Foreigners in order to stop the conflicts with other foreigners and ensure the security in the centre. In 2020, in three cases asylum seekers were moved to another centre on the Office for Foreigners’ initiative due to the conflicts with other inhabitants.

If an asylum seeker submits a request to live in another centre, it is mostly because of the location of the centre he stays in (e.g. it is far from their family and friends or medical facilities). Until 2020, most of the requests for a move to another centre were accepted. In 2020, only 39 requests (out of 155) were accepted. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, all requests to be moved to another centre were denied in the period of March-June 2020.

Poland has ten reception centres which altogether provide 1,962 places. At the end of 2020, 819 (compared to 1,295 in 2019) asylum seekers were residing in the centres. Another 2,225 (compared to 1,640 in 2019) asylum seekers were receiving assistance outside the centres.

Two centres (Dębak, Biała Podlaska) serve as first reception, where asylum seekers are directed after applying for asylum in order to register and carry out medical examinations. The remaining eight centres are accommodation centres (Warsaw, Białystok, Kolonia-Horbów, Czerwony Bór, Bezwola, Łuków, Grupa and Linin). The same rules regarding the freedom of movement apply in both kinds of centres.

There is no problem of overcrowding in these centres. As of 31 December 2020, the occupancy rate was 15% in the first reception centre in Biała Podlaska, 30.28% in Dębak and between 28.74% and 87.86% in the accommodation centres. The numbers are lower than in 2019 due to the Office for Foreigners’ policy of encouraging asylum seekers to live outside the reception centres to stop the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Centres are located in different parts of Poland. Some of them are located in cities (Warsaw, Biała Podlaska, Białystok) but most of them are situated in the countryside. Some are located far away from any towns; Bezwola, Dębak, Grupa and Linin are in the woods. These centres are therefore not easily accessible; in Dębak residents have to walk 3km through the woods to access public transport. The centre in Warsaw (for single women with children) is situated far away from the city centre, near factories and a construction company. Nearby there are no shops or other service points, to get to the centre asylum-seeking women have to walk through a tree-lined road which is not sufficiently lit. It is also pointed out that the reception centres are located in areas where a high level of poverty is reported, which hampers the asylum seeker’s access to a labour market.

Spatial exclusion as a result of the present location of the centres is considered the main problem by some NGOs. Isolation of the centres limits the contact with Polish citizens and Polish institutions, including NGOs. It affects the effectiveness of the integration process.

Other types of accommodation are not used in practice.

The Head of the Office for Foreigners is responsible for the management of all the centres. This authority can delegate its responsibility for managing the centres to social organisations, associations, private owners, companies, etc. Currently 6 reception centres are managed by the private contractors, others are directly managed by the Office for Foreigners.

The Office for Foreigners monitors the situation in the centres managed by private contractors on a daily basis through the Office’s employees working in those centres and through the overall inspections taking place two times a year. Moreover, in 2020, the centre in Kolonia-Horbów was controlled in response to the complaint of an asylum seeker living there. Additionally, three centres were monitored by the epidemiological and sanitary authorities.

Matusevich, ‘Tajik Asylum Seekers Struggle for a Sense of Security’, 12 April 2019, available at: https://bit.ly/2SiiSpK. Although Linin is informally referred to as an “open camp,” there is nowhere to go within walking distance and Warsaw is extremely difficult to reach by public transportation. The center is surrounded by a wall and the reception center enforces a nightly curfew. Visitors are only allowed upon prior approval from the Polish Ministry of Interior and there is a police van parked outside the main gate around the clock.

279 Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 15 January 2019 and 22 January 2020.

280 Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.
Asylum seekers can complain to the Office for Foreigners on the situation in the centres, but in practice they rarely lodge such complaints. In 2019 and 2020, the Office for Foreigners registered 13 and 5 complaints respectively, however all of them concerned medical assistance, not conditions in reception centres. In 2020, one foreigner complained to the sanitary authorities on the conditions in the Kolonia-Horbów centre.

2.1. Overall living conditions

Living conditions differ across the reception centres. In the centres managed by private contractors ensuring certain minimum living conditions standards is obligatory on the basis of agreements between these contractors and the Office for Foreigners. Thus, centres have to have furnished rooms for asylum applicants, a separate common room for men and for women, kindergarten, space to practice religion, a recreation area, school rooms, specified number of refrigerators and washing machines. Other conditions are dependent on the willingness and financial capacities of the contractor. Most often, one family stays in one room, without separated bedrooms or kitchen. Moreover, usually the centres do not offer separated bathrooms and kitchens, only the common ones.

None of the centres was built in order to serve as a centre for foreigners. Most of them were used for different purposes before, as army barracks, hostels for workers or holiday resorts.

In general, conditions in the reception centres are considered to be better now than in the past years. It results from the greater attention given to the living conditions when a contractor for running a centre is being chosen and the renovations conducted in the recent years in the centres that are managed by the Office for Foreigners. Despite that, some asylum seekers complain about those conditions, mentioning for instance bed bugs in the rooms. According to the NGOs, asylum seekers generally assess the conditions in the centres rather low. For instance, in the research conducted in the centre in Grupa foreigners predominantly complained about the food served in the centre. They assessed the centre’s cleanliness, appearance and furnishings mostly as ‘average’ or ‘bad’. Meanwhile, the Office for Foreigners’ anonymous survey conducted in January 2020 in 10 reception centres has shown that asylum seekers living there are overall satisfied with the material reception conditions they receive. The survey concerned accommodation (equipment, cleanliness, etc.), food, medical assistance and centres’ employees. In most of the centres, the level of satisfaction ranged from 70 to 95%. The centres in Linin and Grupa have been rated the worst, with 42.75% and 58% levels of satisfactions respectively. Overall, asylum seekers most often complained about the food and medical assistance provided in the centres.

While the results of the survey seem encouraging, it must be noted that the number of the respondents was not provided by the Office for Foreigners.
No protests or hunger strikes in centres have been reported in years 2014-2017 and in 2019. In 2018 an asylum seeker informed the Office for Foreigners in writing that he has started a hunger strike due to the fact that his and his wife’s asylum procedures had been separated because they had split up. In 2020, one protest occurred in the centre in Warsaw that is dedicated to women and single mothers. Asylum seekers opposed the limitations that resulted from the COVID-19 quarantine. According to the Office for Foreigners, thanks to immediate reaction of the Office, medical operator and NGOs, the situation was quickly under control.

In every centre, there are two kinds of staff: employees of the Office for Foreigners and other employees (as kitchen aids, cleaners etc.). As regards the staff rate, in 2020, one employee of the Office for Foreigners was maximally in charge of 123 asylum seekers (staying outside and inside centres) and 62 asylum seekers (living in the centres).

As of December 2020, there were 29 employees of Office for Foreigners working in all the centres and a variable number of other workers. Staff in the centre is working from Monday to Friday from 7:00 to 18:00. They are mainly responsible for the administration of the centre, not for a social work with asylum seekers. The number of employees of the Office for Foreigners and the scope of their responsibilities are considered insufficient. At night and on weekends only guards are present in the centre. Security staff is available in all centres around the clock.

2.2. Activities in the centres

Polish language courses are organised in all reception centres, for children and adults. Those courses are considered the only integration activity provided by the Office for Foreigners. See more in Access to Education.

In 2020 NGOs carried out some projects in the centres which aimed at providing:

- Education (learning Polish, assistance with homework, integration activities);
- Psychological assistance;
- Legal assistance.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the access to the reception centres for persons whose presence there was not indispensable was limited. Psychological, legal and educational assistance was provided online or by phone (since March 2020). NGOs were able to access the reception centres again in June-September 2020, but the limitations in this regard were re-introduced in November 2020. All centres have libraries, although they were accessed with some difficulty in March-June 2020 due to the COVID-19 limitations. In all centres access to internet is provided.

In all centres there is a special room designed for religious practices. If asylum seekers want to participate in religious services outside of the centre, they have such a right, although in practice the remoteness from the closest place of worship can prevent them from participating in such services.
C. Employment and education

1. Access to the labour market

</tr>
</tbody>

The law allows for access to the labour market for asylum seekers after six months from the date of submission of an asylum application if a final decision has not been taken within this time and if the delay is not attributed to any fault of the asylum seeker. The Head of the Office for Foreigners upon the asylum seeker’s request, issues a certificate, which accompanied by a temporary ID document entitles the asylum seeker to work in Poland. The temporary ID document is valid for 90 days and can be subsequently prolonged for renewable periods of 6 months (during the COVID-19 pandemic, the validity of temporary IDs was prolonged by law, as the Office for Foreigners limited temporarily its direct customer service). The certificate is valid until the day the decision concerning international protection becomes final. However, if the asylum seeker avails himself/herself of a judicial remedy and the court suspends the enforcement of the negative asylum decision, the certificate regains its validity.

In practice, the issuance of the above-mentioned certificate is not often requested. Most probably it results from the fact that the asylum proceedings often last shorter than 6 months, the asylum seekers leave Poland before they can access labour market or they have no knowledge that they can work in Poland after 6 months. Moreover, there is a relatively high percentage of refusals in this regard. According to the Office for Foreigners, asylum seekers tend to apply for a certificate too early (before 6 months has passed) or too late (the final asylum decision is delivered before the decision on the certificate is reached).

Access to employment is not limited to certain sectors, but can be problematic in practice. Many employers do not know, that the above-mentioned certificate with a temporary ID document gives an asylum seeker a right to work or do not want to employ a person for such a short time (i.e. up to 6 months, as the employers are unaware that the procedure will actually take longer than the validity of a single temporary ID document), which causes that those certificates have no practical significance. Moreover, the certificate is valid until the decision on asylum becomes final but employers are not informed that such decision was issued by the Polish authorities, they must trust that the asylum seekers will inform them about it on time. Furthermore, asylum seekers often live in centres which are located far away from big cities and in the areas with a high level of poverty and unemployment in general, which makes it difficult to find a job in practice. Moreover, most asylum seekers do not know Polish well enough to get a job in Poland. Asylum seekers also face a problem of a limited recognition of education and skills acquired outside Poland, so they are often underemployed. Moreover, foreigners endure a discrimination in an employment, e.g. they are offered lower salary than Poles.

Furthermore, even receiving the above-mentioned certificate may be in some circumstances problematic. Asylum seekers who reached majority during the asylum proceedings that had been initiated by and continued with their parents and who declared that they did not want to apply for asylum separately, are refused a right to work. In order to receive such certificate, they have to initiate asylum proceedings separate from their parents, which is criticised by the NGOs.

Experts point out that the fact that asylum seekers cannot work for the first 6 months of the asylum procedure is one of the factors which leads to their lack of independence and reliance on social assistance.

2. Access to education

Indicators: Access to Education

1. Does the law provide for access to education for asylum-seeking children?
   - Yes
   - No

2. Are children able to access education in practice?
   - Yes
   - No

All children staying in Poland have a constitutional right to education. Education is mandatory until the age of 18. It is provided to asylum-seeking children in regular schools and it is not limited by law. Asylum seekers benefit from education in public schools under the same conditions as Polish citizens until the age of 18 or the completion of higher school. In September 2020, 841 asylum-seeking children attended around 126 public schools in Poland. 361 of them lived in the reception centres.

There are different obstacles to accessing education in practice. The biggest problem is a language and cultural barrier. However, asylum-seeking children are supported by:

- Polish language courses that are organised in all reception centres – 446 children benefited from this assistance in 2020. However, courses have been temporarily suspended due to the pandemic COVID-19.

- additional free Polish language classes, that should be organised by the authority managing the school that asylum seekers are attending. Those classes are organised as long as it is needed, not less than 2 hours a week but max. five hours per week for one child.

- basic supplies necessary for learning Polish.

Asylum-seeking children can also participate in compensatory classes:
- in reception centres – 139 children benefited from this support in 2020. However, classes have been temporarily suspended due to the pandemic COVID-19.\(^{319}\)
- in schools – assistance granted for a maximum of twelve months, max. five hours per week for one child.\(^{320}\)

Overall, Polish language and compensatory classes in schools are considered insufficient. They are either not organized at all or organised for an insufficient amount of time (both the limitation to 12 months and to 5 hours a week are being criticised).\(^{321}\)

Children have also a right to assistance of a person who knows the language of their country of origin, who can be employed as a teacher’s assistant by the director of the school.\(^{322}\) This help is limited to a maximum of twelve months, which is considered not enough.\(^{323}\) Moreover, the remuneration of such assistants is too low.\(^{324}\) Despite that, finding financing in order to employ the assistant is difficult for some schools.\(^{325}\) Thus, NGOs occasionally cover the assistant’s remuneration in the framework of their projects.\(^{326}\) Such support is dependent on the NGOs’ funding, however. Overall, there is not enough teacher’s assistants hired in schools. In some municipalities, there is only one assistant. Moreover, during the pandemic COVID-19, some assistants were laid off as schools considered their job not needed in the online-schooling reality. In November 2020, 112 organisations, schools and persons signed the letter to Ministry of Education to strengthen and increase the role of the teacher’s assistants, pointing on the advantages of this solution and problems that assistants face every day.\(^{327}\)

Furthermore, asylum-seeking children should receive the allowance ‘Good start’ (300 PLN or around 66 Euros) that according to the law should be granted once a year for every child that begins a school year in Poland. However, the SIP informs that asylum seekers have problems with receiving this support.\(^{328}\) In 2020, the Supreme Administrative Court confirmed that asylum-seeking children should have access to the ‘Good start’ allowance. However, in each single case the court proceedings must be initiated for an asylum-seeking child to have a chance to receive such allowance.\(^{329}\)

Schools admitting foreign children often have to cope with a lack of sufficient financial means to organise proper education for this special group of pupils. It happens that a school refuses to admit a foreigner because it is unable to cope with the challenge.\textsuperscript{330} Moreover, teachers working with foreign children are not receiving sufficient support, like courses and materials.\textsuperscript{331} However, some training initiatives are taken up by local and governmental authorities.\textsuperscript{332}

If a child cannot enter the regular education system e.g. due to illness, their special needs are supposed to be addressed in special school. At the end of 2020, 6 asylum-seeking children were attending a special school.\textsuperscript{333}

NGOs inform that the asylum seekers most often complain about the hate speech that their children encounter in the school, both from their peers and the stuff. The Supreme Audit Office informed in 2020 that 23% parents that they interviewed declared that their children have met with intolerance in school once or twice a year, according to 4% of respondents it was occurring often.\textsuperscript{334}

The Supreme Audit Office published in 2020 a report on education of all foreign children staying in Poland (and Polish children who returned to Poland after living abroad). The report confirmed that the Ministry of Education did not have any interest in this topic for many years, despite the significant increase in the number of foreign pupils in Polish schools. No monitoring was conducted of the situation of foreigners in schools. Despite having public funds for a training for teachers who work with foreign pupils, they were not spent. The Supreme Audit Office monitored also 24 schools that foreigners attended in years 2017-2020. It found many violations of Polish law and concluded that the schools’ responses to foreigners needs and problems were insufficient. In 23 schools, additional Polish language lessons were conducted; in 13 schools, compensatory classes were also organised. However, the specific needs of foreign pupils were not recognised before commencing Polish language and compensatory classes. Polish language classes were organised only for one hour a week and too many pupils attended one class. In 21 schools no adjustment was made in the curriculum to respond to the foreign pupils’ needs. No integration activities or only incidental ones were organised. Moreover, teachers’ training on working with foreign pupils was not sufficiently (or at all) supported by the schools’ directors.\textsuperscript{335}

To sum up, the current education system is not taking into account the special needs of foreign children.\textsuperscript{336} As a result, adaptation of the education programme to the needs and abilities of the individual child is dependent on the goodwill and capacity of teachers and directors. Moreover, as a factor impeding effective teaching, schools also report the problem of the big fluctuation of the foreign children as a result of families’

333 Information from the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.

335 Ibid.

migration to Western Europe.\textsuperscript{337} As a consequence, asylum-seeking and refugee children are disappearing from Polish education system.\textsuperscript{338}

The COVID-19 pandemic further hampered the access to education. Schools were closed and children have started education online. Not all asylum-seeking children had laptops or computers they could use, thus they could not attend school for some time. Moreover, they often could not be assisted by their parents who lacked essential digital and linguistic competences.\textsuperscript{339} According to the Office for Foreigners, staff in the reception centres assisted asylum-seeking children and their parents with adjusting to this new situation and motivated them to participate in the school online. In all centres access to wifi was ensured. In 5 centres special places for online schooling were created. Children from 5 centres were also given a possibility to participate in online or traditional learning at the school premises. Some laptops and mobile equipment were also gathered by the Office for Foreigners, UNHCR, schools, private persons and the contractors who manage two reception centres. NGOs have conducted some public collects in this regard as well.\textsuperscript{340} Moreover, NGOs stepped in to provide asylum-seeking children with online Polish language classes and to organize support in online compulsory education.\textsuperscript{341}

According to the Office for Foreigners, online learning of asylum-seeking children was not different from online school for other children.

