The Temporary Protection Directive (TPD) was introduced in the national legal framework by Presidential Decree 80/2006 (Gov. Gazette 82/A/14-4-2006). The Decree was abolished by the Asylum Code (article 148), which codifies TPD provisions under articles 119-146 (Part 6).

Temporary Protection in Greece was activated in accordance with Council Implementing Decision \(EU\) 2022/382 (04/03/2022) via M.D. 131035/4.3.2022. It covers persons that were legally residing in Ukraine before 24 February 2022, and namely Ukrainian nationals, third country nationals or stateless persons granted international protection or equivalent national protection status in Ukraine before 24 February 2022, as well as the family members of the aforementioned groups of beneficiaries.

There were no significant numbers of people who were displaced - directly or indirectly - by the war present in Greece but beyond the scope of TPD. During 2022, 118 non-Ukrainian third country nationals were granted TP, among which 101 Russians. No relevant data has been made available since.

As was the case in previous years,¹ official data on beneficiaries of temporary protection continued to be very limited in 2025 and no data on the total number of individuals present in Greece, who were potentially entitled to temporary protection throughout the year, has been published. In a February 2023 article,² the former Secretary General for Reception of the MoMA noted that up to August 2022, more than 75,000 Ukrainian nationals had arrived in Greece, with the very low number of pre-registrations for temporary protection (19,000 at the time) confirming, according to the former S.G., Ukrainians' "high expectation that they would soon return to their homeland".

From the start of the implementation of the TPD in February 2022 until December 2025, a total of 38,767 applications for temporary protection were pre-registered by the Asylum Service, 5,732 of which during 2025.³ During this period, most applications were registered by the RAO of Attica (20,754), followed by the RAO Thessaloniki (10,139) and the RAO of Crete (3,100).

During the same time interval, a total of 38,138 people were granted temporary protection/received temporary protection cards, 5,566 of which during 2025.⁴ The vast majority of those who received temporary protection cards since 2022 have been women (26,759), mostly between the ages of 35-64. Overall, the majority of beneficiaries have been between the age of 35-64 (16,017), followed by those aged 18-34 (10,933) and those aged between 0-13 (6,553). More than 1 in 5 beneficiaries (23.9%) was a minor.

B. Qualification for temporary protection

In Greece, temporary protection applies to Ukrainian nationals, as well as stateless persons and beneficiaries of international protection or beneficiaries of equivalent national protection in Ukraine, and the family members of the categories of persons mentioned above.

People from the above categories who have been displaced from 24 February 2022 onwards are eligible for temporary protection in Greece, yet in a welcome practice of the Greek Asylum Service, pursuant to article 3(5) Directive 2001/55/EC on more favourable conditions, temporary protection has also been applied in cases of persons who had left Ukraine from 26 November 2021 onwards.⁵ The Ministerial Decision (MD) in Greece copied the Council Decision without adding or removing any categories of displaced persons.

According to the MD family members are:

- ❖ the spouse of a person eligible for temporary protection or the person with whom they live in a free union within the framework of a stable relationship duly proven,
- ❖ the minor unmarried children of a person eligible for temporary protection or of their spouse, without distinction as to whether they were born within or outside marriage or adopted,
- ❖ other close relatives who were living together as part of the family unit at the time of the circumstances surrounding the mass influx and who are wholly or mainly dependent on a person eligible for temporary protection.

The initial MD, issued in March 2022, granted temporary protection for 12 months. Consecutive MDs have since extended the duration of temporary protection by an additional period of 5 years, up to 4 March 2027.

C. Access to temporary protection and registration

1. Admission to territory

In 2025, as in previous years, there were no reports of people fleeing from Ukraine refused entry at the border, including for people who returned to Ukraine and sought to re-enter Greece.

2. Freedom of movement

There were no known issues for individuals entitled to temporary protection not holding a biometric passport or biometric travel document in moving within the country's territory or while attempting to continue their journey towards other European countries.

