Temporary Protection Procedure

A. General

The Asylum and Temporary Protection Law¹ defines temporary protection as a form of protection granted on the basis of the decision of the Government of the Republic of Serbia (Government) in case of a mass influx of displaced persons who cannot be returned to their country of origin or country of habitual residence.²

The Asylum Act more specifically defines temporary protection as a form of protection that is provided in the extraordinary procedure, in the case of a mass influx of displaced persons who cannot be returned to their country of origin or habitual residence if there is a risk that, due to such mass influx, it will not be possible to effectively carry out individual asylum procedures and in order to protect the interests of displaced persons and other persons seeking protection.³ A decision on the provision of temporary protection is taken by the Government.

The term displaced persons is related to foreign nationals who have been forced to leave their area or country of origin or habitual residence, or who have been evacuated, and who are unable to return to durable and safe living conditions due to the situation that is prevalent in that country, in particular:

- 1) persons who have left an area of armed conflict or localised violence.
- 2) persons who face a serious threat of mass violations of human rights or who have been victims of such violations.⁴

Temporary protection may also be granted to persons who legally resided in the Republic of Serbia (Serbia) at the time of the adoption of the Government's Decision, which means that the Serbian Asylum Act also recognises sur place beneficiaries of temporary protection.⁵ The protection of sur place refugees who benefit from temporary protection is also related to those foreigners whose right to residence had expired before the decision on temporary protection was revoked.⁶

In accordance with the decision, persons who have been granted temporary protection are registered in accordance with Article 35 of the Asylum Act.⁷ Accordingly, they are issued a registration certificate on the intention to lodge a request for temporary protection (registration certificate). The decision granting temporary protection is taken for each applicant individually.⁸

On 18 March 2022, on the basis of Article 74 (2) of the Asylum Act and Article 43 (1) of the Law on the Government,⁹ for the first time in the history of the Serbian asylum system, the Government adopted the Decision on Providing Temporary Protection in the Republic of Serbia to Displaced Persons Coming from Ukraine.¹⁰ The scope of temporary protection is related to 'persons displaced from Ukraine' who were forced to leave Ukraine as their country of origin or country of habitual residence or who were evacuated from Ukraine and who cannot return to permanent and safe living conditions because of the current situation prevailing in that country.¹¹

The term 'displaced persons' encompasses the following categories:

1. citizens of Ukraine and their family members who resided in Ukraine;
2. asylum seekers, stateless persons and foreign nationals who have been granted asylum or equivalent national protection in Ukraine and their family members who have been granted residence in Ukraine.
3. foreign nationals who have been granted valid permanent residence or temporary residence in Ukraine and who cannot return to their country of origin under permanent and long-term circumstances.¹²

Temporary protection is also granted to citizens of Ukraine and their family members, who at the time of the activation of TP already legally resided in Serbia, but whose right to stay expired before the revocation of the decision on temporary protection.¹³ The notion of 'family members' in terms of the Asylum Act to which the TP explicitly refers to the following individuals:¹⁴

1. spouses, but only if the marriage was concluded before the arrival in Serbia and their minor children born in legal or in common-law marriage, minor adopted children, or minor step-children.
2. extramarital partner and their minor children born in common-law marriage, minor adopted children, or minor step-children. The extramarital partnership needs to meet the criteria set out in Article 4 of the Family Law¹⁵ which outlines that common-law marriage represents the permanent cohabitation of man and woman, between whom there are no marriage obstacles which creates an obligation of mutual support and the right to joint property of common-law partners.¹⁶

Exceptionally, the status of family member may also be granted to other persons, taking into account particularly the fact that they had been supported by the person who has been granted refugee status, subsidiary or temporary protection. Special circumstances which should be considered are their age and psychological dependence, as well as health, social, cultural, or other similar circumstances.¹⁷

Temporary protection introduced through the TP lasts one year from the date of entry into force of this decision.¹⁸ In this way, Serbia has joined almost all European countries in providing temporary protection to millions of Ukrainian citizens and other types of residents from this country impacted by the international armed conflict.

On 16 March 2023, the Government extended temporary protection to displaced people through the Decision on Supplementing of the TP, making it valid until 18 March 2024.¹⁹ On 14 March 2024, the Government of Serbia again extended temporary protection by adopting the Decision on Supplementing of the TP, which will be valid until 16 March 2025,²⁰ and which can be extended if the reasons for granting temporary protection continue to exist.²¹ Taking into account that during 2025 and the first 5 months of 2026 the Asylum Office has been granting and extending temporary protection, it is clear that the need still exist and that TP is still valid.

The armed conflict in Ukraine caused by the Russian aggression triggered also the mass movement of Russian nationals who arrived in Serbia due to the free-visa regime between these two countries since 7 March 2008.²²

²² Decision on Cancellation of Visas for the Citizens of the Russian Federation, Official Gazette, no. 27-931/2008, available in Serbian at: <https://bit.ly/3LI8Tej>.