2.1. Preparatory classes

Since 2016, schools have a possibility to organise preparatory classes for foreign children who do not have sufficient knowledge of the Polish language. A foreign minor can join preparatory classes anytime during the school year. After the end of the school year, his participation in those classes can be prolonged, when needed, for maximum one more year. The preparatory classes last for 20-26 hours a week. Learning Polish as a foreign language can be limited only to 3 hours per week,\textsuperscript{342} which raise serious doubts concerning the effectiveness of such solution.\textsuperscript{343} If a school decides to organise such classes, foreign children are not obliged to participate in regular classes.

Preparatory classes have been met with mixed reactions. In the opinion of the Ministry of Education, the implemented solution enables individual treatment of foreign children and adaptation of the methods and forms of education to their needs. According to the critics of this solution, children are placed exclusively in foreign classes, thus impeding their integration into Polish society and fuelling separation.\textsuperscript{344} Furthermore, the preparatory classes were not designed as ‘welcome classes’ which have their own program, separate from the regular classes and adapted to foreign minors’ needs. Teachers are obliged to implement the same curriculum in the preparatory classes as in the regular ones, the only difference is that all children in a class are foreign and a teacher can adapt his method of teaching to their special needs. Meanwhile, the program of such classes should concentrate on learning Polish. Moreover, one preparatory class can be organised for children of different ages (e.g. children qualifying to classes I to III of primary school can be gathered in one preparatory class), which means that a teacher may be obliged to implement the curriculum even for three classes at once. Furthermore, experts point out that there is no system which would prepare teachers to work in preparatory classes with foreigners.

\textsuperscript{340} Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021 and 4 March 2021.

\textsuperscript{342} Para 16(9) Ordinance of the Ministry of National Education of 23 August 2017 on education of persons without Polish citizenship and Polish citizens who learned in schools in other countries (\textit{w sprawie kształcenia osób niebędących obywatelami polskimi oraz osób będących obywatelami polskimi, które pobierały naukę w szkołach funkcjonujących w systemach oświaty innych państw}).

In the 2020 report of the Supreme Audit Office, it was established that in 5 schools (out of 24 schools controlled) in total 14 preparatory classes were organised in years 2017-2020. In 4 schools, violations of Polish law were found in this regard, i.e. there were too many pupils per class and the curriculum was not adjusted to foreigners’ needs and possibilities.

According to data from the Office for Foreigners, in 2017/2018, the preparatory classes for foreign children were organized in schools in Grupa, Michał, Grotknki and Łuków and in 2018/2019 in a school in Warsaw. According to the Ministry of Education, in the school year 2018/2019 approximately 300 foreign minors (number of asylum-seeking pupils is not available) were participating in the preparatory classes. The preparatory classes seem to become increasingly popular, however no data for 2020 were made available.

2.2. Kindergarten

In all of the reception centres, some form of kindergarten is organised, which is sometimes supported by NGOs. This day care is provided minimum 5 times a week for 5 hours a day. In 2020, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, all kindergartens were temporarily closed.

355 Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.
2.3. Educational activities for adults

There is no access to vocational training for asylum seekers provided under the law. It is considered ‘one of the biggest shortcomings of the reception system in the area of education’.\[356\]

The only educational activities that adults have constant access to are courses of Polish language organised in all centres. They are open both for asylum seekers living in the centre and outside. Additionally, in August 2020, Polish language classes for adults started in Warsaw for those asylum seekers who receive financial allowance and do not live in a reception centre. However, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, Polish language lessons both in and outside reception centres were temporarily suspended.\[357\]

The Polish language course’s level is considered insufficient by some NGOs. Foreigners evaluate those classes in general positively.\[358\]

The Office for Foreigners indicated that in 2020 asylum seekers participated in Polish language lessons actively. In total, 336 adults attended such course. However, the number seems meager when the overall number of asylum seekers is taken into account. The earlier research showed that the low participation rate results, among others, from the fact that asylum seekers are not willing to stay in Poland or are aware that the chances for obtaining international protection in Poland are small so they have no motivation to learn the language. The time of language classes is also not adapted to the needs of working asylum seekers.\[359\]

Another research shown that asylum seekers were unwilling to attend classes also due to traumatic experiences from the country of origin or the lack of the childcare.\[360\]

In 2017 the Office for Foreigners together with the Linguae Mundi Foundation created a comprehensive programme and materials for teaching Polish language in the centres.\[361\] According to the governmental data, the programme takes into account specific needs of asylum seekers and its aim is to enable the communication in everyday situations. Asylum seekers are provided with books and notebooks needed to learn Polish. They can receive a certificate confirming the attendance in the course and material prizes for good results.\[362\]

Usually, other courses in the centres, including vocational training and integration activities, are organized by NGOs, but in 2020 these initiatives have been impacted by the pandemic. Since March 2020, access to the centres of any persons whose presence there was not indispensable was excluded. Any assistance was granted only online or by phone. In June-September 2020 NGOs could again access the reception centres, but limitations were reintroduced in November and continued until the end of the year.

4. If material conditions are reduced or withdrawn, are asylum seekers still given access to health care?
   - Yes
   - Limited
   - No

Access to health care for asylum seekers is guaranteed in the law under the same conditions as for Polish nationals who have health insurance. Health care for asylum seekers is publicly funded. If an asylum seeker is deprived of material reception conditions or they are limited, they are still entitled to health care.

Basic health care is organised in medical offices within each of the reception centres. The Office for Foreigners informed that in 2020 the GP in the centres had 6 duty hours per 120 asylum seekers, while the nurse had 20 hours for the same number of possible patients. Both had 3 hours a week extra for every additional 50 asylum seekers. They were present in the centres at least three times a week. Additionally, in every centre the duty hours of a pediatrician were organised at least for 4 hours a week per 50 children, with extra 2 hours of duty for every additional 20 children. Pediatrician was present in the centres at least 2 days a week.

Health care for asylum seekers includes treatment for persons suffering from mental health problems. In 2020, psychologists worked in all centres for at least 4 hours a week for every 120 asylum seekers. This was extended to 1 hour for every additional 50 asylum seekers. Asylum seekers can also be directed to a psychiatrist or a psychiatric hospital. Reportedly, the Office for Foreigners tries to provide the assistance of only one psychologist to a specified asylum seeker, ‘so that the person has a sense of security and does not have to discuss his/her situation several times’.

The psychological assistance in the reception centres is limited to basic consultations, however. Moreover, due to pandemic COVID-19, it was not provided in person by psychologists, but by phone. Some asylum seekers consider psychologists working in the centre as not neutral enough as they are employed (indirectly) by the Office for Foreigners. Furthermore, according to some experts and many NGOs, specialised treatment for victims of torture or traumatised asylum seekers is not available in practice. NGOs still point at the lack of proper treatment of persons with PTSD. The available... psychological assistance is considered an intervention, not a regular therapy.\textsuperscript{372} There is a shortage of psychologists prepared to work with vulnerable and traumatized asylum seekers.\textsuperscript{373} Moreover, there are only three specialised NGOs that provide psychological consultations and treatment to asylum seekers.\textsuperscript{374} In 2020, some form of psychological support was provided by NGOs, but it was affected by the pandemic (assistance by phone instead of in person).\textsuperscript{375}

The medical assistance is provided since July 2015 by the private contractor Petra Medica,\textsuperscript{376} with whom the Office for Foreigners has signed an agreement to coordinate medical care for asylum seekers. The Office for Foreigners monitors the application of this agreement. The quality of medical assistance provided under this agreement has triggered wide criticism. In particular, access to a specialised medical care worsened\textsuperscript{377} and some asylum seekers are refused access to more costly treatments. It happens that only after NGOs’ interventions and months of fighting for the access to a proper medical treatment, asylum seekers were able to receive it. The access to a treatment is particularly difficult for asylum seekers with HIV and HCV. In 2019, the SIP described its battle to provide the continuation of the treatment for the asylum-seeking women that was HIV-positive and had a Hodgkin lymphoma. The women started the treatment in Germany and afterwards was sent back to Poland under the Dublin III Regulation. In Poland, she faced multiple refusals of the treatment and administrative obstacles to receiving medical assistance from proper doctors and medical facilities. She was not referred to infectious diseases, cardiological nor psychiatric clinics even though the medical documentation from Germany found it was necessary. She was repeatedly misinformed that she is not entitled to the HIV-treatment in Poland. Even though she was in bad health condition, the staff of the centre in Dębak refused calling for the ambulance explaining (falsey) that she was not entitled to it. Moreover, one of the Polish doctors said to her that Poland does not need sick people. Finally, the foreigner received proper treatment in Poland. Thanks to the German doctor who sent her additional medication, she was left without it ‘only’ for two weeks\textsuperscript{378} In 2020, SIP described another battle for access to medical assistance for the asylum seeker diagnosed in 2016 with HCV. In March 2018, he contacted SIP due to recurring difficulties in accessing specialized treatment. He was first sent to improper medical facilities; next the Petra Medica denied financing the treatment. The Office for Foreigners was unable to enforce the Petra Medica to cover the expenses of the medical treatment that the asylum seeker needed. Finally, only in September 2019, the asylum seeker started the necessary treatment, but it required multiple interventions on the SIP’s part to enable it.\textsuperscript{379}

One of the biggest obstacles in accessing health care that asylum seekers face is the lack of intercultural competence and knowledge of foreign languages amongst doctors and nurses.\textsuperscript{380} Petra Medica that is responsible for the provision of medical assistance to asylum seekers is also obliged to ensure interpretation during the medical and psychological consultations, if it is needed.\textsuperscript{381} According to the governmental information, such interpretation is available in Russian, Ukrainian, English, Georgian,

Persian, Arabic, Chechen, Uzbek. Doctors working in the centres are expected to know Russian. However, since 2016 NGOs have been expressing concerns in regard to availability and quality of the interpretation provided to asylum seekers in connection with medical consultations. In particular, it is reported that asylum seekers who are not speaking Polish, English or Russian face great difficulties with being provided with medical assistance (they cannot make the needed appointments as the helpline is available only in English and Russian, they cannot understand a doctor during the appointment, etc.)

Another challenge is the fact that some clinics and hospitals providing medical assistance to asylum seekers are located far away from the reception centres, so an asylum seeker cannot be assisted by the closest medical facility, except for emergency situations. The Office for Foreigners noticed that for those asylum seekers living outside the reception centres health care is provided in voivodeship cities in Poland and that coordination of visits is conducted by the helpline of the contractor, where the asylum seeker can learn about the time of the visit and ways to get the prescription.

In 2019-2020, the Office for Foreigners registered 13 and 5 complaints respectively, all of them concerned medical assistance. In 2020, the Office for Foreigners claimed that the complaints resulted from the lack of understanding of the Polish health system and of the limitations stemming from the pandemic. Some complaints concerned specific doctors and nurses.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, medical consultations by phone were introduced. Information about that and necessary telephone numbers has been provided in English and Russian online (website of the Office for Foreigners and Petra Medica) and in the reception centres. According to the Office for Foreigners, in every reception centre, isolation rooms with bathrooms were separated. The state of health of ill asylum seekers was monitored daily by medical staff of the centre, they had also direct telephone number to doctors and nurses in case of feeling worse. Food was served to them in isolation rooms. The measures to limit the spread of the COVID-19 in the reception centres were taken up as well: asylum seekers were advised to stay in their rooms and leave them only to use a bathroom and kitchen, disinfectants and masks were provided, common rooms were regularly disinfected, ill asylum seekers were separated, the temperature of every person accessing the centre was checked, the access to the reception centres for persons not living there was significantly limited. Moreover, asylum seekers were encouraged to live privately instead of in the reception centres.

The SIP informs that due to the limitations resulting from the pandemic (only 5 persons allowed in the Office for Foreigners building where the medical point is situated), everyday a long queue formed in front of the Office, along the fence surrounding the building. Some asylum seekers needing medical assistance were allowed to come in, but others (less grave cases) were given medical assistance outside, over the fence, with other foreigners being able to hear about their health problems.

Overall, 87 asylum seekers were reported positive to COVID-19 in 2020. According to the Office for Foreigners, all asylum seekers who were ill or had symptoms of COVID-19 had access to medical assistance. Only a minority of them was hospitalised. One person died, although it is not clear whether COVID-19 was the reason of death.

One reception centre (in Warsaw – for single women and mothers with children, 111 inhabitants at the time) was quarantined. 70 asylum seekers living there were tested positive for COVID-19. First infections were confirmed on 22 May 2020, the quarantine of the centre lasted from 7 June to 2 July. The Office for Foreigners notes that for the duration of the quarantine asylum seekers had access to medical and psychological assistance, food was delivered, contact with staff working in the centre was provided. Healthy asylum seekers from the Warsaw reception centre could move to another centre in Dębak. According to some media, asylum seekers staying in the quarantined centre were terrified and felt left alone. NGOs stepped in to satisfy some of their needs (providing laptops, food and cosmetics, online classes for children, psychological support by phone or online). The Office for Foreigners informed that one protest occurred in that centre as asylum seekers opposed the limitations that resulted from the COVID-19 quarantine. According to the Office for Foreigners, thanks to immediate reaction of the Office, medical operator and NGOs, the situation was quickly under control.

As regards access of asylum seekers to COVID-19 vaccines, the situation is still unclear. The Commissioner for Human Rights asked the government for guidance on this matter, but there has been no response yet.

E. Special reception needs of vulnerable groups

Indicators: Special Reception Needs

1. Is there an assessment of special reception needs of vulnerable persons in practice?
   - [ ] Yes
   - [ ] No

Persons who need special treatment are defined particularly as:

1. Minors
2. Disabled people
3. Elderly people
4. Pregnant women
5. Single parents
6. Victims of human trafficking
7. Seriously ill
8. Mentally disordered people
9. Victims of torture
10. Victims of violence (psychological, psychical, including sexual).

An asylum seeker is considered as a person who needs special treatment in the field of material reception conditions, if there is a need to:

- Accommodate him or her in a reception centre adapted to the needs of the disabled people or ensuring a single room or designed only for women or women with children;
- Place him or her in special medical premises (like a hospice);
- Place him or her in a foster care corresponding to the psychophysical situation of the asylum seeker;
- Adapt his or her diet to his or her state of health.

391 Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.
393 Article 68(1) Law on Protection.
394 Article 68(2) Law on Protection.
If an asylum seeker is a person who needs special treatment, his/her needs concerning accommodation and alimentation are taken into account when providing material reception conditions. An asylum seeker who needs special treatment should be accommodated in the reception centre by taking into account his special needs.

On 2 November 2015, the Office for Foreigners adopted Procedure No 1/2015 which concerns the granting of social assistance to vulnerable groups. The document contains the steps of identification for the purpose of providing adequate support by the employees of the Social Assistance Department, dividing the vulnerable groups into categories mentioned in the law (e.g. elderly persons, disabled, minors, torture victims, etc.).

The Border Guard ensures transport to the reception centre and – in justified cases – food during the transport after claiming for asylum only to: disabled or elderly people, single parents and pregnant women. The same groups can benefit from this transport after the Dublin transfer and release from a detention centre. Other vulnerable asylum seekers cannot benefit from the organised transport, they must get to the reception centre by themselves, which is considered ‘a gap in asylum system’. In practice, the transport for disabled or elderly people, single parents and pregnant women is provided very rarely. However, in the detention centre in Krosno Odrzańskie in 2019, according to the information provided by the SG, those asylum seekers who could not afford bearing the costs of travel to the reception centre were given a financial support from AMIF and – if needed – offered the accommodation and food from Caritas. Other detention centres did not inform about such good practices.

Some of the reception centres are adapted to the needs of disabled asylum seekers. All of the centres managed by the Office for Foreigners (4) have special entry for disabled foreigners and bathrooms adapted to the needs of the asylum seekers on wheelchairs. Other centres (3) have some adaptations for such asylum seekers. There is also a provision of rehabilitation services to this group of persons. The Office for Foreigners declares that it provides the transport for the medical examinations and rehabilitation services as well as specialist equipment, when needed.