Overall, TPD applicants and beneficiaries are free to apply and settle wherever they wish to in Greece.

3. Registration under temporary protection

The Asylum Service is responsible for registering applications for temporary protection. During 2025, there were six Regional Asylum Offices (RAOs) available for the temporary protection procedure (Attica, Alimos, Thessaloniki, Crete, Patras and Rhodes). Applicants have to include the following in their application: e-mail address, personal details, the type and number of identification document, level of education, the field of professional activity, any need for housing, the collection point of the allocated Temporary Protection Beneficiary card.

Filling out the application can be done online (migration.gov.gr) and then an appointment is booked for one of the RAOs.

The application has to be submitted within 90 days of arrival (Schengen Visa rules) but there are no consequences in case of non-compliance, according to the relevant Q&A produced by the Ministry of Migration.

Passports (biometrical and non-biometrical), residence permits and asylum cards can all be used to prove that a person falls under the scope of temporary protection.

The Ministry of Migration provides beneficiaries of temporary protection with a Temporary Protection Beneficiary card (within 90 days).

4. Legal assistance

There is no specific legal assistance foreseen for beneficiaries of temporary protection, nor is it actually needed in practice for the completion of the procedure, as it is simple to complete.

5. Information provision and access to NGOs

According to the law (article 125 Asylum Code), beneficiaries of temporary protection are provided with written information with regards to their rights and obligations in a language they understand (whether that be online, flyers, etc). The information is to be provided by the Greek Asylum Service under the Ministry of Migration, while a dedicated webpage, also available in Ukrainian, is available on the MoMA's website. NGOs, migrant and refugee communities also provide information (info sessions, online, flyers, etc).

D. Guarantees for vulnerable groups

With the exception of checks conducted at the stage of registration, that consider indicators of trafficking in human beings, there was no specific procedure introduced for the identification of vulnerable applicants or beneficiaries. In what concerns unaccompanied minors, the General Secretariat of Vulnerable Persons and Institutional Protection, along with the Public Prosecutor, are informed in detail and immediately after registration of separated, and in very rare cases, unaccompanied children, from Ukraine.

There was no specific programme to address the needs of individuals fleeing from Ukraine suffering from mental health problems, including torture survivors, though some NGOs may provide relevant assistance.

Content of Temporary Protection

A. Status and residence

1. Residence permit

Indicators: Residence permit

1. What is the duration of residence permits granted to beneficiaries of temporary protection?
Initial duration of up to 12 months, renewed for an additional 6 + 6 months by the end of 2023 and for an additional 12-month period up to 4 March 2025. On January 21st the protection period was renewed for another 12 months up to March 4 2026 and was again extended in 2026 for 12 months, up to 4 March 2027.
2. How many residence permits were issued to beneficiaries from the activation of the Temporary Protection Directive until 30 December 2025
38,138⁶

After registration, the regional Asylum Offices deliver a Temporary Protection Beneficiary card within 90 days. The initial Ministerial Decision (131035/2022) included protection for a 12-month period, which has since been twice renewed for periods of 6 months via relevant MDs in February and July 2023, and for an additional 12-month period, up to 4 March 2025, via a February 2024 MD. In January 2025 the temporary protection was prolonged for 12 months up to 4 March 2026, and again up to 4 March 2027, pursuant to M.D. 10779/2026.

Beneficiaries do not need to change their initial card because the renewal is automatic. They do need to have with them the Official Journal with the current Ministerial Decision in order to prove the card's validity. In this context, some beneficiaries faced challenges, especially in their contact with banks.

Beneficiaries of temporary protection have access to the labour market and healthcare in accordance with Directive 2001/55.

There can be only one application request. If someone requests temporary protection in another EU Member State, their request in Greece is automatically cancelled.