Even though it is hard to get an accurate number of Russian citizens who arrived in Serbia after the end of February 2022, some sources indicate that more than 200,000 Russians resided in Serbia in 2022,²³ while other sources indicate that this number goes up to 300,000 but that 50,000 of them were granted different forms of temporary residency²⁴ under Article 40 of the Law on Foreigners Act.²⁵ According to Radio Television Serbia, 100,000 Russians had moved their residency in Serbia in November 2022.²⁶ Maybe the most accurate information was obtained by Radio Free Europe which published that between 25 February 2022 and 21 December 2022, the Ministry of Interior (Mol) recorded a total of 219,153 arrivals of Russian nationals in Serbia, but it remains unclear how many remained in Serbia.²⁷

The mass arrival of Russian citizens occurred in two waves. The initial one started right after the beginning of the conflict in February 2022, when mostly Russian citizens who were employed in foreign companies and mainly in the IT sector decided to come to Serbia and register their companies. According to Radio Free Europe, in 2022 alone, a total of 4,187 Russian companies and entrepreneurship were registered in the Agency for Business Registers (Agencija za privredne registre - APR).²⁸ In 2021, the total number of registered Russian companies in the APR was only 159.²⁹ Thus, the first wave mainly included people who had their own financial resources to come to Serbia, to rent or buy real estate and continue their own business. This caused an increase in average rent prices of at least 30%, while the price of rents in Belgrade and Novi Sad, the country's two main cities, doubled or – in some instances – tripled.³⁰

During the second wave of arrivals in September 2022, after the announcement of military mobilisation by Russian President Vladimir Putin,³¹ the first asylum applicants arrived in Serbia. 99% of the Russian citizens who moved their residency regularised their stay in line with the Foreigners Act, while in the last quarter of 2022, and the first quarter of 2023, people who claimed to have fled military mobilisations started to arrive to Serbia. What is also interesting to outline is that these people have weaker financial status and have been accommodated in the Asylum Centre (AC) in Krnjača throughout 2022 and 2023.

It is not possible to determine the exact number of Russian Federation nationals who moved to Serbia pursuing safety also for 2023, but in most of the cases looking for the opportunity to work and live outside the scope of sanctions imposed by the EU. In May 2024, it was reported that between 300,000 and 500,000 Russians live in Serbia, mostly in Belgrade and Novi Sad.³² According to the Belgrade Centre for Security Policy, a total of 73,197 Russian Federation citizens lodged a request for different forms of temporary residency and in line with the Foreigners Act of Serbia, over 90% of which were granted.³³ This data is still valid and there are no new sources which would indicate the approximate number of Russian Federation citizens.

It is reasonable to assume that all asylum procedures initiated up to 2020 have become final and executive. Only 3 decisions on refugee status granted to 3 LGBTQI+ applicants from Chechnya can be outlined as positive practice.³⁴ In the period 2021-2025, there were 142 asylum applications lodged by Russian citizens before the Serbian asylum authorities. According to statistical data from UNHCR, the 3 asylum applications lodged in 2021 ended with a decision on discontinuing the asylum procedure due to absconding.

The available statistics indicate that 20 asylum applications were lodged in 2022 and an additional 33 in 2023 plus 1 subsequent asylum application and 22 in 2024. In 2025 and January 2026, additional 30 applications were lodged by people fleeing Russian Federation and circumstances mostly triggered by aggression on Ukraine. Thus, a total of 105 asylum applications were lodged in the period 2022- January 2026.

Out of these 105 applicants, 60 absconded from the procedure. A total of 5 cases related to 9 applicants were also concluded in the meantime, meaning that in relation to 69 applicants from Russian Federation, asylum procedure was concluded in the period 2023- January 2026. The 4-member family rejected in merits in December 2023 decided not to appeal the negative decision, but to voluntarily return to Russia, which means that their case was also concluded in 2023 but does not fall under the absconding statistics.³⁵ Also, two more persons who claimed draft evasion absconded after their appeals were rejected by the Asylum Commission in 2024.³⁶ Also, 1 family whose asylum application was rejected in September 2025 decided to leave Serbia and declined to lodge appeal.³⁷ On two occasions, appeals were upheld by the Asylum Commission and cases were referred back to the Asylum Office and these two cases appear twice in the Table below. And finally, for 1 case author can claim with certainty that it was concluded in 2024 with the final decision of the Administrative Court confirming rejection of Asylum Office and Asylum Commission.³⁸

As for the remaining 36 applicants, according to the available case files, on 1 February 2026, in total of 16 cases related to 26 Russian Federation applicants, at least first instance decisions were rendered and it is possible to outline the outcomes and grounds of persecution. For the remaining 10, it is reasonable to assume that their first instance decision is pending, and that their asylum applications were lodged in the second half of 2025.

Many applicants claim a risk of persecution on the basis of their political beliefs, public opposition to the Russian Government's actions (including military actions),⁴³ risk of forced recruitment into the Russian military and draft evasion.⁴⁴

Ukrainian applicants for TP

According to the Serbian Commissariat for refugees, from 24 February 2022 until 24 February 2023, around 148,000 Ukrainian citizens were recorded entering Serbia, while around 26,000 were granted some form of temporary residency.⁴⁶ In July 2024, it was reported that more than 350,000 Ukrainian citizens transited through Serbia. 58,000 of them were granted some type of residency.⁴⁷ There are no available reports on the fluctuation of Ukrainian nationals through the territory of Serbia in 2025, so the only reliable data which will be put forward in this report is collected from Mol and monthly reports.

The support of the Commissariat for Refugees and Migrations is provided to around 4,500 Ukrainian residing in private accommodations and to around 70 to 80 refugees from Ukraine accommodated in the AC in Vranje.⁴⁸ It is not possible to have statistics as to nationals of other countries eligible for temporary protection under the TP.⁴⁹ A total of 406 Ukrainian refugees transited through the Asylum Centre in Vranje.

The following tables provide a statistical overview of the number of Ukrainian citizens and other nationals eligible for temporary protection under the TP who were registered and granted temporary protection.