There are no separate accommodation centres for traumatised asylum seekers, or other vulnerable persons but some of them (including torture victims) can be placed in a single room if there is such a need.

1. Reception of women and children

Only one centre is designed to host single women or single women with children. It is located in Warsaw and it is managed by the private contractor. From its very beginnings it is fully occupied. Moreover, social assistance may be granted outside of the centre when it is necessary in order to ensure the safety of the asylum seeker, with special consideration to the situation of single women.

Since 2008, the Office for Foreigners has a special agreement with the Police, UNHCR, “La Strada” Foundation and Halina Niec Legal Aid Centre aiming to better identify, prevent and respond to gender-based violence in reception centres. In regard to all reception centres, special teams have been created,.... consisting of one representative from the Office for Foreigners, the Police and an NGO. Their task is to effectively prevent acts of violence in reception centres and respond to any which do occur quickly. There were 28 cases of violence in 2017, 13 in 2018, 14 in 2019 and 10 in 2020.\(^{404}\)

In 2017 and 2018, the Office for Foreigners in partnership with NGOs implemented a comprehensive system of child protection against violence in the centres. In the framework of the project “We protect children in the centres for foreigners”, trainings of centre staff were organised and standards of child protection were developed.\(^{405}\)

In 2020, the suspicion of violence being used against asylum-seeking children staying in the centre in Warsaw was reported. The Polish language teacher was dismissed and the case is currently pending before the court.\(^{406}\)

2. Reception of unaccompanied children

The only safeguards related to special reception needs of unaccompanied children are those referring to their place of stay. Unaccompanied children are not accommodated in the centres. The custody court places them in a youth care facility, so unaccompanied children are not accommodated with adults in practice. Until the court makes a decision on placing a child in a regular youth care facility, an unaccompanied child stays with a professional foster family functioning as emergency shelter or in a youth care facility for crisis situations.\(^{407}\)

As noticed in the EASO report, amendments introduced to Article 61 of the Law on Protection, ‘now make it possible to submit an application for placement in foster custody immediately after an unaccompanied minor expresses the intention to submit an application for international protection. Per previous practice, this would take place only after an application was submitted.’\(^{408}\)

The law also refers to qualified personnel that should undertake activities in the asylum procedures concerning unaccompanied children (a defined profile of higher education, 2 years of relevant experience).\(^{409}\)

When providing material reception conditions to children, the need to safeguard their interests should be taken into account, especially taking into consideration family unity, best interests of the child and their social development, security and protection (particularly if they are a victim of human trafficking) and their opinion according to their age and maturity.\(^{410}\)

Whereas previously they were mainly placed in a youth care facility in Warsaw, currently unaccompanied asylum-seeking children can be placed in facilities throughout the country. However, in 2020 they were accommodated mainly in Kętrzyn, Warsaw, Siematycze, Janów Podlaski, and Białystok.\(^{411}\)
F. Information for asylum seekers and access to reception centres

1. Provision of information on reception

The Border Guard, upon admitting the asylum application, has to inform the applicant in a language understandable to him or her and in writing about i.e. the asylum procedure itself, the asylum seeker’s rights, obligations, and the legal consequences of not respecting these obligations, as well as the extent of the material reception conditions. It also provides the asylum seeker with the address of the centre to which they have to report.\textsuperscript{412} According to the Border Guard it is provided in 22 languages.\textsuperscript{413}

Upon admission to the centre, asylum seekers receive (in writing or in the form of an electronic document, in a language understandable to them) the rules of stay in the centre (set in law), information about their rights and obligations (which includes all the basic information, including on access to the labour market or on their legal status), information on regulations governing the provision of material reception conditions and about procedures used in case of the person has been subjected to violence, especially against minors.\textsuperscript{414} Moreover, the rules of stay in the centre shall be displayed in a visible place in the premises of the centre, in Polish and in languages understandable to the asylum seekers residing in the centre.\textsuperscript{415} In the reception centres in Biata Podlaska and Dębak new-coming asylum seekers may also participate in a course on basic information about Poland and the asylum procedure, with presentations and information package provided on USB.\textsuperscript{416} Since March 2020 though, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, such courses were terminated.\textsuperscript{417}

It is not envisaged in the legislation which languages the rules of stay in the centre, information about rights and obligations and on regulations governing the provision of material reception conditions should be translated into. It states that information has to be accessible “in an understandable language”. The rules of stay in the centre and above-mentioned information issued on the basis of the current law were translated in practice into English, Russian, Arabic, French, Georgian and Ukrainian.\textsuperscript{418}

The Supreme Audit Office concluded in 2019 that the Office for Foreigners had provided access to necessary information for asylum seekers at its headquarters, in the centres and through its website. The information concerned asylum procedure, material reception conditions, healthcare, rights and obligations of asylum seekers, appeal proceedings and NGOs’ assistance. In the centres, information meetings were organised on a regular basis and asylum seekers could receive leaflets published by NGOs. The Office for Foreigners published its own guides for asylum seekers as well.\textsuperscript{419}

Asylum seekers staying in the centres have the right to be visited by family members, legal advisors, UNHCR, NGOs, etc. in the rooms intended for that purpose.\textsuperscript{420}

Asylum seekers may receive visits in the centre from 9:00 to 16:00 in a place agreed with the employee of the centre. In particularly justified cases the visiting hours in the centre may be prolonged upon permission of the employee of the centre, but not later than 22:00.\textsuperscript{421}

Each entry of a non-resident into the premises of the centre requires the permission of:\textsuperscript{422}

\begin{itemize}
  \item The employee of the centre in the case of asylum seekers receiving social assistance, other than living in this centre;
  \item The Head of the Office for Foreigners in other cases.
\end{itemize}

The Head of the Office for Foreigners or an employee of the centre can refuse to give permission to enter the centre or withdraw it, if this is justified regarding the interest of the third country national or necessary to ensure the safety or for epidemiological and sanitary reasons.\textsuperscript{423}

The above-mentioned rules do not apply to the representatives of the UNHCR, who may enter the centre anytime provided that the staff of the centre was notified in advance.\textsuperscript{424} As regards NGOs, whose tasks include the provision of assistance to asylum seekers, and entities which provide legal assistance to asylum seekers, the Head of the Office for Foreigners may issue a permit to enter the centre for the period of their activities performed for asylum seekers residing in the centre.\textsuperscript{425}

Asylum seekers have access to the information about entities providing free legal assistance. During their stay in the centre, asylum seekers communicate with legal advisers, UNHCR or NGOs mainly by phone, fax, e-mail, etc. (even before the pandemic). Seven out of the ten centres are located in small villages, far away from big cities, where most of the legal advisers, UNHCR and NGOs in Poland have their premises, and accessing them can be an obstacle. As a result, asylum seekers are often contacted only remotely, especially when NGOs do not have the funds for travelling to these centres. Due to the financial problems of NGOs occurring since 2015 (see \textit{Regular Procedure: Legal Assistance}),\textsuperscript{426} their presence in the centres continues to be limited.

The COVID-19 pandemic has affected the access to the reception centres. In the periods of March-May and November-December 2020, no permissions to access the reception centres were given and the permissions already given were withdrawn if the presence of persons or organisations in the centre was not indispensable. Legal, psychological and educational assistance and activities were continued online or by phone. Visits of the family members were excluded. NGOs could access reception centres only in January-February and June-September 2020.

G. Differential treatment of specific nationalities in reception

There is no difference in treatment with respect to reception based on asylum seekers’ nationality. All asylum seekers have the same rights and obligations.

Detention of Asylum Seekers

A. General

Indicators: General Information on Detention

1. Total number of asylum seekers detained in 2020: Not available
2. Number of asylum seekers in detention at the end of 2020: 125
3. Number of detention centres: 6
4. Total capacity of detention centres: 628

There are six detention centres in Poland, which are generally profiled according to demographics: Lesznowola, Białystok, Przemyśl (since 13 October 2020) and Krosno Odrzańskie are for men. Women, married couples, and families with children are placed in Kętrzyn and Biała Podlaska (closed for renovation). Unaccompanied children are placed in the detention centre in Kętrzyn. The detention centres in Krosno Odrzańskie, Białystok, Przemyśl and Biała Podlaska have rooms with barred windows.427

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the lower occupancy, the number of places in detention centres in Lesznowola and Białystok was reduced. Furthermore, detention centres in Biała Podlaska and Białystok (only one part of the centre) was closed due to its renovation.

As of 31 December 2020, out of the 248 persons detained, 125 were asylum seekers. Given that 2,803 persons applied for asylum in Poland in 2020, it cannot be said that the majority of asylum seekers in Poland are detained. There were no cases of overcrowding in detention centres during that year.428 Foreigners are obliged to pay for their stay in a detention centre calculated on the basis of algorithm, set in the Polish law.

Contrary to 2017 (when 246 asylum seekers were detained in total), Border Guard did not collect the data on the number of asylum seekers detained in guarded centres in 2020. In general, 739 foreigners were placed in detention centres in 2020 and 33 foreigners were released on the basis of health considerations.429

According to the Office for Foreigners, the asylum cases of asylum applicants placed in detention are prioritised but it does not mean that they are examined more quickly when the cases are complex.430 In practice it means that asylum seekers have only 3-7 days to present additional evidence in their case, before an asylum decision is made. In addition, NGOs claim that in the case of detained asylum seekers, the Refugee Board does not conduct evidentiary proceedings, meaning that they do not assess the grounds for applying for international protection.431 Additionally during the proceedings in second instance asylum seekers have only 3-7 days to present the final evidence in their case. The interview is conducted through videoconference in the presence of a psychologist (e.g. in the detention centre in Kętrzyn). According to NGOs, sometimes psychologists are only available in the premises of the Head of the Office for Foreigners and not in the centre where the individual is detained. Additionally, asylum seekers complain about poor quality of the videoconference, claiming that they cannot hear what was being said.432

Asylum seekers are placed in a detention centre if alternatives to detention cannot be used and for the following reasons:433

1. In order to establish or verify their identity;
2. To gather information, with the asylum seeker’s cooperation, connected with the asylum application, which cannot be obtained without detaining the applicant and where there is a significant risk of absconding;
3. In order to make or execute the return decision, if an asylum seeker had a possibility to claim for asylum previously and there is a justified assumption that he or she claimed asylum to delay or prevent the return;
4. When it is necessary for security reasons;
5. In accordance with Article 28 of the Dublin III Regulation, when there is significant risk of absconding and immediate transfer to another EU country is not possible.

A “risk of absconding” of the asylum seekers exists particularly if they:434

❖ Do not have any identity documents when they apply for asylum;
❖ Crossed or attempted to cross the border illegally, unless they are so called “directly arriving” (i.e. arrived from the territory where they could be subject to persecution or serious harm) and they submitted an application for granting refugee status immediately and they explain the credible reasons of illegal entry;
❖ Entered Poland during the period for which their data were entered to the list of undesirable foreigners in Poland or to Schengen Information System in order to refuse entry.

Detention is possible in law and in practice in all asylum procedures, especially in the case of illegal crossing of the border and transfer under the Dublin Regulation. There are concerns that detention is not used as a measure of last resort and is often prolonged automatically, but the ratio between the number of asylum applicants and the number of detainees show that there is no systematic detention of asylum seekers as such.435

   ☑ Surrendering documents
   ☑ Financial guarantee
   ☑ Residence restrictions

2. Are alternatives to detention used in practice? ☑ Yes ☐ No

The Law on Protection sets out the following alternatives to detention for asylum seekers:
1. An obligation to report;
2. Bail options;
3. The obligation to stay in a designated place.

SG can use more than one alternative in the case of any foreigner.\(^{436}\) Alternatives can be applied by the SG which apprehended the asylum seeker concerned or by the court (subsequent to a SG’s decision not to apply alternatives and who have submitted a motion for detention to the court).\(^{437}\) An asylum seeker can be detained only if the alternatives to detention cannot be applied.\(^{438}\) In practice asylum seekers are placed in detention, and alternatives to detention are not considered, properly justified and explained.\(^{439}\) In 2020, 524 foreigners were subject to alternatives to detention.

Over the period 2016-2020 alternatives to detention were used as follows for foreigners, including asylum seekers and returnees:\(^{440}\)

\(^{440}\) In practice, a person may be subject to more than one alternative measure.
If a decision to release a foreigner from the detention centre is issued and the asylum seeker is a disabled, elderly, pregnant or single parent, the SG is obliged to organise the transport to the reception centre, and – in justified cases – provide food during the transport.\(^{441}\)

In 2020, more than 7 asylum seekers benefited from this transport.\(^{442}\)

3.1. Detention of persons with health conditions

According to the law, asylum seekers whose psychophysical state leads to believe that they are victims of violence or have a disability as well as unaccompanied minors cannot be placed in detention centres. This is also applicable to asylum seekers whose detention causes a serious threat to their life or health.\(^{443}\) As under the law, an asylum seeker should be released if further detention constitutes a threat to their life or health.\(^{444}\) This means that, for example, children, if they stay in Poland with parents or other legal guardians, can still be detained, as can pregnant women if they are healthy.

Notwithstanding legal provisions, still in practice it happens that vulnerable asylum seekers are detained, even when they were diagnosed with mental health problems as a result of past events.\(^{445}\)

In 2020, only 33 foreigners (2 were detained in Przemyśl and 7 detained in Biała Podlaska) were released on the basis of health considerations.\(^{446}\)

In the opinion of NGOs, the problem with identification of victims of torture and violence persists. Identification should be conducted before placing in detention and not in detention. Indeed, a poor mental condition is hardly ever accepted by courts as sufficient ground for not placing in or releasing an asylum seeker from detention. Practice shows that neither the Border Guard nor the courts take the initiative to assess if an asylum seeker is a victim of violence. In 2019 the court appointed only in 4 cases the psychologist or psychiatrist as an external consultant, which means that expert was appointed in 0.5% of detention cases.\(^{447}\)

An analysis of the justifications of the courts’ rulings concerning detention leads to the conclusion that in a large number of cases mental health is not considered by judges or there is no reference to the health of the foreigners at all.\(^{448}\) Additionally, courts do not accept psychological opinions submitted by independent psychologists (e.g. from NGOs),\(^{449}\) and they rely on short opinions (very often it is one sentence stating there are no obstacles to prolonging the stay in guarded centre) of the physician who works in detention centre. In practice, only courts of higher instance call on experts to determine applicants’ mental health state\(^{450}\) but this happens very rarely. Additionally, courts do not conduct their own evidentiary proceedings.\(^{451}\)

In 2018 the Commissioner for Human Rights visited another 3 detention centres and in the reports the Commissioner reminds that the internal algorithm, on the basis of which the identification is performed, does not clearly state that vulnerable persons, once identified, should be immediately released from detention. The Commissioner observes that lack of accessible treatment and therapy in the detention centres deepens the trauma.\textsuperscript{452} Torture survivors stay in detention centres and even if they are identified at a later stage, they are not released from detention. Medical staff and psychologists in the detention centers lack expertise and proper knowledge of Istanbul Protocol.\textsuperscript{453}

After the visit in the detention centre in Biala Podlaska in 2018, the Commissioner for Human Rights again confirmed that the Border Guard’s guidelines on how to deal with persons requiring special treatment should clearly state that the person identified as a victim of violence should be released from detention (as required by the law) and not only offered treatment in detention.\textsuperscript{454}

In its 2019 concluding observations, the UN Committee against Torture stated that in Poland there is insufficient capacity to identify asylum seekers who are victims of torture and lack of adequate protection and care for survivors of sexual and gender-based violence. In the opinion of CAT, Poland should introduce a principle to law that detention of asylum-seekers, and in particular children and vulnerable persons, should be a measure of last resort, for as short a period as possible and in facilities appropriate for their status. Furthermore, CAT recommended that Polish authorities refrain from placing asylum seekers and in particular children in guarded centres and ensure the fast and appropriate identification of vulnerable persons including survivors of torture and ill-treatment, as well as sexual and gender-based violence, and provide them with adequate access to health care and psychological services.\textsuperscript{455}

Moreover, the Committee was concerned that training on the provisions of the Convention and the Istanbul Protocol is not part of the training of border guards, judges, forensic doctors and medical personnel engaged in the treatment of foreigners in detention. Therefore, in the opinion of CAT, Poland should remedy it.