Pursuant to article 194 para. 2 of L.5078/2023, in conjunction with Ministerial Decision 58952/2026, beneficiaries of temporary protection can also apply, until 4 March 2027, through an electronic platform, for any residence permit of the new Migration Code (L. 5038/2023) without the requirement of a valid visa.

2. Access to asylum

Beneficiaries of temporary protection can also apply for international protection whenever they wish, without having their temporary protection residence permit withdrawn.

In total, according to Eurostat, 485 Ukrainian nationals applied for international protection in Greece between 2022 and 2025 (160 in 2022, 145 in 2023, 90 in 2024 and 90 in 2025); this is not a significant increase compared to previous years when taking the covid19 pandemic into account.⁷ Of the total 485 applications, 400 were first-time and the rest subsequent asylum applications.

B. Family reunification

There are no specific provisions on family reunification for beneficiaries of temporary protection in Greece. According to article 131 (Preserving family unity) of the Asylum Code:

⁶ MoMA, Statistics, December 2025 - International Protection | Appendix A, available at: <https://migration.gov.gr/statistika/>, table 18.

⁷ Eurostat, 'Asylum applicants by type, citizenship, age and sex - annual aggregated data', last updated 20 June 2025, available at: <https://tinyurl.com/3k3epvvv>.

In cases of families which existed in the country of origin and were separated due to the circumstances of the mass influx, the following shall be considered as part of the family of the resident:

(a) the spouse of the resident, the minor unmarried children of the resident or his/her spouse, without distinction as to whether they were born in or out of wedlock or by adoption.

(b) Other first and second-degree relatives by blood or marriage who were living together as part of the family at the time of the events leading to the mass influx and who were fully or mainly supported by the resident at that time.

In cases where the separated family members of the first subparagraph of the previous paragraph enjoy temporary protection in another EU Member State, the Asylum Service of the Ministry of Migration and Asylum shall take the necessary steps towards the competent authority of the state concerned to achieve family unity of these persons with the persons residing in Greece, after taking into account the wishes of the aforementioned family members.

The Asylum Service shall take the same actions as above for the achievement of family unity of persons residing in Greece with the separated members of the family referred to in paragraph a' of Para. 1, who are not residing in another EU Member State and who are in need of protection.

The family unity may also be achieved for the family members of other first and second degree relatives by blood or marriage who were living together as part of the family at the time of the events leading to the mass influx and who were fully or mainly supported by the resident at that time, taking into account the adverse consequences that may arise for the family members if reunification does not take place.

The choice of the Member State of the European Union in which family reunification is to take place shall also take into account the provisions of Articles 141 and 142 Asylum Code.

Family members who enter the country in the context of maintaining family unity shall be granted a residence permit in accordance with the provisions of para. 1 of Article 124. The transfer of family members of the resident to the territory of another EU Member State for the purpose of maintaining family unity entails the withdrawal of residence permits issued by the Greek authorities, as well as the termination of Greece's obligations with regard to the temporary protection of these persons.

For the implementation of the provisions on family unity, Greece cooperates with the competent international organisations, where necessary.

C. Movement and mobility

Beneficiaries of temporary protection are free to move within the Greek territory and have freedom of movement towards other EU Member States once registered.

D. Housing

Indicators: Housing

1. For how long are temporary protection beneficiaries entitled to stay in reception centres? There is no time limit
2. Number of beneficiaries staying in reception centres as of 31 December 2025
Not available
3. Number of beneficiaries staying in private accommodation as of 31 December 2025
Not available

Pending the issuance of their travel documents, beneficiaries of temporary protection can be temporarily accommodated in the Sintiki camp,⁸ while those who might be in need of longer-term accommodation, can apply for it, by filling an online form available on the website of the Ministry of Migration and Asylum (MoMA).⁹

According to Article 129 Asylum Code:

1. Persons enjoying temporary protection reside in special accommodation centres operated under the care and responsibility of the Ministry of Migration and Asylum.
2. The persons accommodated under the preceding paragraph shall be provided with the necessary medical care, including the necessary treatment of illnesses, first aid and at least one medical examination.
3. In case the aforementioned guests in the accommodation centres do not have sufficient resources for their subsistence, the Ministry of Migration and Asylum shall provide them with food, clothing and any other possible social assistance.
4. Cases of persons with special needs, such as infants, elderly persons, unaccompanied minors, sick persons, injured persons, as well as persons who have been subjected to torture, rape or other serious forms of mental, physical or sexual violence, shall be treated as a matter of priority.
5. Where persons enjoying temporary protection are engaged in gainful or independent activity, their capacity to contribute to their needs shall be taken into account when determining the level of assistance provided.

Beneficiaries of temporary protection are entitled to stay in reception centres for as long as they benefit from temporary protection. The State offers accommodation in camps – even though in practice, temporary protection beneficiaries do not seem to be willing to remain there – or alternatively supports independent living efforts, via rent subsidies provided to those eligible under the HELIOS+ integration programme, implemented through IOM.

Regarding camps, no data on the total number of temporary protection beneficiaries residing in camps has been made available since March 2025, perhaps indicating a lack of such residents in the Greek reception system since then. During that month, a total of 45 Ukrainian nationals, most of whom women (28), were reported by the MoMA as residing in Eleusina camp.¹⁰

Beneficiaries of temporary protection are also eligible to access the HELIOS+ integration programme (a portfolio of 13 regional Integration Projects, one per each Greek region, dedicated to fostering the integration of third-country nationals into Greece's labour market and society. Designed by the International Organization for Migration (IOM) with the support of the Government of Greece (GoG), HELIOS+ builds upon the foundation of the HELIOS Project (2019–2024). Co-financed by the European

Social Fund+ (ESF+) under the Regional Programs (RP) for 2021–2027, HELIOS+ aligns fully with Greece's National Strategy for Integration.

HELIOS+ is committed to empowering Beneficiaries of International and Temporary Protection residing in Greece by providing them with the tools and resources needed to achieve socio-economic independence and actively participate in the Greek community, while promoting self-reliance and inclusion through a comprehensive set of services tailored to the needs of the target group, aimed to support the successful integration of beneficiaries of international protection and temporary protection in Greece, by offering accommodation support, Greek language courses and employability support.

As of 31 March 2026,¹¹ Ukrainian nationals constituted close to 32% of the Helios+ programme's total beneficiaries (roughly 769 out of 2,405 persons), with TP beneficiaries representing close to 42% of total households benefiting from the programme's rental subsidy (roughly 392 out of a total of 943 households).¹²

Regarding independent living, beneficiaries of temporary protection living in private accommodation frequently stay with relatives, friends, compatriots, etc., and thus relevant data are not available. However, according to a report from the International Rescue Committee¹³ based on 276 questionnaires that were collected during the period between 10 January-14 February 2023:

- The majority of respondents were female median age is 38 years. The big majority of respondents (74%) have completed tertiary education (university level or higher). 49% of respondents live in households of 1-2 members, while 37% of respondents do not have children in the household. Respondents live predominantly in Athens and the greater Attica area while a small percentage lives in Thessaloniki and other smaller cities.
- Among the people surveyed, 138 (50%) are planning to remain in Greece, similarly to third-country nationals, 80 (29%) are not sure/do not want to say and 46 (17%) want to return to their Country of Origin. Some 10 (4%) are planning to move onwards to EU member states.

E. Employment and education

1. Access to the labour market

According to Article 128 Asylum Code the following applies on employment and vocational training:

'1. A residence permit issued to a person enjoying temporary protection shall also have the status of a work permit valid for the county in which his/her residence has been established throughout the period of temporary protection. This work permit shall confer the right to engage in an economic activity as an employed or self-employed person, in accordance with the provisions in force, as well as the right to participate in adult education, vocational training or work experience programmes. The above rights shall be exercised provided that the posts are not filled by EU citizens or citizens of States bound by the Agreement on the European Economic Area, as well as by legally resident citizens of third countries who are in receipt of unemployment benefits.