In 2024, a total of 400 persons were registered under the TP, out of which 381 were Ukrainian nationals, 15 Russian Federation citizens and 4 from other countries. In the same period, 375 persons were granted temporary protection and, again, it was mostly Ukrainian nationals (355). Finally, for a total of 709 persons temporary protection was extended (672 Ukrainian nationals, 19 Russian Federation nationals and 18 from other countries).

During 2025, 387 persons were registered in accordance with the provisions governing temporary protection of people fleeing Ukraine. A total of 394 persons were granted temporary protection granted for the first time, while temporary protection was extended in relation to 859 persons. This data indicate that in Serbia, as of 31 December 2025, a minimum of 1,253 people enjoyed temporary protection

There was one instance in 2022 in which the request for temporary protection was rejected based on national security grounds. The Asylum Office did not provide the reasons outlined in the security assessment.⁵³ This decision was confirmed by the Asylum Commission⁵⁴ and the case is currently pending before the Administrative Court. This case further illustrates unreasoned security assessments of the Security Information Agency (BIA).⁵⁵ Also, in June 2023, one request for temporary protection was dismissed. In 2024, there were no instances in which the request for temporary protection was rejected or dismissed. In April 2025, one request for temporary protection was rejected according to the monthly report of the Asylum Office and UNHCR.

B. Qualification for temporary protection

According to the TP, the following categories are eligible for temporary protection:

1. citizens of Ukraine and their family members who resided in Ukraine;
2. asylum seekers, stateless persons and foreign nationals who have been granted asylum or equivalent national protection in Ukraine and their family members who have been granted residence in Ukraine.
3. foreign nationals who have been granted valid permanent residence or temporary residence in Ukraine and who cannot return to their country of origin under permanent and long-term circumstances.⁵⁶

From available statistical data, it is not possible to determine whether most of the applicants who are not Ukrainian nationals were categorised under the first category as family members of Ukrainian citizens. However, it cannot be excluded that some of the beneficiaries of temporary protection also belong to the categories enlisted under no. 2 and 3.

There is no specific procedure envisaged for persons eligible for the TP who were in the sur place situation. As it has already been outlined, temporary protection may be granted also to persons who legally resided in Serbia at the time of the adoption of the Government's Decision, which in practice means that the Serbian Asylum Act also recognises sur place beneficiaries of temporary protection.⁵⁷ The protection of sur place refugees who benefit from temporary protection is also related to foreigners whose right to residence expired before the decision on temporary protection was revoked.⁵⁸

It cannot be determined how many beneficiaries of temporary protection Serbia benefited from sur place temporary protection, in line with Point 2, paragraph 1 of the TP.

Point 2, paragraph 1 of the TP explicitly covers asylum seekers, stateless persons and foreign nationals who have been granted asylum or equivalent national protection in Ukraine. The definition of family members is outlined in General.

Refugees from Ukraine have unhindered access to the asylum procedure, as well as a variety of alternative statuses such as different forms of temporary residency. According to the Serbian Commissariat for refugees, from 24 February 2022 until 24 February 2023, around 148,000 Ukrainian citizens were recorded entering Serbia, while around 26,000 were granted some form of temporary residency.⁵⁹ Data from 2023 indicate that around 58,000 refugees from Ukraine reported some type of residency and that around 8,000 resides on the private address.⁶⁰

It is important to note that several Ukrainian nationals applied for asylum in the period 2022-2025. In 2022, a total of 6 Ukrainians applied for asylum – one 3-member family and 3 individuals. The family and one journalist from Ukraine were granted subsidiary protection and refugee status respectively. The first 4 applicants (family and journalists) were treated with priority and were granted international protection within the statutory 3 months deadline in the case of the family and 4 months for the journalist. This indicates that Ukrainian applicants in these two cases were prioritized compared to applicants from Syria, Afghanistan, Burundi, Cuba, etc whose asylum procedure lasts from 8 to 12 months on average, and sometimes even longer.⁶¹ The remaining two applicants were rejected on national security grounds and decisions were confirmed by the Asylum Commission, and their cases are pending before the Administrative Court.

In 2023, there was only 1 asylum application made by a Ukrainian citizen who applied for asylum with 3 other family members who are Russian Federation citizens. He was rejected in merits on 30 June 2025, and decision was confirmed by the Asylum Commission on 9 September 2025⁶² and the case is currently pending before the Administrative Court.

In 2024, two nationals of Ukraine lodged asylum applications, and one was granted refugee status as survivor of trafficking in human beings on 29 October 2024, while the other withdrew his application and was granted temporary protection. In 2025, there was only one asylum application made by a Ukrainian national and the case is most likely pending.

The temporal scope of temporary protection was initially set for 1 year, and was then extended for another year, all in line with Article 74 of the Asylum Act. Article 74 foresees that temporary protection may be granted for a period of maximum one year. If the grounds for providing temporary protection continue to exist, temporary protection may be extended for a further six months, and for a maximum of one year.⁶³ Temporary protection shall cease upon the expiry of the period for which it was granted, or when the grounds based on which it was granted have ceased to exist, as specified in a decision taken by the Government.⁶⁴

The first TP was adopted on 18 March 2022,⁶⁵ and extended on 16 March 2023 until 18 March 2024. Another extension was adopted in March 2024, and TP is was valid until 16 March 2025 and can be automatically extended in line with Point 5(2) of the TP if the need still exists.⁶⁶ Taking into account temporary protection was granted and extended after 16 March 2025, it can be concluded that this provision (i.e., extension) has been applied in practice.⁶⁷

C. Access to temporary protection and registration

1. Admission to territory

There were no reports or recorded incidents regarding people fleeing Ukraine being denied access to the territory in line with Article 15 of the Foreigners Act (refusal of entry) or though the well-documented practice of pushbacks and other forms of collective expulsions which has been intensively ongoing since 2016.⁶⁸ Thus, the positive practice of the Serbian authorities when it comes to assistance to and treatment of persons displaced from Ukraine at the border should be used as an example for the treatment of persons in need of international protection arriving to Serbia from other countries.