In July 2017, the Regional Court of Przemyśl released a family from the detention centre in Przemyśl who had been detained for 10 months. The family was placed in the detention centre in October 2016, after multiple attempts to apply for asylum at the border crossing point in Medyka on the Ukrainian border. During their stay, the mother was diagnosed with adaptation and depressive disorders related to violence and torture at a police station in her country of origin and detention in Poland which had a negative impact on her and her children. In June 2017 she tried to commit suicide. Although her and her children’s poor mental state was confirmed in successive psychological and psychiatric assessment reports, Border Guards refused to release her and her family. HFHR filed a complaint to the ECtHR on her behalf.\textsuperscript{456} On 8 January 2018 the European Court of Human Rights communicated the case of \textit{M.Z and Others against Poland}.\textsuperscript{457} As of March 2021, the case was pending.

On 25 June 2019 District Court in Przemyśl released from the detention centre a rejected asylum seeker who was a victim of torture. The court appointed an independent an expert- a psychologist who examined the applicant. The opinion confirmed that he was a victim of violence and suffered from PTSD. The court stated that the Border Guards should properly assess state of health of the foreigner if he claimed that experienced torture in his country of origin. In addition, court noted that the opinion of the Border Guards’ physicians may be questioned as it cannot be treated as independent expert opinion. On 2 November 2020, the District Court in Olsztyn released an asylum seeker who was a victim of violence. The court stated that a foreigner had to be released regardless of the reason of placing him in the detention centre; type of the experienced violence; and the place and circumstances foreigner suffered from violence. The court indicated that foreigners cannot be placed in detention centre if there are merely grounds for reasonably suspecting that he/she is a victim of violence. Furthermore, the court shared the concerns raised by SIP regarding the internal algorithm on the basis of which the identification of violence victims is carried out and stated that releasing the foreigners who suffered from violence and whose treatment is not possible in detention centre is against the Polish law. In this case, Border Guard knew that an asylum seeker had a number of gunshot wounds and was in a situation posing a real threat of serious injury or death. However, they denied to release him from detention centre because in their opinion there was no evidence that he was subject to violence. The foreigner’s mental health had deteriorated during 8-month detention,

In two other cases in 2020 and in 2021 the national courts granted compensation for unlawful detention of foreigners. In one of the cases the Regional Court in Olsztyn stated that a person who experienced violence cannot be detained regardless of a form of violence and identity of the perpetrator. In 2021 – in the first case which concerned unlawful detention of the family, the court granted 90,000 PLN (around 19,600 Euros) and in the other which concerned the detention of victim of torture – 39,000 PLN (around 8,500 Euros).

On 18 January 2020, the European Court of Human Rights communicated the case of A.A. against Poland. The case concerned an asylum seeker from Burundi, who came to Poland in January 2019 with a fake Swiss ID. The applicant was detained and placed in a detention centre in Kętrzyn despite of the fact that she was a victim of rape, suffered from that traumatic experience and had permanent scars. During her stay in the guarded centre, she was examined by two psychologists. The first expert, the employee of the detention centre, issued an opinion according to which she did not suffer from PTSD, but she needed psychological treatment. The second psychologist found out that she was a victim of violence and that her emotional state had worsened. In addition, expert recommended psychiatric consultation and treatment. However, the courts prolonged her detention and stated that she represented a risk of absconding and was not diagnosed with PTSD syndrome and that the guarded center provide her with adequate living conditions and medical care. Additionally, she was not allowed to participate in court hearings concerning her appeals against the placement and prolongation of her detention. Moreover, her appeal against the extension of detention was examined only after 50 days. On 29 September 2020 the Court decided to strike the application out of the list of cases due to unilateral declaration that the applicant was deprived of her liberty in breach of Article 5 § 1 (f) of the Convention and that she did not have at her disposal an effective procedure by which she could challenge the lawfulness of her detention, as required by Article 5 § 4 of the Convention. Poland undertook to pay the applicant the amount of EUR 9,000.

3.2. Detention of children

According to the law, unaccompanied asylum-seeking children should not be detained, but in practice it happens when there are doubts as to their age or if they were placed in detention as irregular migrants (which is possible under the law) and only then applied for international protection. Unaccompanied children are placed only in a detention centre in Kętrzyn, where adequate rooms (with 15 beds) are separated from the remaining part of the centre.

462 Article 88a(3) Law on Protection.

Asylum-seeking children who are with members of their family can be placed in detention centres together with accompanying adults. At the end of 2020, 9 children were held in detention centre in Kętrzyn, and 101, (including 23 unaccompanied children) in total were detained in 2020 (children in families, in asylum and return procedure). In 2020, children (in asylum and return procedure) stayed in detention centres in average for 70 days. Children in asylum procedure stayed (in the guarded centre of Biała Podlaska) in average for even 137 days (as for 30 June 2020) and for 134 days in Kętrzyn as for 1 January 2020. The shortest stay of families with children in detention centre was for 69 days in Kętrzyn at the end of 2020 and in Biała Podlaska at the beginning of 2020.

In 2018, the policy of protection of children in detention was put in place. The new algorithm was introduced—"Intervention procedures in case of hurting children in guarded centres for aliens". Within the framework of that policy, the employees of guarded centres were trained in the new rules and identification of a behaviour which should be considered an abuse.

In March 2018 the Commissioner for Child Rights sent a list of recent international recommendations concerning decisions on placing children in detention centers for foreigners to the presidents of courts of appeal (prezesi sądow apelacyjnych). Moreover, the Commissioner underlined that placing children in detention is never in the best interest of a child, always against their fundamental rights and could have a negative impact on their psycho-physical development. In addition, in the Commissioner’s assessment, courts check the possibility of using alternatives to detention in a superficial way. Courts held very often that it is not possible to impose an alternative to detention on the basis that asylum seekers have no place to stay ignoring the fact that asylum seekers have a right to live in open centers for foreigners managed by the Head of the Office for Foreigners.

In December 2018, the Commissioner for Child Rights in his letter to the Prime Minister indicated that all internal SG documents on the detention of children should be lawful and they should not render rules on releasing victims of violence ineffective.

In August 2019, the UN Committee against Torture (CAT) expressed its concern regarding the detention of families with children and unaccompanied minors over 15 years old. According to CAT conditions in detention centres require improvements and Poland should refrain from placing asylum seekers and in particular children in guarded centres for foreigners. In addition, Poland should introduce a principle to the law that detention of asylum-seekers, and in particular children and vulnerable persons, should be a measure of last resort, for as short a period as possible and in facilities appropriate for their status. Furthermore, CAT recommended that Polish authorities refrain from placing asylum seekers and in particular children in guarded centres, and ensure the fast and appropriate identification of vulnerable persons including survivors of torture and ill-treatment, as well as sexual and gender-based violence, and provide them with adequate access to health care and psychological services.

467 Communication from Poland concerning the case Bistieva and others v. Poland (application No. 75157/14), 14 June 2019, available at: https://bit.ly/2RzjAVU.
In the opinion of Commissioner for Human Rights, Commissioner for Children Rights, HFHR and other NGOs in Poland, child detention should be forbidden by law in all cases because detention, regardless of children’s migration status and their parents’ decisions, can never be in the best interest of a child, violates the children rights and may have a negative effect on children and their further development.

As of 2020, detention decisions still did not consider the best interest of the child or did not consider the individual situation of the child. When placing a child in a guarded center together with parents, the courts either do not mention children in a justification of the detention decision or justify detention relying on the best interest of the child principle, or limit their assessment to statement that children will be with their parents or detention centres ensure medical and psychological support to foreigners. In addition, the courts place families in guarded centres for a maximum period of time, rather than for the shortest period.

Further, courts did not order any further medical or psychological examination and did not interview children but instead relied on the documents presented by the Border Guards. Furthermore, justifications of the courts’ decisions were adapted from the BG application for prolonging the detention. Moreover, some courts treated detention as a form of punishment for crossing the border illegally.

In the NGOs’ assessment, courts examine the possibility of using alternatives to detention in a superficial way. Courts held very often that it is not possible to impose an alternative to detention on the basis that asylum seekers had no place to stay, ignoring the fact that asylum seekers have a right to live in open centers for foreigners managed by the Head of the Office for Foreigners.

In October 2020 the District Court in Olsztyn released an unaccompanied child who applied for asylum in Poland. In this case, Border Guard assumed that his friend (not related) with whom he was travelling was his legal guardian. During his 8 months stay in detention centre in Kętrzyn, Border Guards did examine the relations between these two boys.

On 8 January 2018 the European Court of Human Rights communicated the case of M.Z and Others against Poland. The application was lodged on 25 April 25 2017 and concerned a family with two children from Tajikistan, placed in the detention centre in Przemyśl for more than 8 months. During their detention, the mental state of the applicant was worsening and she suffered from depression and showed symptoms of adjustment disorder. She tried to commit suicide and she was in psychiatric hospital a few times. The applicants complained that their detention resulted in inhuman and degrading treatment; was arbitrary and contrary to the domestic law. Moreover, the situation of children was not taken into account and the length of detention had an impact on their family life. An application for a compensation for unlawful detention of the family was submitted and will be considered by the District Court in Warsaw. The motion was based, among others, on the fact that the family was deprived of liberty, despite of the fact that the applicant’s psychophysical condition indicated that she was a victim of violence and that her health deteriorated because of detention. The application also emphasized that impact on minor children was not investigated properly when deciding on detention. As of March 2021, the case was still pending.
On 10 April 2018, the European Court of Human Rights issued a judgment in the case of Bistieva and others against Poland. The case concerned a family of five, placed in the detention centre in Kętrzyn for almost 6 months. The court ruled that their right to family life was violated and Polish authorities did not assess the impact of the detention on the family, did not consider alternatives to detention and did not view detention as a measure of a last resort. Furthermore, the court held that no sufficient reason was provided to justify the detention and the best interest of the child was not taken into account. The court held that the family was in the detention centre for too long and the preceding asylum procedure concerning a family with children should be conducted faster and with greater diligence. Proceedings of execution of that judgment take place before the CoE Committee of Ministers. In June 2019 the government presented an Action Report on the implementation of the judgment in this case. According to the government, alternatives to detention are taken into account in cases of families with children, detention procedures are standardized, identification system of vulnerable groups is developed and implemented, and asylum cases persons in detention are treated with priority by the asylum authorities. Moreover, the guarded centres are adjusted to the needs of minors, children have access to education and medical care. Additionally, the Bistieva judgment has been translated into Polish, published on the Ministry of Justice website and disseminated among asylum authorities and Border Guard. Hence, Polish government stated that general measures adopted are sufficient and Poland fulfilled its obligations. In the opinion of Border Guard, that judgment does not impact prolongation of a foreigners’ stay in detention centres. On the other hand, according to HFHR, the general measures taken by Poland are not sufficient because the amendments in Polish law are not always applied in practice and Polish courts, placing children in detention centre, do not refer to the child’s best interest and do not treat children as a part of the proceedings, ignoring their presence. Furthermore, the courts rely on the information provided by the Border Guard and disregard independent psychological opinion on the negative impact of detention on children. Detention is not applied as a measure of last resort but rather it is maintained for the maximum period.

On 29 January 2019 the European Court of Human Rights communicated the case R.M. and Others against Poland. The application was lodged on 26 February 2018 and concerned family with three minor children, placed in the detention centre in Kętrzyn for almost eight months. Family was transferred to Poland under Dublin III regulation. Detention was prolonged despite the psychological problems of one of the children. The applicants presented an expert opinion but the courts extended their detention. The applicant complains that the detention of her children, then aged eleven and three years, constituted treatment contrary to Article 3 of the ECHR and her detention was also arbitrary, unjustified and unnecessary. The applicant also stated that placing and continuation of their detention had violated Article 5(4) of the ECHR as she had not received Border Guard motions on prolongation of detention. The court held that the detention of the children amounted to a violation of Article 5(1) of the ECHR. In the opinion of the Court, the conditions at the detention centre were similar to penitentiary institution, and therefore the court found the detention unlawful. Additionally, she complained that detention was a disproportionate interference with their right to respect for their family life.

On 6 September 2019, the Polish government submitted a unilateral declaration in the case of Bilalova against Poland and acknowledged a violation of Article 8 of the ECHR. The case was communicated in 2014 and concerned administrative detention of a mother with five minor children aged between 4 and 10 for three months. The applicant complained that Polish authorities never assesses the child’s best interest and the alternatives to detention were not considered. On 25 March 2020, the European Court of Human Rights published its judgment and found that the detention of the children amounted to a violation of Article 5(1)(f). In the opinion of the Court, the conditions at the detention centre were similar to penitentiary institution, and therefore the court found the detention unlawful. Additionally, the Court noted that Polish authorities had not treated detention as a measure of last resort and did not assess the possibility of applying alternatives to detention. The Court also found that their stay in the guarded center was too long.

482 Information provided by Border Guard, 5 February 2021.
483 Information provided by the Helsinki Foundation for Human Rights, 7 January 2021.
In June 2020, the court issued a third judgment on children detention in Poland.\textsuperscript{487} The ECtHR found a violation of the right to family life of the child because the Polish authorities did not examine the child's best interest when deciding on detention of a family, did not treat detention as a measure of last resort and did not examine the possibility of applying alternatives to detention. The Court stated that this violation had occurred even if there were grounds to believe that the family would leave Poland after applying for asylum in Poland.\textsuperscript{488}

In November 2019, a complaint to the UN Human Rights Committee was submitted to challenge another case of child detention. It addressed detention of an asylum-seeking family (single father with two children) in the detention centre in Biała Podlaska for 10 months, following their Dublin-transfer to Poland in November 2018. In this case, courts did not properly assess children’s situation and their best interests. The District Court, prolonging the detention of the family, considered only the opinion of Border Guard stating that there were no contradictions for the further children’s’ stay in detention centre. Likewise, Border Guard refused to release the family despite the fact that mental condition of children was deteriorating. On 10 of February 2021 the case was communicated to the Polish government.\textsuperscript{489}

</table>

The decision to detain an asylum seeker is issued for a period up to 60 days by a court, upon the motion of the SG.\textsuperscript{490} If a foreigner claims asylum during the stay in the detention centre, the period of detention is prolonged only if the Grounds for Detention of an asylum seeker mentioned before are met. If so, then the applicant’s stay in the detention centre is prolonged for up to 90 days from the day of filing the asylum application.\textsuperscript{491} The period of a stay in a detention centre can also be prolonged if before the end of the previous period of detention, the final decision concerning international protection was not issued and the reasons to detain the applicant still exist. In this case, detention can be prolonged by a court for a specified period of time. There are no timeframes set in law other than the maximum total period of asylum seekers’ detention, which is 6 months for asylum seekers and 12 to 18 months for persons facing removal.\textsuperscript{492} Prolongation is not possible if the procedure concerning reasons of detention is still ongoing e.g. the identity of the asylum seeker still is not verified, and this delay cannot be attributed to any fault on the part of the applicant.\textsuperscript{493}

In 2020, the average length of stay of asylum seekers in detention centre was in:

- Bialystok: 77 days,
- Przemyśl: 65 days as of 30 June 2020 (38 days at the beginning of January, at the end of 2020 -34 days),
- Krosno Odrzańskie: 74 days (49 days at the beginning 2020, 75 as of 30 June 2020, 88 days at the end of 2020),

Generally, most asylum seekers are unlikely to spend the whole status determination procedure in detention. However, if they apply for asylum from detention, their stay in detention can be prolonged for 90 days and if their application is rejected, their stay in detention can be prolonged even if they lodge an appeal against the negative asylum decision. If the asylum proceedings will end with a final decision within 6 months from applying for refugee status, asylum seekers will spend their whole asylum proceedings in detention, but it is hard to say that this is the case for most of them. There was a couple of cases in detention centre in Białystok in 2021 when asylum seekers were detained for the maximum time.

There are two types of detention centres in Poland, both used for detaining asylum seekers and foreigners subject to return procedures, namely guarded centres and so-called rigorous detention centres.

All detention centres are for migration-related purposes and the SG is in charge of their management. Asylum seekers are never placed in regular prisons with ordinary prisoners, but stay together with migrants in an irregular situation in a guarded centre or rigorous detention centre. There is no special facility where only asylum seekers are detained. The SG officers who run the centres are trained and there are no major issues reported concerning the staff behaviour.

The design and layout of some of the centres create the impression of a very prison-like environment: thick walls, bars in the windows and on the corridors. In addition, all centres are surrounded by high walls topped with barbed wire.