2. The legislation in force concerning remuneration, access to social security schemes, and the conditions or special conditions relating to employment or self-employment shall also apply to persons enjoying temporary protection.'

¹³ International Rescue Committee (IRC), IRC analysis: Needs of Ukrainian and other refugee groups in Greece are strikingly similar, 25 May 2023, available here.

Though GCR is not aware of the restrictions provided under article 128 par. 1 having been applied in practice (e.g., the geographical restriction), the article does seem to introduce restrictions based on protection status that need to be checked for compliance with the principle of non-discrimination.

That being said, there are, no specific measures in place to facilitate access to the labour market for temporary protection beneficiaries and to date there is no data on the numbers of beneficiaries who had accessed the labour market by the end of 2025.

2. Access to education

Going to school is mandatory for children aged six to fifteen years old. According to Article 130 Asylum Code, '[b]eneficiaries of temporary protection who are under 18 years of age shall be granted the right of access to public schools in which reception classes or tutorial classes are in operation or are planned to operate.'

Temporary protection beneficiaries are entitled to education under the same conditions as nationals.

During the 2024-2025 school year, a total of 1,446 Ukrainian nationals were enrolled to public schools, of which 1,392 were reported as active, potentially indicating a 3.7% drop-out rate. Of those enrolled, 75 were enrolled to kindergarten, 669 to primary education, and 593 to secondary education (419 in gymnasium and 174 in lyceum), while 109 were enrolled to Vocational High Schools (107) and Vocational Education and Training (2).¹⁴

According to Article 128 Asylum Code on employment and vocational training:

1. 'A residence permit issued to a person enjoying temporary protection shall also have the status of a work permit valid for the county in which his/her residence has been established throughout the period of temporary protection. This work permit shall confer the right to engage in an economic activity as an employed or self-employed person, in accordance with the provisions in force, as well as the right to participate in adult education, vocational training or work experience programmes. The above rights shall be exercised provided that the posts are not filled by EU citizens or citizens of States bound by the Agreement on the European Economic Area, as well as by legally resident citizens of third countries who are in receipt of unemployment benefits.
2. The legislation in force concerning remuneration, access to social security schemes, and the conditions or special conditions relating to employment or self-employment shall also apply to persons enjoying temporary protection.'

It is not possible to access the higher educational system except after passing the national exam, which takes place once a year.

F. Social welfare

Social welfare is provided for beneficiaries of temporary protection (article 129 Asylum Code). For example, in case beneficiaries in the accommodation centres do not have sufficient resources for their maintenance, the Ministry of Migration and Asylum shall provide them with food, clothing and any other possible social assistance.

The Ministry of Migration and Asylum coordinates social assistance and it is not tied to a requirement to reside in any specific place or region. However, if beneficiaries do not stay in the designated special facilities, they do not benefit from the Ministry's practical assistance.

G. Health care

In accordance with article 33 L. 4368/2022 (as amended), all Ukrainian nationals that were forced to flee their home on account of the conflict are, per a 2022 Circular of the Ministry of Health,¹⁵ treated as uninsured persons belonging to a vulnerable group and benefit from free access to the public healthcare system.

The same level of access is enjoyed prior to the issuance of the temporary protection residence permit and the social security number, by presenting either a passport or the police notice received upon entry to the country.¹⁶

Where TP beneficiaries are accommodated in reception facilities, according to Article 129 (paragraph 2) Asylum Code, they 'shall be provided with necessary medical care, including any necessary treatment of illnesses, first aid and at least one medical examination.'

As per article 129 (5) "[w]here persons enjoying temporary protection are employed or self-employed, their ability to contribute to their needs shall be taken into account in determining the level of assistance provided."

Language is a practical obstacle, as are staff availability and the limited capacity of the health system.