Additionally, there were no recorded cases of returnees from Ukraine being subjected to any kind of formal or informal forcible removals from the Serbian territory such as readmission, pushbacks, expulsion or refusal of entry.

In October 2011, the Law on Ratification of the Agreement between the Government of the Republic of Serbia and the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine on the cancellation of visas for their citizens was adopted in the Parliament on Serbia,⁶⁹ introducing the free visa regime which has been in force ever since.

Thus, Ukrainian citizens face no obstacles in accessing Serbian territory and remaining for up to 90 days. This legal possibility has been used by the vast majority of persons in need of international protection displaced from Ukraine to transit through Serbia towards the EU countries.

2. Freedom of movement

All persons meeting the requirements set out in the TP, regardless of them having or not having biometric passports or biometric travel documents have had unhindered access to the territory of Serbia and to move freely within it. There were no reported obstacles for the more than 100,000 displaced persons from Ukraine that left Serbia towards European Union countries such as Hungary, Croatia or Romania.⁷⁰

3. Registration under temporary protection

The MoI – the Administration for Border Police (ABP) and relevant Regional Border Centres within ABP, as well as all Police Departments who have their immigration units, are tasked with registering persons claiming to meet the requirements set out in the TP and in line with the Article 35 of the Asylum Act.

⁷⁰ Practice observed informaiton IDEAS.

Foreigners may express the intention to lodge the request for temporary protection to the competent police officers at the border or within the territory either verbally or in writing,⁷¹ including in places such as border posts, police stations or even the Detention Centre for Foreigners in Padinska Skela, Dimitrovgrad and Plandište.⁷² Unaccompanied and separated children (UASC) cannot express the intention to seek asylum until a social welfare centre appoints a temporary legal guardian.⁷³ However, there have not been UASCs from Ukraine recorded since the introduction of the TP.

Regional Border Centres staff within ABP can issue the registration certificate on the spot. There is no need for further referrals and the procedure is fairly simple and entails directing applicants to AC Vranje if necessary, or just simple allowance to continue towards their destination country, but also hotels, hostels and private addresses if they are willing to remain in Serbia. All persons registered for temporary protection are also given an information leaflet drafted in Ukrainian which contains all necessary information, including relevant contact numbers of the Commissariat for Refugees and Migration (CRM), UNHCR, CSOs and others.⁷⁴

An authorised police officer shall photograph and fingerprint the person (identification),⁷⁵ who will thereafter be issued a certificate on registration as a foreigner who has expressed the intention to lodge a temporary protection application in Serbia ('registration certificate - registration').⁷⁶ The manner and procedure for registration, as well as the content of the registration certificate, are defined in the Rulebook on Registration. This Rulebook prescribes the design and content of registration certificates.

Pursuant to the Rulebook, registration certificates shall be issued in two copies, one of which is handed to the foreigner and the second one is to be archived in the MoI organisational unit where the officer who issued the registration certificate is employed.⁷⁷

Every person who claims to be in need of international protection can express their intention to apply for asylum or temporary protection. It is possible that people displaced from Ukraine could have overstayed in Serbia (more than 90 days); while in theory they could be penalized for the misdemeanour of illegal residency on the territory of Serbia,⁷⁸ such cases were not reported. The bottom line is that there is no deadline for them to be registered or to apply for temporary protection.

There are no reports which could indicate that persons displaced from Ukraine have been denied access to the territory, registration and temporary protection procedure due to lack of personal documents. Such persons are issued with a decision on allowing access to the territory. The same rule applies to persons who are not Ukrainian citizens, but had legal residence in Ukraine and cannot return to their country of origin.⁷⁹ All potential beneficiaries of temporary protection are issued with registration certificates in line with the Article 35 of the Asylum Act.

In practice, no problems related to registration of applications for temporary protection were recorded on national territory and at the borders.

There is no appeal against the informal decision not to issue a registration certificate to a person who claims temporary residency. However, there were no instances in which such a problem was reported, and the author of this report notes that it can be safely assumed that all persons displaced from Ukraine were effectively allowed to access the temporary protection procedure.

4. Legal assistance

The Free Legal Aid Act (FLA) explicitly guarantees free legal aid to asylum seekers (including persons applying for temporary residency),⁸⁰ refugees and persons granted subsidiary protection.⁸¹ However, the Free Legal Aid Fee Schedule Regulation (FLA Regulation)⁸² foresees free legal aid only for administrative dispute procedures conducted before the Administrative Court. This means that asylum seekers, including those who are applying for temporary protection, could apply for State funded free legal aid only if they reach the third instance authority. So far, not a single asylum seeker has used State funded free legal aid, including persons displaced from Ukraine.⁸³ However, there was one case in which the applicant from Ukraine was rejected on the merits, based on national security grounds, but he enjoyed free legal aid from CSOs.