1.1. Guarded centres

These are 6 guarded centres with a total capacity of 595 (compared to 494 in 2019, 590 in 2018 and 608 in 2017) places for foreigners, located in:

Currently in four detention centres (Białystok, Krosno Odrzańskie, Lesznowola, Przemyśl) only men are held and in another two-(Kętrzyn, Biała Podlaska -closed at the end of 2020) only families with school-age children are held. Additionally, Border Guard plan to build a new building for families with children in guarded centre in Lesznowola in 2021.

In one of the centres (Kętrzyn), there is a separate part for unaccompanied irregular migrant children.\textsuperscript{495} Families are placed together in one room as far as possible both under the law\textsuperscript{496} and in practice.\textsuperscript{497} The single men are placed in rooms according to their nationality or preferences. In addition, there is a possibility to change a room on a foreigner’s justified demand.\textsuperscript{498} There are 2 places (1 room) for individuals with a certificate of disability in Kętrzyn.

The Polish authorities decided to remove bars in the windows in the detention centres and installed special secure windows in Lesznowola, Kętrzyn which cannot be opened without assistance of the Border Guard officers.\textsuperscript{499} In 2021 that windows will be installed in Biała Podlaska.

1.2. “Rigorous detention centres” (areszt dla cudzoziemców)

The term, literally translated as “arrests for foreigners”, replaced that of “pre-removal centres” as of 1 May 2014. These facilities impose more rigorous conditions of detention than guarded centres.\textsuperscript{500} Until December 2012 there were 5 such centres. Currently, there is one centre with a capacity of 33 places in Przemyśl for men and women, which is a single unit with a separate entrance.\textsuperscript{501} In 2020, a total of 29 foreigners were placed in the Przemyśl rigorous detention centre. At the end of 2020 there were 6 foreigners detained.\textsuperscript{502}

An asylum seeker can be placed in a more rigorous detention centre for foreigners only if there is a risk that they will not obey the rules in force in a guarded centre or the applicant has already disobeyed these rules.\textsuperscript{503} These detention centres are more prison-like than guarded centres. An asylum seeker placed in such a centre cannot freely move around (he or she is closed in the ward), cannot go outside for a walk whenever he or she wants except for two hours per day etc.\textsuperscript{504}

2. Conditions in detention facilities

| Indicators: Conditions in Detention Facilities |

| 1. Do detainees have access to health care in practice? | Yes | No |
| - If yes, is it limited to emergency health care? | Yes | No |

The Law on Foreigners contains a section on detention conditions, rights and obligations of foreigners.\textsuperscript{505} Some practices relating to the functioning of the centres have now been framed into the legal provisions. Below we present how the conditions are in practice.

2.1. Overall conditions

Six centres (Białystok, Kętrzyn, Biała Podlaska, Przemyśl, Lesznowola, and Krosno Odrzańskie) are relatively new and in good condition (they were built after 2008), Krosno Odrzańskie, Białystok and Lesznowola, Przemyśl, Biała Podlaska have been renovated in recent years. The guarded centre in Białystok was renovated until the end of 2018 and the renovation will resume in 2021. In addition, the guarded centre in Przemyśl and Biała Podlaska are renovated and the new premises for families with children are to be built in guarded centre in Lesznowola in 2021.

In Krosno Odrzańskie where only men are placed, foreigners stay in eight, six or four-bed rooms. In Lesznowola rooms have adequate access to natural light and double rooms measure 14 m² each. In Białystok rooms are well-lit and ventilated.

The main equipment in a room consists of beds, small wardrobes and a small table. In Lesznowola there is a television in each room (also in Krosno Odrzańskie), a room for preparing meals on their own, laundry, drying room, gym and outdoor pitch. If people placed in the centres cannot have all their belongings in their room, they have to place them in external storage space in the centre. Some of their belongings are also placed there for safety reasons and can be accessed only upon request. A sufficient space between beds is provided. As for privacy matters, the rooms cannot be locked at night.

Before the admission to the guarded centre and in situations justified on grounds of safety and order, foreigners are subject to detail two-stage checks. i.e. from the waist up and after dressing up from the waist down.

Foreigners are subject to constant monitoring, which is disproportionate to their situation and applied in the penitentiary system only to particularly dangerous prisoners.

In some detention centres, the food is provided by external providers, while in others it is prepared in the centres (e.g. in Białystok). Additionally, detainees have access to the microwave (e.g. in Białystok) or a separate place where they can prepare food by themselves (Lesznowola). There are several specific diets e.g., vegetarian, vegan, adapted to Muslims, adapted to pregnant or breastfeeding women or diabetics. Other diets can be respected on prescription of the physician.

2.2. Activities and education

In all guarded centres there is a sport and recreation space. Free time outside is no longer strictly limited. The open-air space is of adequate size and sufficient recreational facilities are provided (e.g. playing field for volleyball or basketball, in Białystok there is an open-air gym. In practice the detainees have the possibility to take part in outdoor exercises on a regular basis. However, some foreigners interviewed by the CPT delegation in the guarded centre in Białystok did not know of this free access. Detainees can watch television without any limitations, even until late at night. According to the CPT, the management of guarded centres in Lesznowola and Białystok should enlarge the offer of organised activities.

In all centres there is access to the internet and in all of them there are computers which can be used by detainees. It is worth noting that foreigners are under constant supervision of the Border Guard officer who additionally records the personal data and the exact time of their use of internet. Furthermore, the Border Guard Chief Commander ordered on 27 January 2017 the blocking of sites with terrorist-related and extremist content, social media and instant messaging platforms. New technologies such as VoIP (Voice over Internet Protocol) are also forbidden for security reasons despite the fact that the CPT recommended this kind of communication to be available for use by the foreigners in detention centres.\textsuperscript{515} Clearance of the internet usage was also introduced\textsuperscript{516} but on the other hand, foreigners placed in detention centres in Białystok, Krosno Odrzańskie, Przemyśl and Lesznowola have a possibility to use Skype a day after signing up for the list.

The detainees have access to reading and leisure materials. There are libraries – with a number of books and newspapers in several languages – Russian, English, and French. New books or newspapers, dictionaries, handbooks, maps and other materials were provided to all libraries in 2019. They also have popular games to play (e.g. chess, cards). Concerts and sport competitions are organised for adults and children in Kętrzyn. On the other hand, according to UNHCR, foreigners complained that additional activities are rarely organised and that they feel bored.

Detention centres provide rooms for religious practices.

In all centres, in the corridors of each floor there are boards which provide information in at least 1 or 2 main foreign languages (Russian and/or English). They provide information on the asylum applicants’ rights and/or the rules of stay in the detention centre, meal times, and contact details of NGOs, UNHCR and – depending on the centre – on access to the doctor and psychologist.

In all centres each asylum applicant and irregular migrant has an officer appointed to their case with a scheduled meeting to discuss their case. The rules of stay in the detention centres are available in 17 languages: Arabic, English, Ukrainian, Russian, French, Armenian, Chinese, Georgian, Hindi, Spanish, Mongolian, Persian, Turkish, Farsi, Urdu, Bengali and Vietnamese.\textsuperscript{517} Not all the language versions are displayed, as the vast majority of asylum seekers are Russian-speaking. Depending on the centre they are available on each floor of the detention centre or in the common-rooms, etc.

Children staying in the guarded centres are – like all other children staying on the territory of Poland – subject to obligatory education until they are 18. However, this obligation, set in the Polish Constitution, is not fulfilled in the case of children staying in guarded centres.\textsuperscript{518} None of the children staying there regularly attends school. Schools near the detention centres in Kętrzyn and Biała Podlaska delegate teachers to work in detention facilities. Special classrooms are prepared in these centres. This is the result of agreements between the Border Guard, educational institutions and local authorities.\textsuperscript{519}

Due to COVID-19, children implement schooling obligation on-line on the same terms as Polish pupils.

Moreover, educational departments in guarded centres organise additional classes for children, e.g., compensatory classes and activities for adults on e.g. Mother’s Day, Father’s Day, Refugee day.\textsuperscript{520}

2.3. Special needs and health care in detention

According to the law, all detainees have access to regular health care. In all centres, medical staff are present and working, there is at least one physician and one nurse, but there are often more. Nurses are present on a daily basis from 7.30 a.m. till 9.30 p.m. In case of an emergency or the need for a specialist (e.g. gynaecologist), detainees are transferred to hospitals or clinics. As of March 2018, SG officers trained in first aid should be present during night shifts in all guarded centers. The management of all detention centres was also obliged to make sure that there will be a physician in the center every day of the week.

In September 2015, the Border Guard prepared a document entitled “Rules of SG proceedings with foreigners who need special treatment (algorithm)” because there is no definition of persons who need special treatment and there are no methods for their identification set out in law. The algorithm consists of: (i) a definition of foreigners who are in need of special treatment, (ii) a list of persons involved in identification, (iii) a set of solutions which simplify identification, (iv) a procedure which should be implemented before a foreigner is placed in detention centre and (v) a procedure when a foreigner is already in detention. However, early identification of victims of torture and violence is not carried out during the preliminary examination of a foreigner on admission in practice. This document was modified in June 2019, based on merely internal consultation at Border Guards. In the opinion of SIP, still this document needs to be improved.

In the opinion of the Commissioner for Human Rights, and the Commissioner for Child Rights, the algorithm used by Border Guard to identify victims of violence is inconsistent with Polish law, the Istanbul Protocol and other international standards. This algorithm does not allow for the immediate release of foreigners who are alleged victims of violence from the guarded centre. According to the Commissioner for Child Rights, the available treatment and therapy in the detention centre for identified victims of torture only exacerbate their mental trauma. The Commissioner called on the Minister of Interior and Administration to oblige the SG to develop new set of rules regarding foreigners whose mental state demonstrates that they were violence victims.

According to the HFHR, the Polish authorities (SG and courts on own motion) do not identify victims of violence in an effective way. Such identification should be done at the earliest possible stage while deciding on whether the person should be placed in detention. Additionally, the SG and courts should on their own motion exclude the use of detention. Asylum seekers who in their asylum application declare that they were torture victims, are in practice sometimes placed in detention centres. Moreover, some courts placed victims in detention centres stating that there is no objection to placing a victim in detention because they will have access to psychological assistance in the guarded centre. The same opinion is presented in the SG guidelines, according to which, a foreigner will not be released if a psychological assistance can be provided in the guarded centre.

There is also access to psychological care. In all detention centres, information on the availability of medical and psychological care is displayed on boards in the corridors and on the psychologist’s office door. Foreigners are also informed about psychological assistance during the first meeting with their assistant in detention centre.

In Krosno external psychologist is present only for 4 hours per week, still is not trained in the Istanbul Protocol and he does not run a therapy for foreigners.\textsuperscript{528}

In Przemyśl, an external psychologist for foreigners is available 20 hours a week. The psychologists are not trained in the Istanbul Protocol and do not run a therapy for foreigners.

Consultant psychologist visit the guarded centre in Lesznowola only one day.\textsuperscript{529} Consultations are provided only in English and Russian. On the other hand, in the past the Commissioner for Human Rights reported lots of irregularities in psychological assistance and underlined that the number, the frequency and the description of the consultations showed that these consultations only consisted of preliminary interviews and diagnosis. Long-term psychological support was not provided. Additionally, the Commissioner pointed out that the fact there was only one psychologist limits the availability of psychological support. There is a high risk that this psychologist will not be available when her support during a foreigner’s mental crisis is needed and there will be no one who could substitute her and provide psychological assistance. Moreover, foreigners should have the possibility to choose a psychologist. Otherwise a detainee who is unable to trust an available psychologist, will not have access to effective psychological support.

In 2020 in guarded centre in Kętrzyn, the psychologist, Border Guard officer was available 5 days a week from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., additional in 2020 external psychologist was hired.

In Białystok one psychologist was Border Guard officer and hired full time – and external consultant available part time (8 hours, three times a week). In 2020 foreigners could make an appointment by themselves, and visit psychologist whenever they needed. The duty hours were placed on the door of the consultation room and on each floor.

Three psychologists are hired in Biała Podlaska, two (man and woman) as staff members of Border Guards (available from Monday till Saturday from 8.00 a.m. to 8 p.m.) and one as an external expert (available 4 hours a week).

The law allows lawyers, NGOs and UNHCR to have access to detention centres.\textsuperscript{530} Detained asylum seekers are entitled to maintain contact with UNHCR and organisations dealing with asylum issues or granting legal assistance (directly and by means of correspondence and telephone calls). Direct contact with UNHCR and organisations can be limited or restricted completely by the head of the detention centre if it is necessary to ensure safety and public order or to observe the rules of stay in the detention centre. The decision of the head of the centre is final.\textsuperscript{531} The Head of the Office for Foreigners and UNHCR should be informed about it.\textsuperscript{532} This provision is not used in practice. NGOs provide legal assistance, but unfortunately not on a regular basis. NGOs had to narrow their assistance, including legal assistance, in the detention centres, due to lack of financial means as a result of delay in the implementation of AMIF;

As a general rule, NGOs have to ask for the consent of a manager of the detention centre to meet with a specific asylum seeker. Lawyers, family members and friends, or NGOs can meet with a detainee during visiting hours. There are no limitations concerning the frequency of such visits. UNHCR Poland notes that they are not limited in accessing detention centres. The media and politicians have access to detention centres under general rules; they have to ask for the consent of the SG unit managing the detention centre. In practice, NGOs who want to meet with more than one or with unspecified asylum seekers, monitor conditions in a detention centre etc. must ask the SG Commander in Chief in writing for permission to visit a detention centre. Since 2017 permission is authorised by the Border Guard Headquarters. Nevertheless, visits are generally not limited to visiting hours. NGOs generally do not face problems in accessing the centres. In 2020 NGOs were also permitted to contact detainees remotely by videoconferencing due to coronavirus situation.

Visits from relatives, friends or religious representatives are authorised. Any visit should not last more than 90 minutes, but it can be prolonged in justified cases by the manager of the centre. Two adults have a right to take part in the meeting. The number of children is not limited. Non-scheduled visitors as a rule do not have a possibility to meet with the asylum applicant (but the manager of the detention centre can make exceptions from the above mentioned rules, especially when it is needed to maintain family ties and care over a children). Due to the coronavirus situation, all visits were suspended but foreigners could meet with members of their family and friends via Skype.

Detainees are able to maintain regular contact with people outside the centre. There is no limitation in using cell phones (without audio- and video recording system). The SG’s have several hundreds of substitute cell phones without a camera which they provide to foreigners in case they only have smartphones. The cell phones are handed over for the whole day for free. Detainees themselves pay for the calls. There are some problems to order a phone card and foreigners use phone card which were bought in other EU countries. The Border Guard officers go and do shopping for detainees usually twice a week. If the asylum applicant does not have money to buy a telephone card, there is a possibility of using the SG’s equipment in justifiable cases. The detainees have also access to the internet and Skype in all detention centres.

The Law on Foreigners foresees a legal possibility to impose sanction on a detainee who does not obey the rules in the detention centre. There are two possibilities: banning participation in sport and leisure activities (except for using the library); or banning the purchase of food and cigarettes from outside the centre.

When deciding upon the application of either of these two sanctions, the SG Regional Commander takes into account the general behaviour of the detainee, the level of disobedience, cultural background, etc. Before adopting the law, such punishments were applied in practice without any legal basis. In 2020, such punishment was used 2 times in Przemyśl for 7 days.

D. Procedural safeguards

1. Judicial review of the detention order

Detention is ordered by the District Court upon request of the SG. Prolongation of the detention is also ordered by the District Court upon request of the SG. Asylum seekers stay in the detention centre can be prolonged if before the end of the previous period of the detention, the final decision concerning the application for international protection is not issued and the reasons to detain the applicant still exist.\footnote{Article 89(4) Law on Protection.}

Asylum seekers are informed of the reasons of their detention, legal remedies and their rights. Information on the reasons for detention is given first in the court, orally, translated into a language understandable for the asylum applicant. The court has a clear obligation to hear the person concerned before rendering a decision.\footnote{Article 88b(1) Law on Protection.} In all guarded centres, when the person arrives at the centre, there is a meeting during which a detainee receives information about the centre, although, in practice asylum seekers do not understand the reasons of their detention and have basic information on their rights.\footnote{CPT Report 2018, available at: https://bit.ly/2HVZItc, 20.} For example it has happened that asylum seekers supported the SG requests to detain them which is surprising, especially in the light of the fact that later in some of these cases foreigners initiated appeal proceedings. In one of such cases, during the detention hearing a foreigner reportedly supported the SG request to detain him despite the fact that his child had epilepsy.

The law provides for judicial review of the lawfulness of detention.\footnote{Article 88b(3) Law on Protection; Article 403(8) Law on Foreigners.} Asylum seekers can appeal against a District Court ruling to the Regional Court within 7 calendar days from the day the ruling is pronounced. In prolongation cases it is 7 days from the notification of the ruling to an asylum seeker.\footnote{Courts interpret differently the law in this matter – some claim that 7 days should be counted from the day of the pronouncement of the court ruling about placing the foreigner in the detention centre, some that it should be counted from the day the translated ruling is delivered to a foreigner in writing – T. Sieniow, op. cit., 54.} In this appeal the detainee can dispute the grounds for their detention. Asylum seekers receive rulings in the language they understand; a literal translation of a ruling rendered in Polish. The Law on Foreigners envisages 7 days for the examination of the appeal.\footnote{Article 88b(3)Law on Protection; Article 403(8)Law on Foreigners.}

Some courts – although they have such a legal obligation – do not provide information about the right to a legal representative, whose services are free of charge if foreigners prove that they do not have any financial means.

The court procedure concerning detention orders is not considered effective. Courts often decide on detention of asylum seekers without an in-depth analysis of their personal situation, and reasons for detention mentioned in the judgment are indicated very generally - without direct reference to a personal situation. Courts do not conduct evidentiary proceedings on best interests of the child and on torture victims.

In the appeal procedure, foreigners do not know that they can ask the court to be present during examinations of their appeal against detention, so they cannot present their standpoint. At the same time, foreigners are not informed about the reasons for prolonging their stay in a detention centre by the Border Guard, such as for example in Ketrzyn and Białystok.\footnote{Information provided by the Association for Legal Intervention, February 2021.} Furthermore, the appeal has to be prepared in Polish, so foreigners are dependent on NGOs which provide limited legal assistance due to limited access.
Every person is entitled to compensation and redress for wrongful detention from the State Treasury. In 2020, SIP represented two families and a man whose cases are pending before the District Court of Warsaw and Olsztyn. In one of these cases, Court granted a compensation to the victim of violence in the amount of 90,000 PLN (around 19,600 Euros). The HFHR had two such cases in the District Court of Warsaw (pending as of February 2021) and in Radom. In the latter case, the foreigner, citizen of Congo was detained despite the fact that Border Guards identified him as a victim of violence from the very beginning. He was released from detention centre on the base of the court decision 3 months later. The court granted a compensation of 39,000 PLN (8,500 Euros) based on the documents presented with the compensation motion. The judgment was upheld in February 2021.

2. Legal assistance for review of detention

The law provides for access to free legal assistance for the review of detention before the courts, but it is hardly ever exercised in practice. Asylum seekers can ask the court to grant them free legal assistance, if they duly prove that they are not able to bear the costs of legal assistance, without harm to the necessary maintenance of themselves and their families. The court has a clear obligation to inform asylum seekers in a language understandable to them about the right to ask for legal assistance. However, this happens rarely in practice. Most asylum seekers are not aware of this possibility and in practice they are not represented by a legal advisor in the District Court. In addition, their right to defence is not observed when the court decides on the extension of their detention. Foreigners are either not informed about the day of the court proceedings or they are informed (in Polish) on the short notice - on the same day. As a result, they are unable to submit a request for the lawyer on time.

As a result, they are dependent on legal assistance granted by NGO lawyers, most of whom are not entitled to represent them before courts. Due to limited funds from AMIF, since 2015 all NGOs have limited their activities and do not visit detention centres on a regular basis to provide such assistance whenever needed. This has not improved in 2020.

The law foresees a state legal aid system which includes lawyers’ visits to the detention centres if necessary and it concerns only preparing the appeal of a negative asylum decision. In practice only some foreigners decide to look for a legal representative, i.e. an advocate or a legal advisor.

E. Differential treatment of specific nationalities in detention

There is no differential treatment of specific nationalities in detention in Poland.

Indicators: Residence Permit

1. What is the duration of residence permits granted to beneficiaries of protection?
   - Refugee status: 3 years
   - Subsidiary protection: 2 years
   - Humanitarian protection: 2 years

Refugee status is granted for an unlimited period of time. Recognised refugees obtain a 3-year residence card (karta pobytu). The first card is issued ex officio and is renewed after this period for another 3 years upon request.

Subsidiary protection is also granted for an unlimited period of time. Subsidiary protection beneficiaries obtain a 2-year residence card (karta pobytu). The first card is also issued ex officio and is renewed after this period for another 2 years upon request.

Humanitarian protection (zgoda na pobyt ze względów humanitarnych) is granted for an unlimited period of time. The beneficiary of humanitarian protection obtains a 2-year residence card (karta pobytu). The card will be renewed after this period for another 2 years. The first and subsequent card are issued on the foreigner’s demand.

As of 1 January 2021, there were 1,319 persons holding a valid residence card for refugees, 1,467 persons holding a valid residence card granted to subsidiary protection beneficiaries and 1,743 persons under the humanitarian protection scheme.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, the validity of those residence cards was prolonged by law until 30 days after the end of the epidemiological state in Poland.

An application for the renewal of the residence card should be submitted 30 days before the expiration date of the current residence card. Foreigners are often not aware of this rule.

The issuance of the residence card is paid and costs 50 PLN / 12 € for the card. Only the first residence card is issued free of charge. The fee can be diminished by 50% if a beneficiary is in difficult material situation (only if he or she obtains social assistance benefits) or is a minor up to 16 years old. There is no possibility of full exoneration from the payment. The obligation to pay even only 25 PLN / €6 sometimes prevents foreigners from obtaining a new residence card. Moreover, in case of culpable loss or damage of the card, a new one will be issued subject to a higher fee of no more than 150 PLN / €18.

The Office for Foreigners, which is responsible for the issuance and renewal of the residence cards for refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries,\footnote{Article 89n(2) Law on Protection.} is situated in Warsaw. In the case of humanitarian protection beneficiaries, an authority responsible for a residence card renewal is a Border Guard unit having jurisdiction over the foreigner's current place of stay.\footnote{Article 245(4)-(5) Law on Foreigners.}

The residence card has to be received in person. A card for a child under the age of 13 should be received in person by his or her legal representative.\footnote{Article 248(1)-(2) Law on Foreigners.} There is no possibility to receive a card by other representative or by post. Moreover, foreigners are obliged to give their fingerprints any time they renew a residence card.\footnote{Article 246(2) Law on Foreigners.} If they refuse to give their fingerprints, the residence card will not be issued.\footnote{Article 247 Law on Foreigners.} The obligation to give fingerprints and mandatory personal presence to pick up the card means that every time the foreigner has to obtain a new card, he or she has to travel to Warsaw in case of refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries, or another town in case of humanitarian protection beneficiaries, twice, even if he or she lives far away. This can be time-consuming and costly. The Office for Foreigners informed, however, that in case of a serious illness the obligation to collect fingerprints from an applicant is lifted, but it happens rarely (1-2 times a year).\footnote{Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 1 February 2017, 15 January 2019 and 22 January 2020.} The lack of a legal possibility to exempt the foreigner fully from the abovementioned payment, the obligation of personal presence twice – upon application and collecting the document, and the possibility to be issued a residence card only in one place may postpone the receipt of new residence cards by foreigners.

During the pandemic COVID-19, refugees and beneficiaries of subsidiary protection had to make appointment in advance (by phone or e-mail) in order to give fingerprints and pick up the residence card.\footnote{Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, 26 January 2021.}

Failure to renew a residence card can be punished by fine,\footnote{Article 465(4) Law on Foreigners.} but this does not happen in practice. There have been no such cases in 2015-2020.\footnote{Information provided by the Office for Foreigners, i.a. 22 January 2020.}

Moreover, Polish law requires presenting – as a condition to issue or renew the residence card – recent photographs. Photos presenting face with covered hair are not allowed (hair has to be visible on the picture), which is often problematic for Muslim women.\footnote{Ordinance of the Minister of Interior of 29 April 2014 on the documents issued for foreigners, available (in Polish) at: \url{http://bit.ly/2l7o9n0}.}

By law, all residence cards should have the annotation “access to the labour market”, if the foreigner is entitled to work in Poland.\footnote{Article 244(1)(11) Law on Foreigners.} In practice, cards issued for refugees as well as humanitarian and subsidiary protection beneficiaries do not have such an annotation, which can impede their access to labour market and to some social benefits, such as the ones in the framework of the “Family 500+” programme.\footnote{European Website on Integration, ‘Poland: social benefit ‘500 PLN per child’ not for refugees?’ 29 February 2016, available at: \url{http://bit.ly/2lLCBFK}. M. Sadowska, “Świadczenia ‘Dobry start’” in Stowarzyszenie Interwencji Prawnej (SIP), SIP w działaniu. Prawa cudzoziemców w Polsce w 2018 r., 2019, available (in Polish) at: \url{https://bit.ly/31HyL2O}, 52.} However, the Supreme Administrative Court as well as the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw held that such lack of annotation cannot be interpreted as excluding the foreigner from receiving social assistance, if he is in fact entitled to work in Poland.\footnote{See judgments of Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw No I SA/Wa 1997/16, 7 October 2016, available (in Polish) at: \url{http://bit.ly/2lBMJ26} and of the Supreme Administrative Court no. I OSK 1164/16, 14 March 2018.} Consequently, the Polish authorities changed their practice and no longer refuse the special financial support under the 500+ Programme on that basis.
2. Civil registration

Every child born in Poland, regardless of the nationality of their parents, must be registered in the Civil Registry Office (Urząd Stanu Cywilnego). The birth of a child must be reported to the Civil Registry Office territorially competent for the place of birth of the child. The documents necessary for the preparation of a birth certificate include:

- Written statement of birth issued by a doctor, midwife or health care facility;
- Copy of the marriage certificate if the child's parents are married;
- Birth certificate of the mother, marriage certificate with an entry noting divorce, an abridged copy of the death certificate of the spouse; if the child's mother is single, divorced or widowed, respectively.

The Civil Registry Office which prepared a birth certificate applies for a PESEL (Universal Electronic System for Registration of the Population) number for a child, which is then entered into the registry as well. The PESEL number is crucial in many areas of life including in the provision of health care, hence its registration is initiated by reporting a child's birth.

Marriage is concluded in the Civil Registry Office of the choice of the persons concerned. The documents required to enter into a marriage in Poland are:

- Valid identity document;
- Birth certificate and a marriage certificate together with the annotation of divorce, if the person concerned was married before;
- Certificate issued by the country of origin that the person concerned has the capacity to enter into a marriage under the law of their country.

If the latter document cannot be obtained, the person concerned can apply to the court to be exempt from this obligation.

Generally foreign documents have to be legalised or authenticated by apostille. As a general rule, all documents presented in the Civil Registry Office should be translated by a sworn interpreter and a foreigner who does not speak Polish needs to complete all the formalities (including the marriage ceremony itself) accompanied by a sworn interpreter of a language they speak fluently. Certificates are drawn up immediately.

Problems occur when documents from the country of origin have to be submitted. However, the court procedure to exempt beneficiaries of international protection from this obligation is applied rather efficiently.

The EU long-term residence permit (zezwolenie na pobyt rezydenta długoterminowego UE) is issued on a foreigner’s demand if he or she:

1. Resides in Poland legally and continuously for at least five years immediately prior to the submission of the application for the EU long-term residence permit,
2. Has stable and regular resources which are sufficient to maintain him or herself and the dependent family members;
3. Has appropriate medical insurance;
4. Knows Polish language at least on level B1 (the documents confirming having this knowledge are required).

Resources are considered sufficient, if for 3 years immediately prior to the submission of the application a foreigner had income higher than the income threshold for obtaining social assistance in Poland.\(^{585}\)

The entire period of a refugee’s stay in Poland during the asylum procedure is taken into account in the calculation of the 5-year period, if the asylum procedure lasted more than 18 months. In other cases, half of this period is taken into account.\(^{586}\) If the previous asylum procedure ended with refusal of the international protection, the period of this procedure is not taken into account at all.\(^{587}\) A procedure for an EU long-term residence permit cannot be not initiated if a foreigner is a humanitarian protection beneficiary or is seeking asylum.\(^{588}\)

Refugees and beneficiaries of subsidiary protection may also apply for a permanent residence permit (\textit{zezwolenie na pobyt stary}), if they continuously stay in Poland for at least 5 years immediately before the submission of the application. The asylum procedure is taken into account in this calculation.\(^{589}\) The same rules apply to beneficiaries of humanitarian protection but the asylum procedure is not counted to the 5 years period.

The fee for an EU long-term residence permit and a permanent residence permit is 640 PLN / 150 €. The 2019 report published by the Institute of Public Affairs emphasized that ‘Poland represents the country with the least favourable conditions, applying high fees and costs which constitute burdensome obstacles for BIPs given the very low level of social assistance benefits. BIPs are subject to costs of issuing a residence permit and initiating a procedure for permanent/ long-term residence that are higher than 50% of the minimum amount of the monthly social assistance benefit’.\(^{590}\)

The authority responsible for issuance of the EU long-term residence permit and a permanent residence permit is Voivode having jurisdiction over the current place of stay of the applicant.\(^{591}\) The Office for Foreigners is a second instance administrative body competent to handle appeals against first instance decisions. The procedure should last maximum 3 months at the first instance and additionally maximum 2 months if an appeal was lodged.\(^{592}\) In practice though it lasts often much longer. In 2020, the Polish Commissioner for Human Rights send the letter to the Prime Minister expressing his concerns that in general foreigners must wait months or years for a decision on a legalisation of their stay.\(^{593}\)

In 2016, 23 beneficiaries were granted EU long-term resident status. No data were made available for 2017-2020. Also, the specific data concerning only beneficiaries of international protection who were granted permanent residence permits are not available.

Polish citizenship can be obtained through two procedures. Firstly, citizenship can be granted by the Polish President. Any foreigner can apply to President to be granted Polish citizenship; there are no specific conditions and criteria for obtaining citizenship in this procedure. A foreigner only has to submit a form with information about him or herself and justification, why he/she applies for Polish citizenship, to a Consul or a Voivode, who hands on the application to the President. Knowledge of Polish language is not required. The citizenship is granted free of charge. The President’s refusal is a final decision and cannot be appealed.

Secondly, a foreigner can be declared as a Polish citizen if he or she fulfils criteria specified in law. Both refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries have to obtain first a permanent residence permit (zezwolenie na pobyt stały) or EU long-term residence permit in Poland.

A refugee who has been granted permanent residence permit and stays continuously on this basis in Poland for 2 more years can be declared as a Polish citizen. 18 and 57 refugees were declared as Polish citizens respectively in 2017 and 2018 on this basis. In 2019 at least 20 and in 2020 at least 9 refugees were declared as Polish citizens. There is no similar rule concerning subsidiary protection beneficiaries. To be declared as Polish citizens, they have to fulfil the same criteria as any other foreigner who obtained permanent residence permit or EU long-term residence permit in Poland (i.e. 2-3 years stay in Poland on this basis or 10 years of legal stay in Poland independently of the basis of the stay, stable and regular resources, legal entitlement to stay in a residential property or marriage with Polish citizen).

Both, refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries, to be declared as a Polish citizen, have to prove that they know Polish language. Foreigners should present a document confirming that they have graduated from a Polish school or that they have passed the State exam for Polish language as a foreign language (B1 at least). Those examinations are organised rarely (e.g. only twice in 2016 and 2017, three times in 2018 and 2019) and they are costly. To take an exam, foreigners often have to travel to another city, so bear the costs not only of the exam itself, but also of transportation and hotel, which may constitute an obstacle to naturalisation. In 2020, the Polish Commissioner for Human Rights intervened before the Ministry of Education, pointing on the foreigners’ problems with the access to the exams (exams organised too rarely, not enough places for all interested persons). The Ministry answered that they are working on the improvements in this regard, however concluded that the present system was generally sufficient. During the COVID-19 pandemic, access to the exams was hampered even more as many exam sessions were cancelled.

Other obstacles to naturalisation through a declaration as a Polish citizen are particularly the difficulties with providing a legal entitlement to stay in a residential property in writing (e.g. owners often do not want to sign a rental agreement, prefer oral agreements) and civil registration documents from a country of origin.

The beneficiary of international protection submits the application for declaration as a Polish citizen to Voivode who has jurisdiction over their current place of stay. The fee for obtaining citizenship is 219 PLN/49 EUR. The Voivode decision can be appealed to the Minister of Interior. The procedure should last one month or two, if it is a complicated case. In practice though it lasts often longer.