The right to free legal aid is also guaranteed by the Asylum Act, as well as the right to receive information concerning asylum.⁸⁴ The Asylum Act further provides that an asylum seeker shall have access to free legal aid and representation by UNHCR and CSO whose objectives and activities are aimed at providing free legal aid to refugees. In practice, the vast majority of persons who submit an asylum application in Serbia use the services of CSO lawyers before both national and international bodies. Their work and assistance are not state, but project funded and the main donors are UNHCR, EU and other donors. CSOs represent asylum seekers in all three instances and in front of the Constitutional Court.

Asylum Protection Center (APC) and the Center for Research and Social Development IDEAS (IDEAS) provided free legal aid and legal information and orientation to refugees from Ukraine. Still, the attitude of the Mol in terms of applicants for temporary protection, but also those who applied for temporary residency was impeccable, allowing people to fully enjoy their rights in line with the TP regardless of them having legal representatives or not. Assistance was also provided by the CRM.

There were no reported cases in which persons entitled to temporary protection were faced with obstacles obtaining legal aid in their temporary residence procedure.

5. Information provision and access to NGOs

A foreigner who has expressed their intention to apply for temporary protection in Serbia, as well as a person who has lodged their request for temporary protection, shall have the right to be informed about their rights and obligations throughout the temporary protection procedure.⁸⁵

The provision of relevant information, as well as something which can be considered as legal orientation, are a primary task of the State and relevant police stations and police departments in which foreigners who might be in need of international protection are registered. Still, reality has shown that information for refugees and migrants is provided by an entire set of state and non-state actors including CRM and CSOs.

All relevant CSOs have developed informational leaflets, as well as UNHCR,⁸⁶ but also CRM⁸⁷ and Mol.⁸⁸ Also, several dozen CSOs provided information in various different locations, including at reception facilities. The Asylum Office also provided information leaflets to all refugees from Ukraine who received decisions on granting temporary protection on their rights and responsibilities.

There is no data on special leaflets designed for displaced people from Ukraine such as UASC, survivors of trafficking in human beings, torture victims and others. Still, there were no recorded obstacles regarding information provision. The MoI provides information leaflets specially designed for Ukrainian refugees during registration, including at the border, but also after they are channelled through the temporary protection procedure.

D. Guarantees for vulnerable groups

The Asylum Act explicitly foresees that, during the asylum and temporary protection procedure, the specific circumstances of certain categories of applicants requiring special procedural or reception guarantees will be taken into consideration. This category includes minors, unaccompanied minors, persons with disabilities, elderly persons, pregnant women, single parents with minor children, victims or survivors of trafficking in human beings, severely ill persons, persons with mental disorders, and persons who were subjected to torture, rape, or other serious forms of psychological, physical or sexual violence, such as women who were victims of female genital mutilation.⁸⁹

However, as with asylum seekers, it remains unclear how in practice and in which kind procedure relevant asylum authorities are conducting vulnerability assessments, what kind of decision they issue and how they design special and individualised programmes to meet the special needs of the above-listed categories in different contexts (accommodation, provision of psycho-social support, provision of medical support, in asylum or integration procedure, etc.).

What is important to note is that most vulnerabilities are determined by relevant CSOs, UNHCR, but also CRM, but access to specific rights and safeguards is predominately done by CSOs.⁹⁰

Still, the positive attitude, but also very simple approach towards granting temporary protection allows the author of this Report to safely assume that all categories of persons displaced from Ukraine have effective access to temporary protection.

There were no special procedures introduced for UASCs which can be considered as different than the one provided to UASCs who apply for asylum in the regular procedure. However, there were no UASCs from Ukraine registered in the period between March 2022 and December 2025.

There are no institutionally established programmes for vulnerable categories of refugees, asylum seekers and migrants, including refugees coming from Ukraine, in Serbia. Thus, beneficiaries of temporary protection are in an identical situation as other refugees and asylum seekers. These services are provided by PIN, IAN, ATINA and other CSOs who have limited expertise in the provision of support to vulnerable applicants from Ukraine.⁹¹

Despite their right to permanent residence under the Asylum Act,⁹² recognised refugees are not issued a separate document of residence, as they are considered ipso facto to be entitled to reside in the country. The same rule applies for beneficiaries of temporary protection. The right to reside in Serbia shall be approved per a decision on granting temporary protection and shall be proven by an identity card for persons who have been granted the right to temporary protection.⁹³ ID cards for persons granted temporary protection are valid for one year.

The content of this document is simple, and the ID card is a laminated document containing a photo of the person, their surname and first name, gender, date and place of birth, country of origin, address, as well as the document number and date of issue and expiration. The document is filled out by hand by an Asylum Office official and the only proof that the document has been issued by a State administration body is a stamp of the Ministry of Interior.

ID cards that are issued to beneficiaries of temporary protection create an entire set of everyday obstacles. The first problem is that this document cannot prove the identity and legal status of beneficiaries of temporary protection. While ID cards issued to Serbian citizens and foreigners granted temporary or permanent residency contain the unique personal number of the citizen (JBMG) or the foreigner's registration number (EBS), this document, due to lack of its biometric features does not contain any of these data. Thus, the current ID card for beneficiaries of temporary protection does not contain the EBS, which further causes bureaucratic obstacles to enjoy other rights such as obtaining a work permit, opening bank accounts and other everyday needs which can be met only with additional documentation issued by the Asylum Office, such as a confirmation of obtention of international protection in Serbia or an EBS confirmation document. The EBS number is not included in the ID card of TP holder or TP applicant and separate request has to be submitted in order to obtain such number. The issuance of EBS is not problematic, and it usually takes a week.