Poland has a single procedure ("deprivation") for the cessation and/or withdrawal of international protection. Refugee status is ceased if a foreigner:

a. Has voluntarily settled in the country, which he or she had left for fear of persecution;
b. Has voluntarily accepted protection of a country he or she is a citizen of;
c. Has voluntarily accepted the citizenship of the country of origin, which he or she had lost before;
d. Has acquired new citizenship and he or she is under the protection of the state whose citizen he or she has become;
e. Can no longer refuse to accept the protection of the country of origin, because the reasons why he or she was granted a refugee status no longer exist, and he or she did not present convincing arguments as to why he or she cannot accept this protection. The same applies to countries of habitual residence for stateless persons.

Subsidiary protection is ceased, if the circumstances which were the reason for granting subsidiary protection no longer exist or have changed in such a way that a foreigner no longer requires protection.

The cessation procedure is initiated by the Head of the Office for Foreigners ex officio or on other authorities’ demand. Asylum seeker should be informed about the initiation of the respective proceedings as soon as they started. The procedure should last no longer than 6 months. During the procedure a refugee or a subsidiary protection beneficiary should be interviewed, particularly in order to present reasons as to why he or she should not be deprived of the protection. A foreigner can also present arguments in writing.

A decision on deprivation of international protection is issued by the Head of the Office for Foreigners and can be appealed to the Refugee Board with suspensive effect. A foreigner should leave Poland within 30 days from the day of the delivery of the Refugee Board’s decision on cessation of international protection. In the same period, he or she can make the complaint to the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw. This onward appeal does not entail automatic suspensive effect but a foreigner can request the court to suspend final decision on deprivation of international protection. However, it takes sometimes even a couple of months to suspend the decision by court on the foreigner’s demand. During that period a foreigner stays illegally in Poland, so return proceedings may be initiated against him/her and a removal may be enforced.

Only some refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries are entitled to free legal assistance in cessation proceedings, namely those whose income is not higher than 100% of the criteria qualifying them to social assistance.\textsuperscript{614} Free legal assistance is only provided in the appeal proceedings; it does not include the first-instance procedure.\textsuperscript{615} Before the court, the foreigner can apply for free legal assistance by lawyer following the general rules (see Legal assistance).

A foreigner who was deprived of international protection is obliged to return the residence card immediately to the Head of the Office for Foreigners, no later than 14 days from the moment when a decision concerning cessation of the international protection becomes final.\textsuperscript{616}

There is no systematic review of the protection status in Poland.

There is a single procedure in Poland that includes the cessation and withdrawal of international protection. In consequence, the beneficiary may receive a decision on a deprivation of international protection, as it is called in Poland, which can be issued on the grounds justifying only a cessation or only a withdrawal or both. The Office for Foreigners shares the data on a general number of ‘deprivations’ and how often the exact legal basis was used in the respective decisions. From 2016 to 2020, the total number of persons deprived international protection as a result of a cessation or withdrawal procedure was as follows:

The above figures do not distinguish between cessation and withdrawal procedures as both fall under the category “deprivation of international protection” in the statistics shared by the OFF. Nevertheless, based on an analysis of the grounds used to deprive international protection, cessation and withdrawal procedures seem to have been applied in recent years as follows: in 2018, 11 foreigners (incl. 9 citizens of Russia) had their refugee status ceased (10 refugees) or withdrawn (1 person) and 157 (incl. 154 citizens of Russia) had their subsidiary protection ceased (153 beneficiaries) and/or withdrawn (13).\textsuperscript{617} In 2019, 6 decisions on a cessation of a refugee status were issued (incl. 5 citizens of Russia) and 100 (all concerning citizens of Russia) – on deprivation of subsidiary protection (97 ceased and 11 withdrawn).\textsuperscript{618} In 2020, 95 Russian citizens had their subsidiary protection ceased (94) and/or withdrawn (4). In 12 cases the refugee status was ceased (11 Russian citizens, 1 Sri Lankan national).\textsuperscript{619}

As regards the grounds for depriving international protection, the following cessation grounds were applied in 2020:

Cessation of subsidiary protection

The circumstances which were the reason for granting subsidiary protection no longer exist or have changed in such a way that a foreigner no longer requires protection 94 (Russia)

Source: Authors of this report based on an analysis of the statistics shared by the Office for Foreigners.

As mentioned above, the OFF does not distinguish between cessation and withdrawal procedures. The table above was thus created by the authors of this report based on an analysis of the grounds used by the OFF to deprive international protection with the aim to provide an overview of the most applied grounds in practice.

These figures reveal that mostly Russian Federation citizens are deprived of international protection in Poland. Cessation is not systematically applied to them, however. 66 Russian citizens obtained international protection in Poland in 2020, 76 in 2019, 70 in 2018, 86 in 2017 and 67 in 2016. In 2018-2020 Russian citizens were deprived of refugee status predominantly because of the fact that they have voluntarily accepted protection of the Russian Federation. They were deprived of subsidiary protection predominantly due to the fact that the circumstances which were the reason for granting subsidiary protection no longer existed or have changed in such a way that a foreigner no longer required protection (in 150 cases in 2018, 97 in 2019 and 94 in 2020). HFHR concludes that Russian citizens have mostly been deprived of protection as a result of travel to their country of origin after they obtained international protection. The finding is confirmed by the SIP. According to this NGO, returning to the country of origin – even only in order to obtain needed documents or to take care of ill family members – is a reason to deprive refugees and beneficiaries of subsidiary protection of their status. The same effect may be entailed by obtaining a passport in the embassy of the country of origin. SIP also points out that beneficiaries of international protection are deprived protection due to a changed situation in Chechnya. However, in its opinion, both individual and general circumstances of those cases are not scrutinized sufficiently by Polish authorities.

In 2018-2020 some Russian citizens were also deprived subsidiary protection because they were considered a security threat or there were serious grounds to believe that they committed a crime (see Withdrawal of protection status).

In 2019, only one foreigner submitted a complaint to the Voivodeship Administrative Court in Warsaw against a decision depriving him refugee status. His complaint was rejected. Eleven foreigners complained to the court in 2019 against deprivation of subsidiary protection. The court dismissed 5 such complaints. None of the complaints in this regard was considered justified in 2019.628 No data were made available for 2020.

In the judgment of 9 June 2017 (II OSK 904/17), the Supreme Administrative Court held that the administrative authorities entitled to cease or withdraw the refugee status cannot in those proceedings assess whether a foreigner should be granted subsidiary protection instead. In consequence, even when the authorities are aware of the reasons to grant subsidiary protection, they cannot do it ex officio, they can only deprive a foreigner of a refugee status, indirectly accepting that he may be send back to danger.627

6. Withdrawal of protection status

Indicators: Withdrawal

1. Is a personal interview of the asylum seeker in most cases conducted in practice in the withdrawal procedure? □ Yes □ No
2. Does the law provide for an appeal against the withdrawal decision? □ Yes □ No
3. Do beneficiaries have access to free legal assistance at first instance in practice? □ Yes □ With difficulty □ No

Refugee status is withdrawn (“revoked”) where the person:626

a. Has withheld information or documents, or presented false information or documents of significance for the asylum proceedings;
b. Has committed a crime against peace, a war crime or a crime against humanity, as understood by international law;
c. Is guilty of the acts contrary to aims and principles of the United Nations, as specified in Preamble and Articles 1 and 2 of the UN Charter.

Subsidiary protection is withdrawn where:629

a. It has been revealed that a foreigner has withheld information or documents or presented false information or documents of significance for the asylum proceedings;
b. There are serious grounds to believe that a foreigner has committed a crime against peace, a war crime or a crime against humanity, as understood by international law;
c. There are serious grounds to believe that a foreigner is guilty of the acts contrary to aims and principles of the United Nations, as specified in Preamble and article 1 and 2 of the UN Charter;
d. There are serious grounds to believe that a foreigner has committed a crime in Poland or an act outside Poland which is a crime according to Polish law;
e. There are serious reasons to believe that a foreigner poses a threat to state security or to the safety of the society.

Subsidiary protection may also be revoked if, after a foreigner has been granted subsidiary protection, it has been revealed that the beneficiary had committed a crime under Polish law punishable by prison sentence and had left his or her home country for the sole purpose of avoiding punishment.630

There is a single procedure in Poland that includes the cessation and withdrawal of international protection. In consequence, the beneficiary may receive a decision on a deprivation of international protection, as it is called in Poland, which can be issued on the grounds justifying only a cessation or only a withdrawal or both. The Office for Foreigners shares the data on a general number of ‘deprivations’ and how often the exact legal basis was used in the respective decisions.

In general, the international protection is rather ceased than withdrawn. In 2018, 11 foreigners (incl. 9 citizens of Russia) had their refugee status ceased (10 refugees) or withdrawn (1 person) and 157 (incl. 154 citizens of Russia) had their subsidiary protection ceased (153 beneficiaries) and/or withdrawn (13). In 2019, 6 decisions on cessation of a refugee status were issued (incl. 5 citizens of Russia) and 100 (all concerning citizens of Russia) – on deprivation of subsidiary protection (97 ceased and 11 withdrawn). In 2020, 95 Russian citizens had their subsidiary protection ceased (94 and/or withdrawn (4). In 12 cases the refugee status was ceased (11 Russian citizens, 1 Sri Lankan national), none was withdrawn.

The “deprivation” procedure in case of withdrawal is the same as in case of cessation and it is described in the section on Cessation.

B. Family reunification

1. Criteria and conditions

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<tr>
<td>❖ If yes, what is the time limit? 6 months</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Does the law set a minimum income requirement?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The procedure of family reunification is governed by Article 159 of the Law on Foreigners. Family members who are eligible to reunite with the beneficiary are:

- spouse (marriage has to be recognised under the Polish law, but does not have to be concluded before the beneficiary’s entry to Poland);
- minor child (biological or adopted) of the family member dependent on them and under their parental authority
- minor child (biological or adopted) of the beneficiary and his or her spouse dependent on them and under their parental authority

In case of a minor beneficiary of international protection, family members who can reunite with them are not only parents but also grandparents or other responsible adult under Polish law (e.g. legal guardians). A beneficiary can also apply for a residence permit for a family member, who already stayed in Poland.
without permit when the beneficiary had applied for protection. In such a case they have to prove that family has already existed in the country of origin.

There is no waiting period for family reunification in Poland, nor is there a time limit. Foreigners who have obtained refugee status or subsidiary protection are eligible for a simplified family reunification procedure, but still it is very complicated and expensive procedure. If they submit a relevant application with a Voivode of proper venue within 6 months from the date of obtaining protection within the territory of Poland, they are not obliged to comply with the conditions of having health insurance, a stable source of income or accommodation in Poland. It must, nonetheless, be remembered that when the residence permit is granted, the beneficiary’s family residing outside Poland is obliged to obtain a visa from a Polish consulate. The requirements under which a visa is obtained, in turn, include having adequate financial means and health insurance.634

There are no differences between refugees and beneficiaries of subsidiary protection as to the family reunification conditions. The beneficiary is not required to know Polish, is not subject to DNA tests, but has to present original documents certifying the family ties, translated into Polish by a sworn translator.

Data on family reunification of beneficiaries of international protection are generally not disaggregated by the authorities.635 The main challenges for beneficiaries of international protection to be reunited with their family members are: a narrow definition of family members (e.g. civil partners are excluded), lengthy and complicated and costly procedure (submitting and translating official documents, journey to Poland, to Polish consulate, paying several visits to the consulate).636

2. Status and rights of family members

Family members may be granted a temporary residence permit, if they are not in Poland or if they do not apply for an asylum after the arrival. The temporary residence permit in order to facilitate family reunification of beneficiaries of international protection is granted up to 3 years. It happens that temporary stay is issued for only one year. The foreigner is then issued a residence card upon arrival to Poland with an expiry date conforming to the expiry date of the permit that was granted. The card contains the foreigner’s personal data, residence address, annotation confirming the right to be employed in Poland, and the expiry date.

Foreigners who have been granted a residence permit under family reunification procedure may take employment in Poland without the need to apply separately for a work permit, and children under 18 years of age are entitled to free education in Polish schools. Family members of foreigners granted refugee status or of subsidiary protection are also entitled to social benefits. They also are entitled to be covered by the Individual Integration Programme provided that a relevant application is submitted with one of the Poviat Family Support Centres (powiatowe centra pomocy rodzinie). Such an application must be submitted within 60 days from the date when the temporary residence permit is granted, which is not sufficient time for submitting the IPI application.

636 Ibidem, 21.
C. Movement and mobility

1. Freedom of movement

Refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries have full freedom of movement in Poland. They can freely choose a place where they want to live, authorities do not require from them to live in some particular areas of the country.

There are no specific facilities for refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries in Poland. They are entitled to stay in reception centres up until 2 months after the decision on the asylum application becomes final. Afterwards they have to organize all living conditions themselves.

Beneficiaries are obliged to reside in a place (within the specified voivodeship) agreed with the authorities during the 12-month period of the Individual Integration Programme (IPI) (see Social welfare). In general, change of a place of residence is equated with the termination of the programme. However, a change of residence is allowed in particularly justified cases, e.g. in case of:
1) finding a job in another region with a possibility of accommodation;
2) obtaining an accommodation in another region;
3) family reunification, when the possibility to live together exists;
4) medical reasons justifying a move.
In those cases, the beneficiary has to inform authorities about the move and its reasoning. Then, the programme can continue in a new place of living.

Refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries are not assigned to a specific residence for reasons of public interest or public order.

2. Travel documents

Refugees obtain travel documents mentioned in the Refugee Convention, which are valid for 2 years from the day of issuance. Subsequent travel documents are issued on the refugee’s demand. The document is issued free of charge, whether a first travel document or a subsequent one. The authority responsible for issuance of refugee travel documents is the Head of the Office for Foreigners. The procedure concerning refugee travel documents should last one month or two, if it is a complicated case.

A refugee travel document has to be received in person. A travel document for a child under the age of 13 should be received in person by his or her legal representative. In case of force majeure preventing a foreigner to receive a document in person, the refugee travel document can be received by a proxy. Foreigners are obliged to give their fingerprints any time they apply for a refugee travel document. The obligation to give fingerprints and mandatory personal presence to receive the travel document means that most of the time refugees willing to obtain a new travel document have to travel to Warsaw twice, even if they live far away. It is time-consuming and costly.

Beneficiaries of subsidiary protection are entitled to a Polish travel document for foreigners. The application for the document should be submitted to a Voivode having jurisdiction over the current place of stay of a foreigner and requires a fee of 100 PLN / 23 €.

A Polish travel document will be issued only if a beneficiary of subsidiary protection: has lost his or her passport or the passport has been damaged or its validity has expired, and he or she is unable to obtain a new passport from the authorities of the country of origin.\textsuperscript{645} Inability to obtain a new passport from the authorities of the country of origin is often understood by the Polish authorities as a requirement for beneficiaries to present written evidence that they have contacted the embassy of their country of origin and that this authority has refused to issue a passport for them. Often foreign authorities are unwilling to issue a document confirming those facts. Moreover, some beneficiaries of subsidiary protection are afraid to contact authorities of their country of origin, because they sought protection in Poland due to the persecution or harm they experienced from the authorities of their country of origin.

The procedure concerning the Polish travel document for a foreigner should last one month or two, if it is a complicated case. In practice, however, it may last longer.

Refusal to issue the Polish travel document for a foreigner can be appealed to the Head of the Office for Foreigners.

The Polish travel document for a foreigner entitles to multiple border crossings and is valid for 1 year.\textsuperscript{646} After that period, a beneficiary of subsidiary protection needs to apply for another such document. Even in case of an application for a subsequent Polish travel document, after the previous one expires, beneficiaries of subsidiary protection are expected to again take measures in order to obtain the passport from their country of origin.\textsuperscript{647}

In 2017, 658 refugees obtained Convention travel documents and 102 subsidiary protection beneficiaries obtained Polish travel documents for foreigners.\textsuperscript{648} In 2018, 555 Refugee Convention travel documents were issued. The data concerning Polish travel documents for foreigners issued to beneficiaries of subsidiary protection were not made available.\textsuperscript{649} In 2019, 681 refugees obtained Convention travel documents and 38 subsidiary protection beneficiaries obtained Polish travel documents for foreigners.\textsuperscript{650} In 2020, 538 refugees obtained Convention travel documents and 129 subsidiary protection beneficiaries obtained Polish travel documents for foreigners.\textsuperscript{651} municipalities provide singular flats annually, dedicated for beneficiaries e.g.: 5 in Warsaw, 4 in Lublin, 4 in Gdansk. Within the 12-month period of Individual Integration Programme (IPI), individuals may receive a financial benefit to pay for a flat. Yet, according to social assistants in the Centre for Social Assistance in Wolomin, (suburbs of Warsaw) the owners are not willing to rent flats to refugees and often demand higher fees.\footnote{Rzeczpospolita, ‘Bez mieszkań dla uchodźców’, 13 October 2015, available (in Polish) at: http://bit.ly/2lQYYJS.}

Many NGOs are of the opinion that beneficiaries of international protection face homelessness and destitution in Poland.\footnote{Wyborca, ‘Uchodźcy w Polsce mieszkają w squatach i ruderach. Fundacja szuka dla nich tanich mieszkań’, 10 November 2016, available (in Polish) at: http://bit.ly/2kqrrpE. There was an extended research on this for UNHCR in 2013, available at: http://bit.ly/2kKwLAI.} Some researchers stress that although there is no data on the number of homeless beneficiaries of international protection, there is a high risk that the number is substantial.\footnote{Maryła Koss-Goryszewska ‘Mieszkalnictwo’ in A. Górska, M. Koss-Goryszewska, J. Kucharczyk (eds), W stronę krajowego machaniczu ewaluacji integracji: Diagnoza sytuacji beneficjentów ochrony międzynarodowej w Polsce (Instytut Spraw Publicznych 2019), available (in Polish) at: https://bit.ly/2w3NkBS, 30.} There is a study in which episodes of homelessness or severe housing conditions were reported in the period between living in the reception centre and benefitting from integration programme or after the integration assistance ended.\footnote{Lukasiewicz, K., ‘Exile to Poverty: Policies and Poverty Among Refugees in Poland’, International Migration Vol. 55 (6) 2017, 63.} The Foundation Ocalenie, running a project called “Welcome home”, promoting private sponsoring for beneficiaries, within which it helped 53 beneficiaries (as of August 2019) in i.a. renting a flat in Warsaw, informs that more than 25% beneficiaries in Poland can face homelessness. The main obstacles to find a flat are high prices and discrimination.\footnote{Information available at: https://bit.ly/3d9U426.} As another study shows, generally a negative narrative about refugees is prevalent in the public discourse, which leads to a systematic growth of the negative attitudes towards refugees in Poland. The lack of knowledge about the assistance offered to refugees in Poland reinforces stereotypical ideas about welfare support accompanied with the complete passivity and demanding nature of the refugees.\footnote{B. Łaciak, J. Seges Frelak ‘The wages of fear. Attitudes towards refugees and migrants in Poland’, Foundation Institute of Public Affairs, Warsaw 2018, available at: http://bit.ly/3s3hZXK.}

According to the report from 2020, many beneficiaries still experience homelessness. Stereotypes and negative attitude towards foreigners prevail. Finding accommodation for large families is even more challenging. IPI is not tailored to tackle these problems.\footnote{NGOs alternative report to the government report on implementation of the Convention of the Rights of the Child, submitted to UNICEF, August 2020, available (in Polish) at: https://bit.ly/3s3hZXK.}

Another extensive study on integration from 2020 shows that housing is one of the major issues for both asylum seekers and beneficiaries of international protection in Poland. Applicants who had lived outside the facilities run by the Office for Foreigners during the procedure, seem to be better prepared for the numerous challenges, such as finding adequate housing for a reasonable price. The shortage of affordable housing makes the situation of persons with international protection particularly difficult. Consequently, inadequate quality of housing results in slowing down the process of adaptation of foreigners to the new socio-cultural conditions of the host country, and may have a negative impact on their physical and mental health.\footnote{K. Sobczak-Szelc, M. Pachocka, K. Pędziwiatr, J. Szałańska, ‘Integration Policies, Practices and Responses. Poland – Country Report’, Multilevel Governance of Mass Migration in Europe and Beyond Project (#770564, Horizon2020), available at: http://bit.ly/3bljTxL, p. 11.} The difficulty of finding adequate and affordable housing is one of the important reasons why some beneficiaries of international protection decide to leave Poland and search for better living conditions in the countries of Western Europe where there might be denser diaspora and other support networks.\footnote{Ibidem, p. 134.}

E. Employment and education

1. Access to the labour market

Refugees and beneficiaries of subsidiary protection have access to labour market on the same conditions as Polish citizens. There is no difference between refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries. Access to employment is not limited to certain sectors.

In practice they have access to employment although they face obstacles, e.g. language skills, qualifications, low awareness of employers about their full access to the labor market. Additionally, labour market institutions are not prepared to help beneficiaries of international protection to enter the labour market in Poland, despite a clear obligation to do so in the law. NGOs report that foreign employees face discrimination, often on multiple basis.664

Low language skills and low professional qualifications results in unemployment or employment with low salary; instability of employment; small chances for a promotion.665 It is easier to find a job in bigger cities, e.g in Warsaw where vocational trainings are provided in foreign languages. Support of the state is only provided during the 12-month Individual Integration Programme (IPI). Although beneficiaries of international protection have access to professional qualifications programs, they are held in Polish which exclude their participation in practice. There are no programs specially dedicated to foreigners improving professional qualification with learning Polish. Additionally, the specific needs of foreigners are not taken in to account.666

In the report from 2020, the key problems were identified as: insufficient knowledge of Polish by beneficiaries of international protection, modest linguistic skills of the labour market services and limited ties and social networks, which often act as barriers for them to find a job. Assistance provided by social workers within IPI in most cases consist of support in completing documentation necessary to register at labour office, searching for job offers and contacting a potential employer as well as informing about the possibility of participating in vocational training in Polish. Vocational trainings on the other hand do not respond to market needs.

An important finding of the study is that despite early and effective inclusion in the labour market which gives a greater chance for integration of beneficiaries of international protection with Polish society, there is a lack of mechanism to mainstream integration of beneficiaries of international protection in labour market. There is also a lack of monitoring system for acquisition of work skills, and recognition of qualifications as well as for labour market inclusion of beneficiaries of international protection. Moreover, data related to trainings and effectiveness of IPI in relation to labour market inclusion are not collected in a systematic way.667

Polish NGOs play an invaluable role in helping migrants and refugees and it is not different in the area of integration on the labour market. The report lists all the projects and activities NGO have ran in 2020 in order to facilitate access to labour market for beneficiaries.668 The COVID-pandemic made it ever harder to obtain and maintain workplace. Some NGOs raised money for alimentation for beneficiaries who lost their jobs during pandemic.

2. Access to education

The situation does not differ from the situation of asylum seekers (see above Access to education). The situation of beneficiaries can be actually worse because the schools near the reception centres are more familiar with the challenges related to foreign pupils than other schools in the country. According to the data from the System of Educational Information as of 30 September 2016 there were 1,958 children in Polish schools, from families still subject to international protection proceedings or already granted protection.

The main finding of the report from 2020 dealing with education of beneficiaries is that even though there are instruments stipulated by the law and designed for foreign children, such as additional Polish language classes, compensatory classes, preparatory classes and teachers’ assistants, due to insufficient funding their implementation is often inadequate. It turned out that the biggest shortcoming of the inclusion of refugee children in the education system is lack of trainings and methodological support for teachers who work with them.

With regard to education of adults, the most important issues appeared to be learning of Polish language and recognition of education obtained in the countries of origin. It turned out that the attendance of beneficiaries of international protection in the courses is very low (approx. 35 percent) which results from either lack of the courses in some localities, inability to reconcile work with participation in a course due to the latter’s hours, or low attractiveness of the courses (i.e. their failure to meet the needs of refugees). The procedures of recognition of qualifications from the country of origin, are expensive and complicated. However, in order to enable continuation of education for refugees, many universities in Poland offered facilitation in the mentioned procedures together with providing scholarships that would ease refugees’ admission for studies.

F. Social welfare

Beneficiaries of international protection have access to social welfare on equal terms as nationals. There is no difference drawn between refugees and subsidiary protection beneficiaries.

1. Forms of social assistance

Social assistance can be provided inter alia for the following reasons: orphanhood; poverty; homelessness; unemployment; disability; long-term or severe disease, violence in the family; the need to protect the child and family; addiction (alcoholism and drug addiction); difficulties in integration of foreigners who were granted refugee status, subsidiary protection, sudden and unpredictable situations (natural / ecological disaster, crisis situation, random event), difficulties in integration due to lacking the care and educational institution or prison.

Social assistance is granted to beneficiaries of international protection whose income does not exceed PLN 701 (161 €) (for a single person), or PLN 528 (121 €) (for a person in the family). The application for social assistance has to be filed before the Social Welfare Centre (Ośrodek Pomocy Społecznej, OPS) which is located in the district where beneficiaries of international protection reside.

Beneficiaries of international protection are also entitled to family benefits and supplements (świadczenia rodzinne i dodatki) under two conditions also applicable to Polish nationals: (a) residence in Poland; and (b) the average monthly family income per person in a family, which cannot exceed 674 PLN (149 €) or 764 PLN (169 €) if the child in the family is certified as disabled. They have a right to apply for:
- Family allowance
- Childbirth aid and supplement
- Attendance allowance
- Parental benefit
- Supplement for the beginning of the school year, education away from home, education and rehabilitation of a disabled child, rising a child in a numerous family, rising child alone, and caring a child during parental leave.

Furthermore, beneficiaries of international protection have a right to apply for special financial support under the government “500+ Programme”, which is paid on monthly basis. This benefit is for families with children, and should be spent on the need of child regardless of income. For families with a disabled child, the net income criterion is 1,200 PLN (266 €). The benefits are granted by Municipal Office of Social Welfare, acting on behalf of the President of the city.

On the other hand, single mothers who are recognised beneficiaries of international protection, still face obstacles to receiving the above-mentioned benefits. According to the law, they have to provide a court with a writ of execution (tytuł wykonawczy) confirming maintenance benefit from the other parent. As a result of these regulations, they are deprived of that benefits because they are not able to present that required document due to their exceptional personal and family situation.

2. Individual Integration Programme (IPI)

Beneficiaries of international protection are also entitled to the Individual Integration Programme (IPI) provided by the Poviat Family Support Centres (Powiatowe Centra Pomocy Rodzinie, PCPR). They have to submit an application for IPI with additional documentation to the head of the poviat (starosta) through the PCPR within 60 days from the date beneficiaries of international protection had received a decision on refugee status or subsidiary protection. The application covers also the spouse and the minor children of the applicant if they were covered by the applicant’s asylum application. On the other hand, children born in Poland after the completion of the parents’ integration program are not granted such assistance. Likewise, spouse of a Polish citizen has been excluded by law from the right to apply for the IPI.

The Programme takes 12 months during which integration assistance is provided. This assistance includes:
- Cash benefits for the maintenance and coverage of expenses related to learning Polish language;
- Payment of the health insurance premium specified in the provisions on general insurance in the National Health Fund;
- Special social counseling.

The social worker carries out the so-called environmental interview with a beneficiary of international protection and his or her family, and then together with they draw up an IPI. The programme determines the amount, scope and forms of integration assistance, as well as mutual obligations of the beneficiary and PCPR. The minimum cash benefit amount is PLN 647 (149 €), per person per month. Financial assistance is paid from the month beneficiaries of international protection applied for IPI or from the moment they left the open centre for foreigners.

Since the 1 October 2018 beneficiaries of international protection are entitled to receive:

1) during the first 6 months of the integration program:

- up to PLN 1376.00 (317 €) per month - for a single person;
- up to PLN 963.20 (22 €) per person per month - in a 2-person family;
- up to PLN 825.60 (190 €) per person per month - in a 3-person family;
- up to PLN 688 (158 €) per month per person - for a family of four and more.

2) in the period from 7 to 12 months of the integration program:

- up to PLN 1238.40 (288 €) per month - for a single person;
- up to PLN 866.88 (200 €) per person per month - in a 2-person family;
- up to PLN 743.04 (171 €) per person per month - in a 3-person family;
- up to PLN 619 (149 €) per month per person - for a family of four and more.

PCPR assists the beneficiary to obtain housing in a place of residence his or her choice, where he or she is obliged to reside during the 12-month period of the IPI. A change of residence is allowed in particularly justified cases. In case the beneficiary changes residence in the region without informing PCPR, the programme will be terminated.

In practice, beneficiaries face a range of obstacles in obtaining social assistance, ranging from lack of awareness of their rights and language barrier, to the discretion of authorities in the limits of financial assistance granted, to the requirement of translated forms and official documents which cannot be obtained from their country of origin e.g. alimony judgment to receive the “500+” child benefit. The need for the entire family to reside in Poland may also pose difficulties.

As one study finds, social policy provides few or no resources needed to function independently in Poland. By delivering mostly financial assistance, integration programmes helps families to get by on a daily basis but fails to build the resources needed to become independent. For some participants, the programmes strengthened their feelings of lack of control over their lives and the helplessness already developed during the asylum procedure. There is a lack of adequate social work with beneficiaries. The financial means are not sufficient for renting a flat and only few of them can count on receiving social or communal housing. According to SIP, IPI should last longer than 12 months and be practically adapted to individual needs of applicants. Additionally, integration assistance should also be granted to children born after the completion of parents’ integration programs.

The case workers interviewed in the study explained that, because they have too many integration programmes to manage monthly, it was practically impossible for them to offer any social work counselling, and they instead focused on managing monetary transfers. Most of the IPIs are implemented by WCPR.

Social Welfare Centres assisted 150 families of recognised refugees (which covered 265 people) and 108 families under subsidiary protection (which covered 265 persons) throughout 2019.\(^{684}\)

\[G.\] Health care

The right to healthcare is a constitutional right, applicable to third-country nationals as well. Recognised refugees and beneficiaries of subsidiary protection are considered ‘insurance holders’ under the Law on Healthcare Services financed from public funds and are thus entitled to exactly the same services as Poles under the condition of having a valid health insurance.\(^{685}\) It means that in practice free health care is conditional on the payment of health care insurance with the National Health Fund (NFZ). Refugees and subsidiary protection holders, within their 12-month IPI, are obliged to register within regional job centre and are granted health insurance. After the IPI is completed, the obligation to pay insurance lies with: the employer (if a refugee has a work contract), a regional job centre of social assistance centre (if they are registered as unemployed) or the refugees themselves if they wish to cover the costs of insurance.\(^{686}\) The required documentation is very hard to obtain and there are long administrative delays and waiting periods in obtaining entitlement to health care in Poland, according to the report from 2019.\(^{687}\)

Importantly, in Poland, all children under 18 years old are entitled to free health care, even if they are not insured and the cost of their treatment is covered by the State Treasury. Children under 19 years old who attend school, regardless of their migration status, are covered by preventive healthcare which includes medical and dental examinations, rehabilitation programmes, health awareness education and health emergency education provided by school or district nurses.\(^{688}\)

The health insurance with the NFZ covers all guaranteed health care services specified in the lists of the Ministry of Health. They include both basic and specialist medical services, vaccinations, diagnostic testing (laboratory or other), rehabilitation, hospital care and medical rescue services, emergency ambulance services and medical transport. The NFZ, however, does not cover some dentistry procedures, costs of purchasing medicines, auxiliary products or orthopedic equipment. Notably, nursing care for elderly persons is not provided in Poland.

The main issue with regard to access to healthcare are linguistic and cultural barriers. Access to interpretation in the health care system is not available at all. Other challenges are similar to the challenge Polish nationals are facing as well: long waiting time to see a specialist, costly private medical services and expensive medicines. The beneficiaries’ access to health care is jeopardised by difficulties in accessing legal forms of employment, which guarantee free health care. That is why in 2020, when due to pandemic beneficiaries were left without work, in many cases the situation was critical — NGOs organized online fundraising for food or medical treatments.

According to a report from 2020, the barriers in accessing healthcare were linguistic ones and linked with the stereotypical perception of persons coming from a specific part of the globe or belonging to a given ethnic or religious group. Similar to citizens of Poland, persons with international protection who cannot wait to see a specialist and have an adequate funding use the services of the private medical sector. One of the clear gaps in the medical services is the specialized treatment for victims of torture or traumatized refugees. There is a clear lack of the qualified psychologists and therapists specializing in treating trauma, in particular in an intercultural context.

As regards the access of beneficiaries of international protection to vaccines, the situation was still unclear at the time of writing of this report. The Commissioner for Human Rights asked the government for guidance on this matter, but there has been no response yet.