ID cards for persons granted temporary protection are valid for one year and should be renewed for all beneficiaries who remained in Serbia after the TP was extended.⁹⁴

Article 76 of the Asylum Act envisages the following rights for temporary protection beneficiaries:

- ❖ the right to legally reside for a period of one year (now overall extended until March 2026)
- ❖ the right to have a personal document confirming their status,
- ❖ the right to health care as other foreigners, in line with the Law on Health Protection,
- ❖ the right to access the labour market (in accordance with the Law on Employment of Foreigners),
- ❖ the right to primary and secondary education free of charge,
- ❖ the right to free legal aid,
- ❖ the right to freedom of religion,
- ❖ the right to stay in collective accommodation in designated facilities,

⁹² Article 60 Asylum Act.

⁹³ Article 90 Asylum Act.

⁹⁴ Article 90 Asylum Act.

- ❖ the right to special support for persons with specific needs, like children, unaccompanied or separated children, persons with disabilities, elderly persons, pregnant women, single parents with children, victims of human trafficking, persons with serious medical conditions including mental health issues, victims of torture, rape, or exposed to any form of serious psychological, physical, or sexual violence,
- ❖ the right to submit an asylum claim and in justified cases the right to family reunification.

There were no instances in which TP holders wanted to transfer their residence to EU Member States, nor were there recorded instances in which applicants who received temporary protection in other countries applied for temporary protection to Serbia.

2. Access to asylum

As already outlined, persons displaced from Ukraine have unhindered access to the asylum procedure, regardless of if they were previously holders of temporary protection or not (See General).

B. Family reunification

A beneficiary of temporary protection has the right to reunification with their family members.⁹⁵ Family members are the spouse, provided that the marriage was contracted before the arrival in Serbia, the common law partner in accordance with the regulations of Serbia, their minor children born in legal or in common law marriage, minor adopted children, or minor stepchildren.

Exceptionally, the status of family member may also be granted to other persons, taking into account particularly the fact that they had been supported by the person who has been granted asylum or subsidiary protection, their age and psychological dependence, including health, social, cultural, or other similar circumstances.⁹⁶ A family member for whom there exist grounds to be excluded from asylum shall not have the right to family reunification.⁹⁷

The Foreigners Act prescribes that family reunification is related to the so called 'nuclear family' which covers: spouses, civil partners, their minor children born in or out of wedlock, minor adopted children or minor stepchildren, who have not married.

The general requirements for any kind of temporary residency are the following:⁹⁸

- ❖ Valid travel document
- ❖ Evidence of means for subsistence during the planned stay
- ❖ Registered address of residence in the Republic of Serbia
- ❖ Evidence of health insurance during the planned stay (around 300 EUR per year)
- ❖ Proof of payment of the prescribed administrative fee (around 135 EUR)

Only temporary residence granted on humanitarian grounds does not require an individual to meet the general criteria. Article 61 of the Foreigners Act provides that temporary residence may be granted to a foreigner who does not meet the general criteria when other circumstances exist that require special consideration. These circumstances are the following:

- ❖ Their family, cultural or social ties with Serbia, recent level of integration of the foreigner in the society of the Republic of Serbia, particularly with regard to their education, work activities or language skills;
- ❖ Delay of forced removal of a foreigner referred to Article 84 of this Law, over a period of one year or longer;

⁹⁵ Articles 70(1) and 9(2) Asylum Act.

⁹⁶ Article 2(2) and (12) Asylum Act.

⁹⁷ Article 70(4) Asylum Act.

⁹⁸ Article 43 Foreigners Act

- ❖ A foreigner who is a victim of a serious criminal offence, including persons who have been involved in actions to enable irregular migration and who cooperate with the police and the judiciary, and whose presence is necessary in the criminal proceedings or who is participating in an investigation as witness or plaintiff;
- ❖ A minor foreigner who has been abandoned, who is a victim of organised crime or has for other reasons lost parental care or company;
- ❖ Serious and legitimate personal reasons of humanitarian nature, existing interests of the Republic of Serbia or international commitments made.

The Mol shall also grant temporary residence for humanitarian reasons if they determine that the circumstances based on which the application was made are founded, even if the general criteria referred to above are not met for legitimate reasons.⁹⁹ Since 2022, a total of 31 Ukrainians nationals were granted temporary residency on humanitarian grounds.

Temporary residence for humanitarian reasons shall be granted for a minimum of six months and a maximum of one year and may be extended, if the circumstances that the temporary residence was based on still exist.¹⁰⁰

The family reunification procedure is regulated by the Foreigners Act, which explicitly foresees that family members of persons granted asylum have to apply for a visa at the diplomatic-consular representation of Serbia in their country of origin or a third country. They also have to provide evidence of their family ties with a person granted asylum in Serbia. People granted visas to arrive in Serbia will be granted temporary residence for the purpose of family reunification in line with Article 55 of the Foreigners Act.

In practice and since the TP was introduced, there were no cases of family reunification procedures realised, which could indicate if family members of beneficiaries of temporary protection would obtain the same form of temporary protection or temporary protection on humanitarian grounds.

C. Movement and mobility

Beneficiaries of temporary protection have equal rights to free movement as permanently residing foreigners in Serbia.¹⁰¹

There were no recorded cases in which beneficiaries of temporary protection were denied access to EU Member States.

D. Housing

Indicators: Housing

1. For how long are temporary protection beneficiaries entitled to stay in reception centres?
For as long as TP is in force
2. Number of beneficiaries staying in reception centres as of 31 December 2025: 61¹⁰²
3. Number of beneficiaries staying in private accommodation as of 31 December 2025 N/A

Beneficiaries of temporary protection are entitled to access reception facilities managed by the CRM for as long as they enjoy such protection. The CRM is the main State authority in charge of accommodating refugees, asylum seekers, persons seeking temporary protection and beneficiaries of temporary protection.¹⁰³

In June 2021 AC Vranje was designated as an asylum centre and from March 2022 it has started to accommodate Ukrainian families (28 persons in total at the end of March) and 40 persons in mid-April 2022. The living conditions in the AC Vranje are of the highest standards, and this facility was completely refurbished and equipped with new furniture for Ukrainian refugees. They are provided with food, healthcare, clothes and occasional cash cards. There were no reported incidents or challenges related to access to State reception facilities nor there were reports on inappropriate housing. Thus, the vast majority of beneficiaries of temporary protection is accommodated at a private address, while between 70 to 80 on average have been accommodated in the AC Vranje since January 2023.

On 3 January 2023, a total of 83 beneficiaries of temporary protection resided in the AC Vranje, which has a maximum capacity of 150 beds. On 31 December 2023, the number of Ukrainians nationals accommodated in AC Vranje was 46. On 31 December 2024, 61 beneficiaries of temporary protection were accommodated at AC Vranje.¹⁰⁴ On 31 December 2025, official capacities were 156 and 55 residents was reported by CRM.¹⁰⁵

It can be safely said that the AC in Vranje covers the needs of those refugees who cannot afford private accommodation. The remaining beneficiaries live in private accommodations at their own cost. There were no instances in which beneficiaries of temporary protection were denied access to reception facilities.¹⁰⁶

There are no private hosting models designated for refugees from Ukraine, and private accommodation is not organised by the State. There are also no exceptions concerning qualification recognition. As it is the case in all reception facilities in Serbia, there is no vulnerability assessment process upon the arrival to AC Vranje and thus, there are no State runed safeguards in place which can identify potential survivors of human trafficking.

E. Employment and education

1. Access to the labour market

The Asylum Act foresees that persons granted temporary protection are equal to foreigners with respect to the right to work and rights arising from employment and entrepreneurship.¹⁰⁷ The Employment of Foreigners Act (EFA) explicitly states that persons who have been granted temporary protection are to be issued personal work permits for the duration of that status.¹⁰⁸

Assistance is to be provided by the Commissariat for Refugees and Migrations and is to form part of every individual beneficiary of refugee status's integration plan (see General report – Content of international protection – Access to the labour market). Still, the CRM has not produced any integration plan in 2022, 2023, 2024 and 2025 regarding Ukrainian refugees. The assistance should include help gathering all the necessary documents for registration with the National Employment Service (NES), the recognition of foreign degrees, enrolling in additional education programmes and courses in line with labour market requirements and engaging in measures of active labour market policy.¹⁰⁹

What was also a positive legislative development in 2023 is the amendment of the EFA, which simplified access to labour market and abolished the issuance of working permits. Right to work now is guaranteed now for every asylum seeker after the expiry of 6 months only with the certificate of asylum request being submitted by the Asylum Office in a simple procedure, alongside EBS number certificate.¹¹⁰ The same is valid for people granted asylum who need to obtain EBS number certificate as well as the certificate of being granted asylum. Refugees and asylum seekers do not need to pay for fees anymore.¹¹¹ The same rule applies for applicant for temporary protection and those individuals granted temporary protection. These amendments in general have improved and simplified the access to the labour market.

In spite of the fact that, under the law, persons granted temporary protection in Serbia should not face significant challenges to access the labour market, finding employment is difficult in practice, especially bearing in mind the language barrier that exists between most of these persons and the local community.

It should be also kept in mind that support to access the labour market is solely provided by CSOs. In other words, State institutions still do not provide organised assistance to refugees for inclusion into the labour market, despite the provisions of the Integration Decree.¹¹² This is also the case for beneficiaries of temporary protection.

There are no specific measures which are different from those envisaged for persons granted asylum or asylum seekers. Beneficiaries of temporary protection have the same treatment as persons granted asylum and asylum seekers.

2. Access to education

The right to education is a constitutional right in Serbia further governed by a number of laws, primarily the Law on Basics of the Education System.¹¹³ Specific degrees of education are regulated by the Law on Primary Education,¹¹⁴ the Law on Secondary Education,¹¹⁵ and the Law on Higher Education.¹¹⁶

The Integration Decree foresees provides that the Commissariat for Refugees and Migrations shall assist those granted temporary protection to enter the educational system.¹¹⁷ The Commissariat is to assist child beneficiaries of temporary protection enrolled in pre-school, elementary and high-school education, as well as illiterate adults who are to be enrolled in adult literacy programmes in cooperation with the Ministry of Education. The assistance provided to children includes the provision of textbooks and educational material, assistance in having foreign degrees recognised, learning support and financial support for engaging in extracurricular activities.¹¹⁸

The Professional Instruction on the Inclusion of Refugee/Asylum Seeker Students in the Education System of Serbia further regulates access to education for refugee children.¹¹⁹ If the refugee children have proof of prior education, enrolment is made according to their age and level of education completed.¹²⁰ On the other hand, if they do not have any proof of prior education, enrolment is based on a test which aims to assess their level of knowledge.¹²¹ For each student, the school is required to develop a Support Plan that should include an adaptation and stress management programme, an intensive Serbian language programme, an individualised teaching activities programme, and an extracurricular activities programme.¹²²

Under the Law on Basics of the Education System, foreign nationals, stateless persons and persons applying for citizenship shall have a right to education on an equal footing and in the same manner as Serbian nationals.¹²³ The Asylum Act also guarantees the right to education of persons granted temporary protection.¹²⁴ A person granted temporary protection is entitled to preschool, primary, secondary and higher education under the same conditions as citizens of Serbia.¹²⁵

Primary school is free and mandatory, and underage beneficiaries are to be ensured access to education immediately, and no later than three months from the date of their application for temporary protection.¹²⁶ Secondary education is also free of charge but is not mandatory.

In 2022, a total of 66 Ukrainian children were enrolled in primary schools throughout Serbia.¹²⁷ For the 2022/2023 school year, 80 children were enrolled into elementary and secondary schools.¹²⁸ There was no data on the exact number of Ukrainian children enrolled in primary school in 2024 and 2025.

Ukrainian children face similar obstacles as other children from the refugee population due to the language barrier. These obstacles are addressed by different CSOs who assist these children better adapting to the school system of Serbia. There are no reported instances in which vulnerable children enjoying temporary protection have faced obstacles which require alternative arrangements.

The Integration Decree foresees Serbian language courses and courses of Serbian history, culture and constitutional order for persons recognised as refugees. Persons entitled to Serbian language courses are those who do not attend regular schools in Serbia, those who do, and persons older than 65. Persons not attending regular schools are entitled to 300 school periods of Serbian language classes during a single school year, while those engaging in businesses requiring university education may be provided with another 100 periods in a school year. Persons attending school have the right to be provided an additional 140 school periods of Serbian language classes, whereas those above 65 are provided with 200 school periods of Serbian language adapted to the needs of everyday communications. The courses may be provided at regular or foreign language schools, whereas the adapted Serbian language classes may likewise be provided by companies suggesting a suitable programme and capable of employing the required staff.¹²⁹ The classes are to be provided in the area where these persons reside, and if this is not possible, transport costs are to be covered by the Commissariat.

In 2021, with the help of the UNHCR office in Serbia, the ENRIC/NARIC Centre of the Qualification Agency of the Republic of Serbia joined the Council of Europe project of a European Qualification Passport for Refugees.¹³⁰ Two Ukrainian diplomas were recognised in 2022, while there is no available data for 2023 and 2024. According to the UNHCR office in Serbia, there were no recognized diplomas in 2025.

F. Social welfare

The Social Welfare Act (SWA) defines social welfare as an organised social activity of common interest which purpose is to provide assistance and strengthen individuals and families for an independent and productive life in society, as well as prevent the causes of, and eliminate, social exclusion.¹³¹ The Act defines Serbian citizens as beneficiaries of social welfare, but states that foreigners and stateless persons may also receive social welfare in line with the law and international agreements.¹³² This right is exercised through the provision of social protection services and material support.¹³³ The regulations on social welfare for persons seeking asylum or who have been granted asylum are within the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Labour, Employment, Veteran and Social Issues, which has enacted a Rulebook on Social Welfare for Persons Seeking or Granted Asylum (RSW).¹³⁴

Social welfare is provided under the same conditions as for asylum seekers and persons granted asylum. Social assistance is granted by local social welfare centres on which territory the beneficiary reported their residency (see General report – Content of international protection – Social welfare).¹³⁵

The request for social welfare is examined and decided upon by the social welfare centre with jurisdiction over the municipality in which the beneficiary resides.¹³⁶ Once granted, the conditions for benefitting from social welfare are re-examined by the social welfare centre on an annual basis. The second instance body is the Minister responsible for social affairs.¹³⁷

The Asylum Act and RSW do not recognise the actual needs of persons granted temporary protection as a member of a particularly underprivileged group. The main reason for this claim lies in the fact that beneficiaries who are accommodated in Asylum Centres and who do not have sufficient means of livelihood are not eligible for social allowances.

Beneficiaries of temporary protection did not receive social allowances in 2022, 2023, 2024 and 2025.

G. Health care

The Asylum Act prescribes that the right to healthcare is guaranteed to all persons granted temporary protection and that all costs of health care are covered by the State.¹³⁸ Additionally, foreigners' health care is also governed by the Health Care Act (HCA)¹³⁹ and the Health Insurance Act (HIA)¹⁴⁰ as well as the Rulebook on the Terms and Procedure for Exercising the Right to Compulsory Health Insurance (RHI).¹⁴¹ HCA stipulates that refugees and asylum seekers, but also persons granted temporary protection, are entitled to health care under equal terms as Serbian nationals.¹⁴² In general, appropriate enjoyment of the right to health care depends on the assistance of relevant CSOs and International Organisations.¹⁴³

As is the case with refugees and asylum seekers, the HIA and RHI do not specify further the rights of beneficiaries of temporary protection. Thus, the HIA does not recognise beneficiaries of temporary protection referred to in the Asylum Act as a separate category of beneficiaries for insurance purposes.¹⁴⁴ The same conclusion can be drawn in relation to the Serbian Health Insurance Act.¹⁴⁵ Hence, beneficiaries of temporary protection are not entitled to compulsory health insurance and issuance of health insurance cards.¹⁴⁶ They can obtain them only if they pay 5,607 dinars per month (slightly more than 300 EUR annually). Of course, employed persons granted temporary protection obtain health care insurance from their employers, but the problem arises mainly for those beneficiaries of the TP who are unofficially unemployed.

Like beneficiaries of international protection, beneficiaries of temporary protection face numerous obstacles in local health care centres due to their plastic ID cards, the language barrier and the fact that employees in health centres are not familiar with this category of persons. This requires continuous assistance of CSOs, but also CRM and even Mol.
